Menu Maker: Nutty Stuffed Vegetables

At the frozen food section in supermarkets there are a number of convenience foods labeled "side dishes" that can turn the humblest vegetable into an entree, or a one dish meal. They make fine stuffing for tomatoes, bell peppers, zucchini, acorn squash, eggplant and whatever else that can be stuffed. For an extra flourish, add nuts to the filling, garnish, and you boost taste, appearance and nutritive value, too.

Many such recipes are included in "The Nut Cookbook" now available from Planters, which suggests ways nuts enhance a wide variety of dishes. Since most consumers associate nuts with desserts and sweets, the cookbook places emphasis on vegetable, entree and bread recipes, pointing out how nuts may be used to boost texture and flavor in dishes ranging from soup to desserts.

Premium quality nuts available in cello bags that hold the right amount for many recipes. For persons on special diets, some varieties of Planters nuts are available unsalted as well as salted, and they come in halves, pieces, chopped, slivered, etc. Nutty Stuffed Vegetables can be assembled in a matter of minutes—a very practical way to use convenience foods today, and a challenge to mix and match flavors and textures. Here are two recipes to get you started.

Tomatoes Stuffed with Spinach Souffle: Thaw a package of frozen spinach souffle. Scoop out 6 medium size tomatoes. Add ½ cup Planters slivered almonds to thawed souffle and spoon into tomatoes. Sprinkle with Parmesan cheese and more slivered almonds and bake at 350° F. for 20 to 30 minutes. Serves 6.

Acorn Squash Stuffed with Escalloped Apples: Thaw package of frozen escalloped apples. Halve 2 acorn squash, lengthwise; scrape out seeds and stringy pulp. In a deep, large skillet bring ½ inch of water to a boil. Add squashes, cut side down. Cover. Turn heat to simmer and cook squash until almost tender, about 20 minutes.
