Narada Michael Walden & Stacy Lattisaw

Atlantic recording artist Narada Michael Walden has scored hit songs with tunes of his own like the new hit "You're Number One", and albums like his latest, Confidence, but he gets just as much joy producing hit songs like "Love On A Two Way Street" for teenage dynamo Stacy Lattisaw. In fact, Walden has so much admiration for his young protege that he jokes, "I'd wash her dirty socks!" Why does Walden feel so strongly about Stacy that he's now producing their third album together? "We're just getting started," explains Walden. "Stacy is a powerhouse — her voice is like iron pipes. Every time I come back to work with her, I am amazed!"

Walden so enjoys his work with Lattisaw that he predicts "when she's 75 and I'm 95 we'll probably still be making albums together. I'm in love with her music, and I tell her that every day."
