

James Baldwin To Give Martin Luther King Lecture

CHAPEL HILL — Tuesday, October 19, at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. The free, public lecture will begin at 8 p.m. in Memorial Hall. It is sponsored by the University Committee on Established Lectures. Baldwin not only has the reputation as one of America's finest writers but also has received international recognition as a leader and spokesman of the civil rights movement. He calls himself a witness to that movement and has spoken to numerous audiences, urging recognition of the rights of all. In connection with this, he served as a member of the national advisory board, Congress on Racial Equality.

Baldwin is the author of 16 books and co-author of three others. He is currently working on a book based on the slayings of 28 black youths in Atlanta and Wayne Williams, who was convicted on charges relating to two of the killings.

Go Tell It On The Mountain, one of his most famous novels, describes the religious conversion of a 14-year-old Harlem boy and is partly autobiographical. The story is told with flashbacks that dramatize the sins and suffering of the boy's ancestors.

Baldwin's feelings about black-white relationships in the United States and abroad are analyzed in a group of essays collected in Notes of a Native Son.

His first play, "The Amen Corner," concerns man's search for his identity, his need to discover his own being and the individuality of his salvation. It has been performed on Broadway and in Europe and the Near East since its first production at Howard University.

Baldwin's other books include Giovanna's Room, Nobody Knows My Name, The Fire Next Time, Blues For Mister Charlie and Going to Meet the Man. Two of the books he has co-authored are A Rap on Race with Margaret Mead and Dialogue with Nikki Giovanni.

Among the many honorary doctorates, recognition awards and literary honors Baldwin has received are a Eugene F. Saxton Memorial Trust Award, a Rosenwald Fellowship and a Ford Foundation Grant-in-Aid. He is also a member of the National Institute of Arts and Letters.

This year, the Dial Press, which published all 19 of Baldwin's books, announced the James Baldwin Prize. This award will be given at irregular intervals by the publisher to new or previously unrecognized black writers of unusual talent.

During his visit to UNC-CH, Baldwin will work with classes in English and Afro-

BALDWIN

American studies as well as present the King Lecture.

The Martin Luther King, Jr. Memorial Lecture was established in September 1977 to "commemorate the lives and work of those who have dedicated their energies to fostering the concepts of human rights and dignity" and to "provide a forum for serious examination and discussion of those concepts." Other King Memorial Lecturers have been Vernon E. Jordan, Jr., then-president of the National Urban League; the Rev. Martin Luther King, Sr.; former U.N. Ambassador Andrew Young; the Rev. Jesse Jackson, director of Operation PUSH; and Judge A. Leon Higginbotham of the U.S. Court of Appeals in Philadelphia.

Ms. Jackson Crowned Miss South Carolina St.

ORANGEBURG, S.C. — Miss Susar Jackson, a senior majoring in business administration, was crowned Miss South Carolina State College 1982-83 by outgoing queen, Miss Loretta Goodwin of Hopkins. The coronation was held in Smith-Hammond-Middleton Memorial Center on the campus. Miss Jackson is a cheerleader and is involved in the cooperative education program, the Freshman Orientation Committee and is a member of the Truth Hall Club. She is also a Presidential Scholar.

Miss Jackson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph L. Jackson, now live in Delray Beach, Fla. Her first assignment as Miss Harriet Roland, a senior English education major from Orangeburg. She is a member of Alpha Kappa Mu National Honor Society, the National Dean's List, Sigma Tau Delta National English Honor Society, the South Carolina Council of Teachers of English, the NAACP, Zeta Phi Beta Sorority and New Mount Zion Baptist Church. The two-time Ralph McGill Award winner spent the summer interning at the Charlotte Observer newspaper in Charlotte, NC.

Miss Roland's parents are the Reverend and Mrs. Harold Roland of Orangeburg.

The second attendant to the newly crowned queen is Miss Valeria Frazier, a senior majoring in business education. She is active on campus in the Collegiate Concert Choir, the NAACP, the Student Alumni Relations Organization, the Freshman Orientation Committee and the Williams Hall Club.

Miss Frazier is the daughter of Mrs. Diana Frazier of Hartsville.

The festivities were introduced by Larry Spruill and Reggie Russell. The queen was honored by the queens of the campus organizations and their escorts as well as queens from surrounding colleges. The SCSC Dancers provided entertainment and both Edward Johnson and Dwayne Sutton serenaded the court with vocal selections.

Miss Brandi Waymer, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. William W. Waymer of Orangeburg was flower girl. Wesley Scott, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Scott of Necess was royal crown and scepter bearer.

A reception for those participating in the program followed the ceremony. The evening gala was concluded with a ball.
