Chapel Hill & Orange Seniors Honored By Deltas

CHAPEL HILL — Twenty-two graduating seniors from The Chapel Hill Senior High School and Orange High School received honor and recognition certificates during the May Week Observance of the Chapel Hill-Carrboro Area Alumnae Chapter of Delta Sigma Theta Sorority on Sunday, May 3, at Hargraves Recreation Center.

May Week, initiated in 1921 in Delta Sigma Theta, is a national, annual activity of the sorority set aside to focus attention on the importance of education, particularly for minority people.

Five community people, scholars and educators, addressed the theme, "Invest In Education: A Challenge For The 80's", to a capacity crowd of 125 people. Speakers for the program were Mrs. Edith Elliott, school board member for Chapel Hill-Carrboro Schools; James Brittain, administrative assistant for Joint Orange-Chatham Community Action, Inc.; Harold C. Wallace, vice chancellor for University Affairs, UNC-CH; Miss Kimberly Jo Battle, 1981 Morehead Scholar and Presidential Scholar from Hillside High School, Durham; and Dr. Pamela Mayer, superintendent of Chapel Hill-Carrboro Schools.

Honor and recognition certificates were presented in five categories — leadership, academic achievement, community service, extracurricular participation, creativity and initiative.

Leadership awards for Chapel Hill Senior High School students went to Miss JoAnn Atwater, Miss Constance Alston, Miss Dianna Hackley, Keith Morehead; and Orange High School students Ernest Baylor and Miss Desiree Smith.

Misses Dianna Hackley, Jennyfer Royster, Joann Atwater and Keith Nickens of Chapel Hill Senior High; Misses Desiree Smith, Sandra Kenion, Angela Ellison, Shandra Breeze, and Michael Davis of Orange High received academic achievement awards.

Community service awards went to Miss Letitia Jones of Chapel Hill Senior High and Miss Desiree Smith of Orange High.

In the category of extracurricular participation, awards went to Barry Griffin, Misses Donna Atwater, Constance Alston, Carolyn Bell and Rhonda Jackson of Chapel Hill Senior High; and Miss Desiree Smith of Orange High.

Misses Kokethia Edwards, Karlene Scott, Valencia Jones and Rhonda Jackson, and Keith Morehead, Eugene Atwater and Steve Caldwell of CHSHS and Miss Desiree Smith of Orange High, received recognition for creativity and initiative.

Mmes. Ethel Jackson and Erma Smith were chairmen of May Week.

Rho Chapter, Iota Phi Lambda Observes Sisterhood Week

Members of Rho Chapter, Iota Phi Lambda Sorority recently observed "Sisterhood Week" by worshipping together at the 8 o'clock morning service at St. Joseph's AME Church. Following the service, they enjoyed fellowship and a scrumptious breakfast at the home of Mrs. Lorraine Weaver.

Mmes. Olivia Weaver, Helen Pressley, Adeline Spaulding, Emily Cogwell and Denina Austin were welcomed by members of Rho into their sisterhood following initiation services April 26 at the home of Mrs. Ruby Bolden. Mrs. Mable Butler, Dean of Pledges, and Ms. Margaret Coleman, assistant, directed the activities.

Rho Chapter made a pledge of $500 to the Lincoln Community Health Center fund drive and $25 to the United Negro College Fund.

The Founder's Day Banquet will be held in June at a local restaurant. Ms. Coleman is chairman.

The hostesses, Mmes. Juliette Cooper, Ruby Bolden and Eula Harris, served a lovely repast carrying out the sorority colors of green and white, to the newly inducted members and Mmes. Mary Pamplin, Vivian Gates, Ruth Bolden, Lorraine Weaver, Helen Jones, Helen Chavious, Birdie Bates, Bernice Ingram, Julia Henderson, Otelia Stewart, Hazeline Rempson, Lucille Baines., Phyllis Shumate, Evelyn Thorpe, Barbara Avant, Marion Spaulding, Omeda Livingston, Laura Bruce, Margaret Coleman and Mable Butler. The occasion was concluded with everyone joining in the singing of the sorority song.

Williams Family Circle Holds Meeting and Reunion

Jessie and Fannie Horton of 605 Elmira Avenue were the hosts for the monthly meeting of the Williams Family Circle on May 7. Plans were completed for the annual family reunion that is held each Mother's Day.

The activities for the weekend began with a party on Friday night at the home of Barbara and Charles Haywood Lassiter on Peppercorn Street. Saturday's activities included a skating party for the children at noon, a cookout and fish fry in the afternoon at the home of Rader Prince in Chatham County and a dance Saturday night at the Elks Lodge.

On Sunday morning the family worshipped at New Hope Baptist Church in Wake County where Dr. Marcus Ingram is the pastor. During the weekend, members of the family visited the Williams Family Cemetery and decorated the graves of their loved ones.

Rae Bennett, Faydean and Theophilus Richardson and Julia and Donnie Dowdy also entertained members the high school." She was accompanied to Little Rock by Miss Payne. During their stay in the city, they visited Central High, scene of the racial violence that erupted on September 23, 1957 when the nine youngsters entered the all-white school.

President Dwight Eisenhower ordered Federal troops into Little Rock to escort the children, and to put down the disturbances. Mrs. Bates, who was then president of the Arkansas State Branches of the NAACP, was the leader in the long, legal battle to integrate Little Rock schools. She and her husband, the late L.C. Bates, were publishers of the Arkansas State Press, a weekly newspaper.

Upon her return from Little Rock, MMISS Haynes reported on her impressions of the trip at the two-day conference, "Mass Communications: Towards the Year 2000," sponsored by the department. Dr. Marcia Clinkscales, acting chairman of Mass Communications, said, "We felt this should not be a routine presentation of an award."

"When we learned that Mrs. Bates could not come, I said immediately, let's go to her. Through Gillie's eyes and the experience of our writer-in-residence, Miss Ethel Payne, it was possible to reconstruct a very important time in the history of black people in this country."

Among the participants in the conference were Dr. Cecil W. Cone, president of Edward Waters College in Jacksonville, Florida, and Mrs. Ruth Campbell, executive producer at the Mississippi Educational Television Network. Also honored during the conference were Christine and Jay Harrison of Northwestern University at Evanston, Ill. He is assistant dean of the School of Journalism and Mrs. Harris directs the Consortium
