Monday, Dec. 8.

Plastic Surgery For Men — Women are still a plastic surgeon's best customers, but more and more men are discovering that a new face can be the start of a new outlook on life. PMM takes a before-and-after look at a Wisconsin man's surgery, discovers how plastic surgery changed his attitude about himself, and views the future of plastic surgery for men.

Home Dept: Chef Tell prepares vichyssoise, a leek and potato soup.

Self Dept: Dr. Jim Wasco has a body quiz on temperature-taking.

Discovery Dept: Linda Harris visits Disney World on her Florida escape.

Sixteen-Year-Old Tarantula Tycoon — John Browning is a New Jersey 16-year-old young man whose hobby of keeping tarantulas as pets has made him a tarantula tycoon. John's spiders have become celebrities, in demand for fashion advertisements and guarding jewelry store windows. PMM finds out what John's family thinks about living with over twenty tarantulas in their home.

Tuesday, Dec. 9

Doctor to Dwarfs — Dr. Steven Kopits is a doctor to dwarfs, and his incredible devotion and sensitivity to their special medical problems has made him a hero to little people around the world. Many dwarfs suffer from bone and muscle deformities that can worsen with time, but early treatment is helping to prevent tragic crippling and allows the dwarfs to lead normal lives. PMM meets Dr. Kopits and some of his young patients and witnesses the dramatic differences the doctor has made in their lives.

Home Dept: Jerry Baker has advice for making holiday greenery fireproof.

Self Dept: Capt. Carrot looks at the most stressful day of the week.

Discovery Dept: Linda Harris spends another day at exciting Disney World.

Living on Love & Pretzels — Peg Trotter is the pretzel queen of Philadelphia. When the family pretzel business was left without a leader, she took to pretzel-making with the same vigor and enthusiasm that helped her raise sixteen children. Today her large and loving family is 100% behind their pretzel-making mom, and PMM discovers that love and pretzels make a winning recipe for a happy family when we meet the Trotter clan.

Wednesday, Dec. 10

Cash for Trash — Tossed-out newspapers and discarded boxes aren't trash to Neil Neilson, they are as good as gold. Neil has found a way to turn trash into cash, and his recycling empire could net him as much as a quarter million dollars a year. PMM spends a day with the recycling king of Tacoma, Washington, and finds out how a lucrative business can be built from a brilliantly simple idea.

Home Dept: Chef Tell shows an unusual way to make beans more interesting.

Self Dept: Dr. Jim Wasco looks at a medical advance for treating strokes.

Discovery Dept: The Secret Shopper gives more shopping clues. (local)

America's Favorite Game — "Monopoly" is an astonishing success story that led to the Parker Brothers game empire. Almost 100 years after "Monopoly's" invention, Parker Brothers is still creating some of the country's most popular pastimes, and the tradition is still carried on by members of the Parker family. PMM goes behind-the-scenes at the "Monopoly" factory for a fascinating look at what goes into the making of the games we love to play.

Thursday, Dec. 11

Drugstores can be hazardous to your health — Americans spend about $16 billion a year on prescription and over-the-counter drugs. But Durham pharmacologist Joe Graedon says a lot of that money is wasted. Joe and PMM's Tom McNamary visit a pharmacy and discuss what to buy and what not to buy in drugstores. We'll also get a look at Joe's personal life and see that he has some most unusual theories on child-rearing.

Home Dept: Chef Tell prepares a German dish with leftover beans.

Self Dept: Judi Missett shows an easy and fun jazzercise dance step.

Discovery Dept: Joyce Kulhawik discovers what's hot in toys for the holidays.

Dial-A-Mom — For most parents, the thrill of bringing home a first-born baby is unlike any other in the world, but when diapering, tantrums, and two o'clock feedings set in, the thrill can turn into a nightmare of confusion and doubt. Now parents in many cities are getting help and support with "Dial-A-Mom" services that offer telephone reassurance and advice. PMM finds out why a hometown "hotline" in Ohio has made motherhood a lot easier.

Friday, Dec. 12

Robert Stack Comes Back — His license plate reads "UNCHBL" and while actor Robert Stack is probably best known for his long-time portrayal of Eliot Ness on the hit series "The Untouchables," he's now sampling a new kind of stardom following his role in the smash film "Airplane." PMM visits Stack at his southern California home in Bel Air and finds out about his sudden renewed stardom and his skill at skeet shooting.

Home Dept: Jerry Baker shows how to make Christmas trees safe for holidays.

Self Dept: Captain Carrot has a suggestion for keeping hands warm in cold weather.

Discovery Dept: Joan Embery introduces another exotic animal from the San Diego Zoo, the anteater.

Stevie Wows Greensboro Audience

By J. Leon Peace

The Wonderman overwhelmed his Greensboro audience Sunday night with what has to have been one of the most soul-stirring performances ever. Moving freely through his various compositions, the tightly arranged band followed Stevie Wonder's lead. As if guided by some strange supernatural power, Stevie Wonder reached into his bag and pulled out an exciting mix of songs — combining the old with the new.

At one point, after a medley of "Boogie On Reggae Woman," "Superstition" and "Let's Get Serious," the crowd seemed ready to explode with energy.

The man of many wonders easily mellowed the mood with a moving rendition of his new hit song, "You". It was the casual flow between deeply moving ballads and hard and heavy rock that added to the excitement of the evening. The crowd was in Stevie's hands.

When asked to sing along, the entire Greensboro Coliseum responded, old and young, adding interesting harmonies and incomparable force to the concert. When the crowd began to shout, in unison, "STEVIE", he quieted them to a hush with a word and a waive of his hand saying, "The man is trying to tell me something and I can't hear if you all keep [making noise]". With that, Stevie Wonder was made an honorary Tarheel and presented with a plaque.

It was clear to even the uninitiated that the crowd loved Stevie and that that love was reflected to the audience. In closing, Stevie invited all who are able to join him to come to Washington, D.C., on January 15, 1981 to celebrate the birthday of Martin Luther King and to help demonstrate to Congress the need for this day to be set aside as a national holiday. The man of many wonders concluded the concert with an audience participation sing-along of his latest song, dedicated to Martin Luther King's birthday, "Happy Birthday to You" and a tribute to Third World music called "Master Blaster Jam."
