

J. McClendon To Hold Annual MEAC Clinic

WINSTON-SALEM—Recent Hall of Fame inductee, John McClendon, and former National Basketball Association standout, Willis Reed, will conduct a workshop and skills clinic at the 10th annual Mid-Eastern Athletic Conference basketball tournament at the Winston-Salem Coliseum.

The clinic begins at 1:30 p.m. on Friday March 6 with all area male and female teams invited to attend. In addition to demonstrating basketball skills and drills, McClendon, presently a national sales representative with the Converse Rubber Company, will show a highlight film and test the individual basketball knowledge of all participants.

John McClendon is generally recognized as one of the greatest minds ever in the sport of basketball," said MEAC Commissioner, Ken Free. "McClendon, along with the Converse Rubber Company, has sponsored the clinic prior to our opening round for the past few years and each year interest and participation among the future stars of our league increases.

"Willis Reed, probably the most celebrated member of the New York Knicks, along with McClendon, will provide the youngsters in attendance this year with an unlimited wealth of information about the game of basketball." The clinic will last about an hour and a half and will be followed by the opening round games of the conference championships. This season's MEAC Tournament will receive an automatic bid to the NCAA National Tournament and the chance to compete for the coveted championship.

James Terry—Howard's Enforcer And Leader of 'Dunk Patrol'

Donnie R. Tuck It has often been said that when center James Terry comes to play, the Howard basketball team is unstoppable. Well, "J. T." has come to play in every game this season, and although the team's 8-5 record is far from perfect, still, Terry's individual effort has given the squad renewed belief in its invincibility.

A 6-11, 220-pound junior, Terry's only shortcoming may be his "failure" to live up to expectations of others. As a freshman, he appeared in just nine contests, scoring seven points and collecting 10 rebounds, while playing behind the Bison's all-conference center.

Last season, Terry was thrust into a starting role along with four teammates.

who had never played together previously. The result: a strong start, a rollercoaster mid-season and seven consecutive victories, a finish that culminated in Howard winning the Mid-Eastern Athletic Conference regular season championships. Through 28 games (Howard was 21-7), Terry led the team in field goal percentage, connecting on 58.2 percent of his shots, and averaged 6.6 points and 5.9 rebounds per outing.

At times, he flashed brilliance: 16 pts. and 14 rebs. against George Mason, 15-13 Jackson State and 20-11 versus Delaware State. There was also his perfect night against Southern in which he did not miss a shot

Behind The Mask

Philadelphia Eagles wide receiver Charlie Smith displays a rather awesome look with his wired up mouth. Smith broke his jaw in the last regular season game, but played against the Oakland Raiders in Super Bowl XV in New Orleans Sunday.

Super Bowl Goes To Oakland

Larry Barber After all the preparations, after all the predictions, after the parties and hoopla, after all was said, and after it was all done; the Oakland Raiders had outscored the Philadelphia Eagles 27-10 to win the 1981 annual Super Bowl game, and crowned world champions by National Football League Commissioner Pete Rozelle last Sunday night in the New Orleans Superdome.

The Vince Lombardi Trophy was presented by the commissioner to managing owner Al Davis, who is currently in a bitter court battle with Rozelle for the right to move his Raider club to the city of Los Angeles.

Well, no matter how that turns out, Oakland settled the football game issue Sunday by charging the Eagles for trespassing; convicting them, then sentencing them with three touchdowns passes, and three interceptions.

Most Valuable Player Jim Plunkett threw scoring passes of two yards to wide receiver Cliff Branch and 80 yards (a new Super Bowl record) to runningback Kenny King in the first period; then hit Branch with a 29 yarder in the third quarter. That one made the score 21-3, Tony Franklin having connected on a 30-yard field goal in the second stanza. Chris Bahr upped that lead to 24-3 with a 46-yard field goal before Ron Jaworski found tight end Keith Kreple on an eight-yard scoring strike early in the fourth. Bahr concluded the mathematics mid-way of that final period with a 35-yard field goal.

For the game, Oakland had 17 first downs, rushed 34 times for 117 yards, had no turnovers, and five penalties for only 37 yards. Philadelphia recorded 19 first downs, only 69 yards on 26 rushes, turned the ball over four times, and was assessed 57 yards on six penalties.

Individually, Oakland's Mark van Eeghen had 80 yards on 19 carries, King 6-18, Branch caught five passes for 67 yards, Bob Chandler four for 77, and King two for 93.

Philadelphia's leaders were Wilbert Montgomery with 44 yards on 16 tries, 91 yards on six receptions, Harold Carmichael with 83 yards on five catches, and Charles Smith with two receptions good for 59 yards.

Philly coach Dick Vermeil admitted they were soundly beaten and the credit should go to Oakland, and Raider coach Tom Flores said, "I knew we could do it."

Now the bookies, the bettors, and the predicting experts, who are still shaking their heads, will go back to the chalk board and try again next season.

By the way, the world champions were picked to lose all four of their post-season games.

Not only did they beat the odds but added another title their history, having won the eleventh Super Bowl in 1977 over Minnesota 32-14. They tied Dallas for Super Bowls won, but still trail Pittsburgh, a four-time winner.

Jaworski, who threw only 12 interceptions during the regular season, was good on 18 of 38 passes for 291 yards, but he had three stolen; all by one man. That man—Rod Martin, a four-year linebacker who said the performance was the greatest of his career.

Plunkett, a former Heisman Trophy recipient, who had fallen on hard times and entertained thoughts of retiring, got his second chance of redemption five games into the 1980 season when Dan Pastorini went down with an injury. He quarterbacked Oakland to nine victories in 11 contests after a 2-3 start, then won playoff games against Houston, 27-7, Cleveland, 14-12, and San Diego 34-27 to reach the Super Bowl. On Sunday, he was true on 13 of 21 passes for 261 yards and completely frustrated the Eagle defenders.

For the game, Oakland had 17 first downs, rushed 34 times for 117 yards, had no turnovers, and five penalties for only 37 yards. Philadelphia recorded 19 first downs, only 69 yards on 26 rushes, turned the ball over four times, and was assessed 57 yards on six penalties.
