

NCCU Law Graduates Win Prizes

Two North Carolina Central University Law School graduates have been notified that their papers on copyright law have been entered in the national Nathan Burkan Memorial Competition conducted by the American Society of Composers, Authors, and Publishers.

Ms. Michelle V. Rippon was the first-place winner in the NCCU competition and Ms. Rebecca S. Jenkins was NCCU's second-place winner. Their papers were sent to the national competition as winners from their law school, and will be judged against other local competition winners.

Both received their Juris Doctor degrees from NCCU School of Law in May. Ms. Rippon, who holds two bachelor's degrees from Canada's Dalhousie University and a master's degree from North Carolina State University, was a cum laude graduate. Ms. Jenkins holds a bachelor of arts degree from Brigham Young University.

While attending law school, Ms. Rippon resided on Route 3, Apex, and Ms. Jenkins in Southern Pines.

Ms. Rippon's paper, "The STV Dilemma: After Betamax and Other Considerations," won her prize of $500 as the first-place paper entered in the NCCU phase of the competition. Ms. Jenkins' paper, "Universal City Studios, Inc., v. Sony Corporations: Where Do We Go From Here?," won a $200 second prize.

The 1981 academic year was the first in which NCCU students entered the competition, which offers the local and national awards for outstanding papers in the field of copyright law.

grances with such sweet scents as vanilla or balsam and are usually accentuated by animal odors like musk or civet.

Still other groups include herbal - clover and sweet grass and the leather-tobacco group which includes the scents of leather, tobacco and the smokiness of birch tar. One more, the aldehydic group, usually has a "fruity" character.

How Perfumes Are Duplicated
As a result of advances in organic chemistry, science is able to identify the constituents of perfume oils and match the active ingredients to synthesize perfumes.

However, identifying the ingredients is only part of the puzzle in duplicating designer fragrances. The ingredients must be blended to match the fragrances of the great perfumes.

Beginning with the basic scent, a single elegant perfume may have several dozen different ingredients. The perfumer blends together those which culminate in a specific fragrance - and this may take months, even years, of delicate and subliminal changes in a basic formula before the desired scent is attained.

"However, for the consumer," says La Contrefait's Wilson, "the result is relatively inexpensive perfumes that capture the ultimate in designer fragrances at a fraction of their cost."

Ready for Sol?

Summer begins officially at 6:45 a.m. (EST) on Sunday, June 21 - a time for frosted lemonade and laziness in a hammock. Also, sunburn, insect stings, poison ivy.

You may be ready for the lemonade. But is your family's health insurance policy ready for the medical bills?
