The National Consorium for Black Profesional Development, a non-profit educational organization le sted in Louisville, Kentacky, is convening its fifth annual conference in Norfolk, Virginia, May 14-17. Focusing on the "Emphasis on Youth," this year's event has two major components: (1) the organization's fourth Annual National Student Science and Engineering Competition and (2) a Science Symposium.

The Competition was first organized as an ongoing project when NCBPD officials came to the realization that Black science-oriented youth were not participating in existing science fairs and competitions at the local, state and/or regional and national levels. This lack of participation was due to a variety of factors, but there is no doubt that the serious dearth of Black scientists and engineers who could serve as successful role models for science-gifted Black youngsters was crucial. Another factor, many observers felt, was the small number of Blackowned manufacturing and engineering firms nationwide which could spearhead an increase in the pool of Black scientists and engineers by offering employment in these The NCBPD's fields. Competition, therefore, was organized dramatize involvement with science and engineer-Black among youngsters and, thus hopefully to cause a significant increase in the overall pool of Black scientists and engineers by the year 2000. In this year's Competition, science projects will be judged in seven (7) categories, including:

Agricultural, Animal and Nutrition Sciences
Applied Mathematics and Computer Science

Behavioral Science Biological, Life and Marine Sciences Engineering Health Sciences

Physical, Earth, and

Atmospheric Sciences In addition to certificates, field trips, various plaques and trophies, and other prizes of value, cash awards will be presented to the top fees will be charged to winners in each category visitors. Ms. Jean W. Hill, the NSSC Coordinator, has in the following amounts:

Quick-Mix Pie Sets Trend

Streamline pie making with a Frozen Banana Pie made the quick-mix way. Ease of preparation, little cleanup speed the time until serving this smooth-textured, refreshing dessert. Ingredients for most quick-mix pies are almost always on hand, especially Birds Eye Cool Whip non-dairy whipped topping, which makes these pies possible. In just 30 seconds, the blender combines cream cheese, sugar, milk and bananas. After the mixture is folded into thawed frozen whipped topping, it's spooned into a baked graham cracker crust and whisked into the freezer. Garnish with chocolate-dipped banana slices. Leftover pie, with garnish removed, stores well in the freezer, that is if pie lovers don't devour it at first glance.

2 medium ripe bananas, cut in chunks 1 container (8 oz.) frozen whipped topping, thawed 1 baked 9-inch graham cracker crumb crust, cooled

Combine cream cheese, sugar, milk and bananas in electric blender container. Cover and blend at medium speed for 30 seconds or until smooth. Fold into whipped topping. Spoon into crust. Freeze until firm, about 4 hours. Let stand at room temperature 5 minutes (or longer for softer texture) before cutting. Store any leftover pie in freezer. Garnish with chocolate-dipped banana slices, if desired.

For garnish, dip 1/2-inch banana slices in 1 square semi-sweet chocolate, melted.
