A Mexicali Tailgate Party

For some people, the best part of football season is tailgating . . . those festive picnics that take place in stadium parking lots before football games. Amid all the excitement of a college or pro game, tailgating has become a tradition in many areas across the country. People even have at-home tailgate parties before watching a game on TV.

Whether you're a veteran at tailgating or planning your first party, a key element is to have plenty of good food on hand, especially if you're invaded by "nibblers" from other groups. For added fun, plan a theme around your gathering. Have a Mexican fiesta tailgate complete with Tacos made with the snappy flavor of Kraft barbecue sauce. Keep the filling hot in a wide mouth thermos, and pack the toppers in separate air-tight containers. Round out the menu with other Mexican favorites and enjoy a "make-your-own" feast.

Brightly colored plates, napkins and tablecloths give the fiesta south of the border appeal. Just be sure to get in your seats before kick-off time!

Tacos

1 lb. ground beef
3/4 cup Kraft barbecue sauce
1/4 cup water

1/2 cup chopped onion
1 tablespoon chili powder
10-12 tortillas
Oil
Chopped tomatoes
Shredded lettuce
Kraft sharp natural cheddar cheese, shredded

Brown meat; drain. Stir in barbecue sauce, water, onion and chili powder. Simmer 10 minutes, stirring occasionally. Fry tortillas in hot oil until tender. Fold in half. Continue frying until crisp; drain. Fill each with meat mixture. Top with tomatoes, lettuce and cheese.
