Jewish Umbrella Group

Criticizes U. S. Detention of Haitians

NEW YORK, N.Y. — Sharp criticism of U. S. detention of Haitian refugees was expressed by the Executive Committee of the National Jewish Community Relations Advisory Council (NJCRAC) in a statement released recently.

"The continued detention of Haitian asylum seekers in Miami and elsewhere violates fundamental principles of concern for human rights, fairness and due process," the NJCRAC Executive Committee stated as it called for the Haitians' release into the "temporary custody of reputable voluntary agencies and individuals" while awaiting determinations of requests for political asylum in the United States.

The NJCRAC, coordinating body for 111 local and 11 national Jewish agencies in the community relations field, acted after its Executive Committee received a report that it later adopted, of a special investigatory delegation which visited and inspected the Krome Avenue detention facility in Miami, Florida on May 18. The camp houses approximately 530 Haitians awaiting adjudication of requests for political asylum that have taken from 6 to 12 months. An additional 1600 Haitian detainees are held in four other facilities around the country.

The NJCRAC investigatory delegation was headed by Dr. Saul B. Cohen, President of Queens College in New York, and Vice President of the New York Jewish Community Relations Council. Dr. Cohen described the Krome Avenue camp as "an institution which, despite strong and apparently successful efforts to improve the physical setting, nevertheless cannot arrest the psychological disintegration of those forced to remain while awaiting exclusion hearings."

Calling for release of the detainees, Dr. Cohen stated that there was "no significant probability that (they) will be lost to the legal system once released to reputable groups since many have offers of sponsorship from American voluntary agencies of individual families." The detention in the camps "has, in short, no justification," Dr. Cohen concluded.

Bennett Yanowitz, NJCRAC Chairman, said that the coordinating body "considers the detention policy to be unfair, unnecessary and in violation of America's traditional humane attitude towards refugees from oppression." Yanowitz noted that the NJCRAC took a position in 1981 that undocumented aliens, including Haitians, should be accorded basic human services, due process and fair treatment. At that time, Yanowitz said, the NJCRAC urged "immediate governmental action to give asylum in our country to Haitians who sought freedom and opportunity here."

The NJCRAC, meeting in three days of executive sessions in New York, unanimously approved of the delegation's recommendations and praised the group's report. Other local agencies represented in the delegation, in addition to New York, were Miami and Fort-Lauderdale; national agencies having representatives in the delegation were: American Jewish Committee; American Jewish Congress; Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith, Women's American ORT, Union of American Hebrew Congregations and Jewish Labor Committee.

In his report to the NJCRAC Executive Committee, Dr. Cohen noted that "the Haitian refugees situation is complicated by the ambiguities and many unresolved questions of more general U. S. immigration policies, especially issues of undocumented aliens; the fine line between political and economic refugees; the overwhelming and unfair impact of the refugee flood on certain localities; and the tie between immigration policy and the severe national unemployment crisis."

Dr. Cohen asserted that 2200 Haitians have become "the wrong symbol of frustration over many unresolved problems of national and international proportions." The Queens College President urged humane treatment for the Haitian detainees now, and separating questions of their status from the larger policy issues that must be addressed separately over a longer period of time.

One Million Expected at Kingdom Truth Meet

Vince Parson, spokesman for Jehovah's Witnesses, announced that 483 delegates representing Durham will attend one of 104 conventions scheduled in 68 cities in the United States during the summer of 1982.

Parson said approximately 1 million persons are expected nationwide at the "Kingdom Truth" conventions.

Parsons added that three conventions are planned for the Carolinas in Greensboro, N. C. and Greenville, S. C.

"The outlook is dismal in the world today," Parson said. "Many people question whether mankind can survive in view of the complex problems threatening us."

Parson said a tremendous world change is imminent. He stressed that only divine intervention can provide a solution to the crisis facing mankind and the increasing peril of nuclear war.

"Many people fail to see that God's kingdom is a real government," Parson said. "But the well-known 'Lord's Prayer' makes it clear that our hope and faith should be anchored in God's kingdom. That is why we pray for it to come. Under that government God's will is to be done on earth just as it is in heaven," he said.

Parson said many representatives in Durham will be attending the convention scheduled for the Greensboro Coliseum.
