NEW YORK—With Nets around his neck, Tulsa's Greg Stewart holds trophy above his head after the Hurricanes won the NIT by defeating Syracuse 86-84.

350 Expected To Run In Women's Race

WINSTON-SALEM — The YWCA has set May 9 as the date for its third annual L'eggs/YWCA 10,000 meter run for women.

Nearly 350 women from throughout the state are expected to line up near Hanes Park for the 9 a.m. start, said Ms. Barbara Long, YWCA race publicity director.

The 6.2 mile run, sponsored by the Winston-Salem YWCA and Winston-Salem based L'eggs Products, is open to women of all ages, from first-time competitors to seasoned racers. Information and entry forms are available by mail or in person at the YWCA, 1201 Glade St., Winston-Salem, NC 27101, or phone (919) 722-5138. Entry fee is $4; $5 after May 6, with all proceeds donated to the YWCA.

Last year's event drew some 225 competitors. School teacher Jeannie Eldridge outpaced the field last year with a personal best time of 39 minutes, 17 seconds. Her win last May earned her a trip to New York a few weeks later to compete with nearly 5,500 women in the L'eggs Mini Marathon, the largest event of its kind. In New York, Ms. Eldridge finished 67th overall, in 38.45.

Top finishers in five age divisions will receive prizes, and the overall winner will again get a free trip to compete in the L'eggs Mini Marathon, set for May 30 this year. A field of nearly 6,000 women is expected for the event, which celebrates ten years of women's road racing.

The Winston-Salem race is part of a national series of road races for women sponsored by L'eggs and held with the cooperation of local YWCA's.

East-West Cage Classic Sat.

WICHITA — The final rosters are set for the East and West college all-star teams in the 10th annual Pizza Hut Basketball Classic. The charity game will be televised nationally April 4 by CBS Sports from the Las Vegas Convention Center.

Four college seniors have been added to the East team, to be coached by Denny Crum of Louisville. They are: Roger Burkman of Louisville, Frank Edwards of Cleveland State, Wayne McKoy of St. John's and Elston Turner of Mississippi.

Four players were added to the West team, to be directed by former UCLA coach Larry Brown. They are: Charles Bradley of Wyoming, Tom Chambers of Utah, Eddie Johnson of Illinois and Alton Lister of Arizona State.

Turner, who has played in more games (113) than any other player in Ole Miss history, is the school's second all-time leading scorer and rebounder. Burkman was the only senior player for the defending NCAA champion Cardinals.

Edwards, who set single season (664) and career (2,235) scoring records at Cleveland State, has been acclaimed by his school as "best player ever to wear a Viking uniform." McKoy ranks sixth on St. John's all-time scoring list.

Bradley, who ranks second in Wyoming career scoring, has been named to the Western Athletic Conference first team three straight years. Chambers was Utah's leading scorer last season and an outstanding rebounder.

Elizabeth City Prepares To Host Hall of Fame Banquet

ELIZABETH CITY — Momentum is gathering in northeastern North Carolina as preparations get underway for hosting the much-coveted 1980 Induction Banquet for the North Carolina Sports Hall of Fame on Friday, April 10, at 7:30 p.m., at Elizabeth City State University.

Jethro Pugh, 14-year Dallas Cowboy veteran and an ECSU alumnus from Windsor, heads up the list of five inductees.

Previously named players to the team, elected by nationwide balloting were:

East — Jeff Lamp of Virginia, Mike McGee of Michigan, Ray Tolbert of Indiana, Kelly Tripucka of Notre Dame, Herb Williams of Ohio State and Al Wood of North Carolina.

West — Rolando Blackman of Kansas State, Clyde Bradshaw of DePaul, Lewis Lloyd of Drake, Rudy Macklin of Louisville State University, Darnell Valentine of Kansas.

Also elected to the Classic teams, but unable to play, were Gene Banks of Duke, Albert King of Maryland, Danny Ainge of Brigham Young University and Steve Johnson of Oregon State.

Eleven players are on teams which were in the final 16 in the NCAA tournament and final eight of the NIT tournament.

Paying homage to this native son, coupled with attainment of the prestigious event for the eastern area of the state away from the metropolitan centers of the Piedmont, has accelerated support throughout the area and prospects for a near-capacity attendance of 800 to 1,000 persons at the Vaughan Athletic Center, where the banquet will be hosted.

"The town is extremely pleased to have the induction banquet here," said Mayor John Bell, a member of the induction banquet committee of area leaders under committee chairmanship of ECSU Coach Thomas L. Caldwell. "This will mean a lot to Elizabeth City, for it's the first time we've had anything like this here. Jethro Pugh went to college here and I'm glad he will receive the award here. The induction banquet will bring statewide recognition to Elizabeth City and all eastern North Carolina."

Named for induction into the present 72-member sports hall of fame are, in addition to Pugh, Smith Barrier, sports editor of the Greensboro Daily News from 1944 to 1980; Dale Morey of High Point, who has won almost 300 golf tournaments, including the Southern Amateur in 1960, and played on two Walker Cup teams and two World Cup teams; Pat Preston of Thomasville, a starting guard for the Chicago Bears from 1946 through 1950, an All-Southern tackle for Wake Forest in 1940-41-42, an All-American at Duke in 1943, coach and athletic director at Wake Forest from 1951 to 1955; and, posthumously, Johnny Mackorell of Morganton, who was an All-American and considered by scouts to be the finest quarterback in the nation his senior year at Davidson, played one year with the New York Giants and served ten years as coach and athletic director at Lees-McRae College.

They join the roster of North Carolina's sports heroes.

Five-foot photographs of the new inductees will be presented at the induction ceremony.

Similar photographs of the full membership will line the walls of the expansive Vaughan Center — including Jim (Catfish) Hunter of Hertford, Charlie (Choo-Choo) Justice, Clarence (Bighouse) Johnny Palmer, Richard Petty, and Enos Slaughter, to name a few.

Serving as master of ceremonies and inductor will be Charlie Harvell, sports director of WFMY-TV in Greensboro and longtime ACC basketball announcer. The format of the banquet, according to J.S. (Bill) Jessup of Wilson, president of the NCSHF board, is to have one person responsible for introducing all of the inductees and who will recognize others of the 72 members attending. A video-tape on highlights in the lives of the inductees has been prepared by Bob Wills of Raleigh, member of the NCSHF board.

Tickets are priced at $10 each and may be obtained by writing to Elizabeth City Chamber of Commerce, P.O. Box 426, Elizabeth City.

Corporate tables are available to organizations and firms who wish to be listed as sponsors of the induction banquet in the printed program for the inflated price of $200. All costs for the induction ceremony are paid through proceeds of ticket sales.

CHARLIE SIFFORD TO PLAY IN THE LIBERTY MUTUAL TOURNAMENT APRIL 25-26 ON NBC-TV

NEW YORK — Charlie Sifford has been invited to play in the fourth annual Liberty Mutual Legends of Golf Tournament. The $410,000 event will be televised live from Austin, Texas on April 25-26 over the NBC-TV network.

The Legends is an invitational tournament for senior golfers (over the age of 50) who have won major tournaments or were top money winners. Sifford qualified for The Legends when he won the PGA Seniors.

The 58 year old Sifford has been playing the pro circuit for over twenty years. He is a five time winner of the Negro National Open, and has been winning tournaments since he took the prize in the 1957 Long Beach Open.

On the green since he was nine, Sifford began
