I Looked and I Saw
Love Endurance
by Rev. C. R. Stone

Why is it that the God whom we acknowledge allows evil to persist throughout His world of love? It must be well proclaimed wherein amid evil God is an invisible force of love far greater than men's power and might. God has within His rights patience to endure evil thus giving sinners and saints chances to receive salvation. He has power to retain His love personality as long as there may be a possible chance for man's repentance.

It may truly be observed by all wherein God is not likened unto men to execute quick judgment toward those who persist with evil. For example, there are Christians among us who are eager for God to punish sinners by inducing them to quick death decisions. These are they who possess short while ago they were sinners receiving His mercies. Herein we acknowledge that God is not an emotional personality of spirit to respond to all evil requests brought to His attention. Any situation involving evil which we may deem dangerous to our lives is well under control if God intends to preserve us. The truth of the idea here is simple in that God will not execute judgment to destroy peoples nor things until He has long endured enough evil. Love endurance has the divine power to suffer as long as need be in order that the greater good on sinners and saints is accomplished.

He who hath ears to hear, let him hear.
