MY INCREDIBLE GORILLA FAMILY: John Aspinall is a London gambling club owner, county gentleman, and backer of lost causes. His dream is the survival of the mountain gorilla, but the odds against him and them are overwhelming. There are 350 mountain gorillas left in the world today, 23 of them live with Aspinall in his backyard compound, and experts say there will be none left by the year 2000. So why does Aspinall do it? PMM travels to England to find out. Chef Tell reveals how to make delicious Cantonese chicken.

Paula Nelson reveals an easy way to pay less to the IRS.
COST CUTTING COOKOFF WINNER: We've been looking for your good cooking. In fact, we've been searching for the best cook in Eastern North Carolina. More than a thousand people submitted recipes for the Chef Tell Cost Cutting Cookoff — a contest to pick the best tasting, easiest to prepare, and least expensive main dish. The final judging is tonight and PMM's Susan Dahlin joins in the fun as we taste our way to a winner. Then we'll follow the lucky cook as she (or he) collects the grand prize: a month's worth of free groceries!
Tuesday, Dec. 8
I WRITE RACY ROMANCES:

America has fallen in love with romance, and romantic novels! Silhouette, Candlelight, Harlequin, Ecstasy — the book world stepchild has grown into a multi-million dollar business. But who writes these passion-filled novels? Tonight we'll meet Sandra Brown, one of the hottest romance writers around, and discover the real woman behind those steamy lines.
 Chef Tell reveals many different ways to use a "mellon ball scooper".
 Linda Harris discovers Barcelona, Spain.
SENTIMENTAL MARINE REUNION: Saipan, The Marshall Islands, Iwo Jima. Names that are etched in history. Nearly forty years ago, the U.S. Marine Corp's 4th Division fought the most furious battles of World War II here. Thousands died, but for the men who remain, the memories of hardship, teamwork, and exceptional bravery are still vivid. PMM attends a special, emotional reunion of the "Fighting 4th" in Philadelphia. Hear stories of courage and camaraderie that the years cannot erase.

Wednesday, Dec. 9
AMERICA'S CHEAPEST LAWYER: Need some good legal advice, real cheap? Talk to Ken Hur. He's the king of cut rate lawyers. Ken has made 80 tacky TV and radio commercials, hired a plane to fly a "call attorney Ken Hur" banner over football games, printed T-shirts, and even advertised a "no-frills will" on the side of a hearse he drives. His bargain basement legal clinic is bustling with business, and he only charges $10 for legal advice. While his antics amuse the public, the legal establishment is not laughing. Meet America's cheapest lawyer tonight.
 Maria Shriver discovers an animal doctor who makes housecalls to Beverly Hills.
 Dr. Marina Granich reveals how telling a joke can help you cope.
TAMMY WYNETTE'S SOAP OPERA LIFE: Tammy Wynette is the first lady of country music. With over a dozen gold and platinum records, and 35 major music awards, it seems everything she touches turns to gold. But life hasn't always been this good for Tammy. Her life has been like a real life soap opera, including two broken marriages, poverty, a kidnapping attempt, and poor health.

Friday, Dec. 11
THE LITTLEST COWBOY: The song says, "Momma, don't let your babies grow up to be cowboys," but at the 4th Annual Pee Wee Rodeo in La Belle, Florida, the babies already are cowboys. The littlest one is nine-year-old Dwayne Hicks. He's 47 inches tall, and needs a ladder to climb on a horse. But look out, because he isn't afraid to ride a wild bronco, or take a spill off of a raging bull.
 Joan Embery discovers spectacular, man-made environments that "fool" zoo animals into feeling at home.
 Marty Matthews makes a cute and useful bath mitt for a Christmas stocking stuffer.

THE WORLD'S WEIRDEST CAR: When Norm Latta drives around downtown Toledo, people always do a double-take. They can't tell if he's driving an auto or an airplane, and actually, it's a little of both. Norm combines the body of mini-airplane, the chassis of a three-wheeled motorcycle, and the engine from a snowmobile to create something entirely new. It looks like a rocket, drives like a jet, and gets 60 mpg. Tonight PMM takes a ride in this one-of-a-kind car and discovers Norm's plans to make many more.

TV'S MOST HATED WOMEN: Erica is a spoiled, self-centered, and ruthless beauty. Stephanie is a rich, sophisticated temptress. Together, they're daytime TV's most hated women: Erica Kane from "All My Children," and Stephanie Wyatt from "Search For Tomorrow." But behind these soap opera super vixens are two loveable ladies who have nothing in common with their hateful TV alter egos. Erica's Susan Lucci has been happily married for eleven years and has two children; Stephanie's Marie Cheatham is a down-to-earth farm girl. Meet the women viewers love to hate.
 Dr. Jim Wasco reveals how highly trained paramedics save lives before patients get to the emergency room.
 Susan Wasserstein discovers the latest collecting craze: teddy bears.

WE HAVE 200 CHRISTMAS TREES: Ed and Bonnie Gulong love it when people visit their home during the Christmas season. Last year, they had 50,000 visitors. People come from all over the U.S., Canada, and even Europe to see their fantastic forest of Christmas trees — big, little, new and antique. All decorated with loving care by the Gulongs. Their collection is worth half a million dollars, and caring for it is nearly a full time, year-round job.
