GERMAN ATTACKS PROVE FUTILE

Boneral Situation Along Angle-French Battle Line Remains Unchanged Despite Heavy Fighting

GERMANS MEET RUSSIANS

Fighting For Four Days Around Sol Between Kaiser's And Czar's Forces

German pluck and determination was marked to a high degree during the last week when, despite many setbacks, they persisted in their attacks on the Anglo-French lines Each time they were repulsed.

The Russian invasion of East Prus sia has caused some alarm and diverted the attention to that direction. For more than four days' hard fighting has been reported around Soldau. The Austrains have also turned their forces on the Russians north and east of Cracow, the Galician capital which the czar's forces recently captured and burned.

Despite the severity of the weather in all sections of Europe and in face of overwhelming obstacles the Germans have persisted in their attacks on the allies, both to the east

Gradually, however, they have been beaten back and have lost ground on both sides. On the Franco-Belgian frontier, the allies have driven them back across the Yser, and in the east they have been repulsed by the invading Russians, who now advise their war chiefs at Petrograd that they are withing 189 miles of Berlin.
It has been a week of German adversities, but the Teutonic spirit is indomitable and the kaiser's forces have shown the greatest contempt for death in their unsuccessful onslaughts made on the British and French. French successes have been reported south of Verdun.

Russia's on-creeping ally, the Russian winter, has deterred activities in the European war zone and is the first postpone the campaign for several months until the opening of

The first check upon the various campaigns along the different battle lines since the opening of the war was marked by the blizzards which swept down from western Poland across the entire northern portion of the German empire and far into Belgium and northern France.

The Russian army has been supplied with sheepskin jackets, the same as introduced in Manchuria in the Japanese war. Progress is reported in the invasion of Prussia, though Berlin reports continue to be optimistic in this regard. German successes along the French frontier have been reported reversed, the kaiser's forces completely repulsed at Ypres, many points of vantage already taken from the allies are said to have been regained by the French and British, and the French report the complete annihilation of a German regiment south of Bixschoote.

The kaiser is reported dissatisfied ficers for that branch. with the Austrian generals and Franz Joseph has consented to their removal and the substitution of German commanders. The house of commons has granted Premier Asquith another billion dollars and another million soldiers to continue the war. A report of the Russians' capture of Cracow, capital of Galicia, is the only movement of note since the advancement of winter.

The allies are claiming to have again repulsed the Germans and driven them back across the Yser. The London and Bordeaux war offices announce that the French and English troops are occupying advantageous po-altions on the left bank of the canal, ings.

French Zouaves At Work

Paris.-The French Zouaves, who frequently have distinguished themselves by dashing charges; have been utilised again to dislodge the Germans from a position near Bixschoote, over which there has been much fighting, and, according to the French statement, they again have been success-These incidents merely are examples of what has been occurring in northern France. First one side and then the other gains an advantage, but, when all is told the general situation remains about as it was,

Prohibition in Russia

Petrograd.-Actual and complete prohibition is in force throughout the entire Russian empire and not a drop of vodka; whisky, brandy, gin or any other strong drink is obtainable from one end to the other of an area populated by 150,000,000 people and comone-sixth of the habitable glode. In every foot of Russian territory the word prohibition is taken literally. It does not mean a partially successful attempt to curtail liquor consumption,

German Attacks Fail

London,-The latest official comm nications regarding operations on the western battlefields are much the ame as those of preceding days. There has been fighting virtually all along the front; but without appreciable change in the situation.

From the coast of Flanders to the river Lys, on the Franco-Belgian border, much of which has been flooded by the allies to hinder German attacks there has been a repetition on a somewhat smaller scale of the bombardment which the invaders invariably resort to in the hope of breaking down the allies' resistance before the nfantry attacks and in isolated spots attacks in force, but according to the French and British reports, all these ave been repulsed.

The Angle-French forces, which have been holding territory around Ypres. again have been subjected to deter mined attacks, fresh German troops having attempted to force the allies out of their trenches.

As was the case with the Prussian Guard, the Germans, who made the latest effort, appear to have taken the first line of trenches, but, like the guards, were compelled to give back the ground after holding it for short time.

Enormous War Cost

London.-David Lloyd-George, chancellor of the exchequer, in the house of commons, estimated that one year of war would cost England 450,000,000 pounds ($2,250,000,000), the largest amount Great Britain ever has spent, and more than twice what was spent in the four years' conflict in South Africa. To pay this enormous bill the government has decided, he said, to raise a loan of 350,000,000 pounds ($1.-750,000,000), which would be issued at 95, bear interest at the rate of 3-1-2 per cent and be redeemable at par

Berlin Views Optimistic

"A terrific battle of unexampled vio lence has been proceeding for four days around Soldau. At other points the big guns again subjected to another rain of shells.

From the allies' point of view, prob ably the most important operations are those south of Verdus, where French troops, for some time, have been trying further to relieve the the officers whom we took prisoners pressure which the Germans have been here was an artillery officer sent to exerting on the fortress. They at last have succeeded, according to French official communication, and besides making some progress on the neights of the Meuse, have advanced on St. Mihiel, the only point on the left bank of the Meuse which the Germans have held.

A month of futile fighting, entaling losses the extent of which perhaps never will be fully known, has not convinced German leaders that the French coast towns are unattainable; and while snow and rain and wind and cold have, during the past few days, so tried the troops as markedly to reduce their fighting capacity, there is nothing to show that the invaders will not try again.

How valiantly the Germans have been meeting death in what to date has been a hopeless task is recounted by the British army's official eyewitdescribing the recent fighting

The encyclical begins by tracing a horrible picture of the present war, calling upon the rulers to end the war.

German Reports Optimistic

Berlin.-An official announcement given out in Berlin says that the German attacks in Flanders are progress ing slowly, but in the Argonne the Germans have obtained further impor tant successes. London.—Two big battles, both of which may have decisive results, are raging in Poland, and a third of almost equal importance is progressing

Of the three battles that now its heights between the Vistula and Warta Rivers and in which the Russians claim partial success, is exciting the most interest. The Germans, it is believed, have brought by their line of strategic railways in Posen and Silesia at least half a million men in an effort to break the Russian line here. Weather conditions, the frozen ground and the situation of the battlefield, favor a battle decisive to a degree not equalled on any other field in the present war.

The other part in Poland is takng place on the Cracow-Czenstochowa front and Russians and Germans each claim it is proceeding satisfactorily. is moving slowly through the wild country, surrounding the Mazurian In Galicia the Russians are moving westward and at the same time are seizing the passes of the Carpathians.

There now is almost a complete absence of infantry attacks "in western arena, and the artillery fighting is much less violent. All that region about Dixmude through which the Yeer Canal passes is inundated and the only serious fighting appears to be taking place south of where cannonading is in progress.

Bad weather, which necessarily hampers operations, has been experienced and snow has falled in some places. There has been no important action in the French center, but in the Argonne region the Germans have made vigorous attacks, which the French say were repulsed. On the French right wing the Germans have retaken Chauvoncourt part of which they destroyed a few days ago. German activity in the vicinity of Rheims
