

N.C. Outdoor Expo To Feature Activities, Places

RALEIGH — North Carolina's great outdoors will come to life inside March 25-28 at the Raleigh Civic Center.

When it comes to outdoor activities, the Tar Heel State is unmatched in the variety it provides. Whether it's fishing, boating, hiking, camping, rafting, scuba diving, biking, mountain climbing, hunting or any of a host of other activities, North Carolina offers abundant opportunities from the Atlantic Ocean to the highest mountains in eastern America.

A major benefit of the show will be to introduce North Carolinians to the vast array of activities, places and events available to them in their home state.

The Outdoors North Carolina Expo being sponsored by the N.C. Department of Natural Resources and Community Development and Raleigh Civic Center Productions is being billed as the largest and most elaborate outdoor recreation, sports and travel exposition in the south.

A 90 x 50-foot mountain scene featuring a 20-foot cascading waterfall forming a cold water trout stream is one of the many unique features of the first-time show.

An ocean scene will include live marine creatures which will be "touchable", if you dare. Another area will be devoted to panning for some of North Carolina's valuable minerals.

A special aviary will contain live birds. Demonstrations of boat building, bicycling and other outdoor activities will be included in the show.

Exhibitions of precision field training will be displayed by retriever dogs. A trout pond will give youngsters an opportunity to pit their angling skills against the wily rainbow trout. A hunter safety program and air rifle range for youngsters as well as demonstrations in taxidermy, archery and wood-carving will be presented daily.

North Carolina's outdoors are full of opportunities and a generous sampling of them will be available at the Outdoor North Carolina Expo.

Show hours are March 25, 9 a.m.-9 p.m., March 26, 9 a.m.-10 p.m.; March 27-28, 10 a.m.-10 p.m. Admission is: adults $3, senior citizens $2, children under 12 free when accompanied by an adult (except March 25 from 9 a.m.-3 p.m., when admission for all children will be 50¢).

For more information, contact the show manager at (919) 755-6011.

MEDICAL JOURNAL

According to a recent broadcast sponsored by the Columbia-Presbyterian Medical Center and The Prudential Insurance Company, health professionals should take advantage of every opportunity to immunize youngsters against childhood diseases.

Despite the successful public health campaign to attack childhood diseases, Dr. Lance Chilton, a pediatrician at the University of New Mexico Medical School, points out that the most recent national immunization survey showed a completion rate of only 60 percent. Dr. Chilton believes the continued success of this effort is undercut at least in part by missed immunization opportunities.

"We find that many children are not given immunizations when they could be, because they have an upper respiratory infection or a cold," said Dr. Chilton. "This is no reason for failing to carry out immunizations on schedule. All statements from advisory bodies on immunizations state that only a severe illness with fever should keep a child from an immunization opportunity."
