Franklin Thomas Is Setting New Course For The Ford Foundation

The first black president of the Ford Foundation, Franklin Thomas, has $120 million dollars a year to spend and urban poverty is his number one priority, says the October Ebony.
Human rights is another one of the six social programs that Thomas has instituted at the nation's largest and most influential foundation. His reshaping of programs and policies in addition to staff cuts were in-

Hially eriticized. Now it is said that the foundation rums with increased accountability and efficiency beause of Thomas's three-and-one-half years of leadership. Thomas. 48 years ond, wtws race may have been partey isponsible for his carly probiems nut ne feek. "The baste element is that we were changing a circumstance that some found very comfortanis

The honor graduate of Columbia Law School won the offiec over more than 30t candidates. Shorily befor his appointment. Thoma lurned down an offer th become Secretary of Housins and Urban Developmen because he told then President Carter the only iot he wanted in washington wa the Presideney. Now Thoma is satisfied to hold what has been called one of the most powerful positions it America.

Black Writers Biographies

Are Compiled In New Book

'Scholars and others revearehing the lives of black writers will find biographical information easier with a book written by Dorothy W. Campbell, assistant professor of library science at North Carolina Central University.
Mrs. 'Campbell's book, Index to. Black- Américan Writers in Collective Biographies, will be published in February by Libraries Unlimited of Littleton, Colorado.

The book identifies references to black American writers and other black literary figures in 267 volumes of collective biography. The various general reference works were published between 1837 and 1982. Some audiovisual collections and works for children are also indexed.
The more than 1.800 persons whose biographers are indeved include creative writers. biographers. historians. pioneer journalists, literary and social critics, illustrators of books. bibliographers, and others who have contributed in Afro-American culture. A few foreign authors who have lived and published in America are included.

The publisher expeets the work to be of use to researchers, reference librarians. bibliographers, and students of black studies.
