

500 Nurses To Meet In Greensboro To Discuss Future Health

More than 500 registered nurses will meet in Greensboro October 21-23 to discuss nursing's role in health care in North Carolina by the year 2000.

At the annual convention of the North Carolina Nurses Association, programs will focus on social, political, and economic changes projected for the next two decades, how these forces will shape nursing, and how nursing, in turn, can shape health care. Among those participating will be a delegation from District 11, which encompasses Durham, Orange, Person, Chatham and Granville counties. There will be twenty-four delegates in the 1982 House of Delegates. These nurses are: Joan Martin, president; Joan Bounds, Gloria Cheek, Gladys Crisp, Joann Damon, Angie Hemingway, Rosanne Hutter, Gwendolyn Jones, Johna meant-and use of nursing diagnosis taxonomy, nursing education of the future, preparing nurses to effect change in health care and health care policy, overcoming barriers to professional fulfillment, coping with complexities of nursing practice, helping the impaired nurse, current legislation affecting the health of women and children.

Kelley, Diane Lauver, Peggy Norton, Jean Percher, Hazel Browning, Judy Rahm, Gwen Waddell, Ruby Wilson, Sadie Gillespie, Carol Chandres, Helen Miller, Sandy Glantz, Rebecca Carnes and Melissa Levine.

Veronica M. Driscoll, R.N., Ed.D., of Albany, N.Y., will give the keynote address on "Nursing 2000: Shaping the Future." Dr. Driscoll is a writer and lecturer and former executive director of the New York State Nurses' Association.

Other major speakers are: Joy Clausen, R.N., Ph.D., professor and director for Graduate Nursing Administration Specialties, University of Utah College of Nursing, Salt Lake City, Utah; Marilyn Goldwater, R.N., Member of the Maryland House of Delegates and leader in pioneering legislation providing for third-party reimbursement to nurses; and Leah Curtin, R.N., Cincinnati, Ohio, editor of Nursing Management.

The association's various special interest groups will have programs on working with behavioral problems of school children, development-and use of nursing diagnosis taxonomy, nursing education of the future, preparing nurses to effect change in health care and health care policy, overcoming barriers to professional fulfillment, coping with complexities of nursing practice, helping the impaired nurse, current legislation affecting the health of women and children.

The Association's House of Delegates will hold its annual meeting on Saturday, October 23. This voting body is composed of elected representatives of 33 district associations. Delegates take positions on current professional and health care issues.

A convention feature will be 50 exhibits of health care facilities, publishing companies, and drug and medical supply firms.

At a dinner meeting on October 22, annual awards will be presented to individual nurses in recognition of excellence in nursing practice, writing achievement, and membership promotion in NCNA.

Miss C.G. Plok Awarded Credentials

Ms. Charlene Plok has been awarded the Child Development Associate Credential in recognition of outstanding work with pre-school children in a group setting. The credential was awarded by the CDA Credential Commission, which is working to improve the quality of care provided for youngsters in child care centers. The Commission represents the early childhood profession through its member national organizations.

Every candidate for the CDA Credential is assessed by a team of four persons including three from the local community. The team members observe the candidate working with children and evaluate the caregiver's competence in six areas. These range from establishing and maintaining a safe and healthy learning environment to advancing the child's physical and intellectual growth.

In an age when both parents of an increasing number of children are working outside the home, finding an environment in which children will receive more than basic maintenance has grown in importance. CDA assures parents that the credential caregiver is capable of providing competent and nurturing care.

Parents and caregivers interested in the CDA program should write: CDA National Credentialing Program, 1341 G Street, NW, Suite 802, Washington, D.C. 20005, or phone toll free: (800)-424-4310.

Meet The Candidates Forum Scheduled For October 28

A "Meet the Candidates Forum" will be held on Thursday, October 28, beginning at 7 p.m. in the auditorium of the Durham County Public Library, 300 North Roxboro Street. The event is being sponsored by the Greater Durham Chamber of Commerce, the League of Women Voters of Durham and the Durham Business and Professional Chain. Invited participants include candidates for the Second Congressional district on a variety of issues. Candidates seeking the North Carolina House of Representatives seat include George W. Miller, Jr., Democrat; Paul Pulley, Democrat; Kenneth B. Spaulding, Democrat and Robert H. Bass, Jr., Libertarian. Invited Durham County Commissioner candidates are William V. Bell, Democrat; Edwin B. Clements, Democrat;

Rebecca Heron, Democrat; Elna Spaulding, Democrat; R. Dillard Teer, Democrat; and Paul T. Nance, Republican. All candidates are expected to attend this forum.

At this forum, each candidate will present a short prepared statement which will be followed by a period of questions from the audience. The forum will provide an excellent opportunity for the general public to meet personally with the candidates and question issues of particular interest. Selected members of the League of Women Voters, the Business and Professional Chain, and the Durham Chamber of Commerce will help to moderate the event.

The forum is free and open to the general public. All residents of Durham and the Second Congressional District are encouraged to attend. For more information, please contact Jeff Morgan at the Greater Durham Chamber of Commerce office, 682-2133.
