Philathea Class Business Meeting.

The Philathea Class met at the home of Miss Venie Howard, February 15th., 1915. As the president was absent, Miss Bettie Sessoms presided.
The first thing on the program was the report of the committees.
The Nominating Committee succeeded in securing teachers for the following year: Teacher; Mrs. A. W. Greene. First, Assistant; Miss Bessie Taylor. Second, Assistant; Miss Nannie Newsome.

The class name was changed to Convention Senior Philathea.
All the committees made very good reports. The assistant teachers for the month were: Mrs. W. L. Curtis and Miss Nannie Newsome. The class was dismissed by the platform.
After the business part of the meeting was over, the class adjourned to the parlor where an enjoyable hour was spent in honor of St. Valentine.

Taffy Club.

The Taffy Club was entertained by Miss Ruth Odom, at her home, on Church Street, Monday evening very uniquely and charmingly.
The guests on entering were ushered into the south parlor. There they observed that the decorations were patriotic. Red white and blue were seen in abundance and one could hardly remain in ignorance of the fact that Monday was a day of National rejoicing. Even George, himself, could not have disapproved of the color scheme. George Washington suits and Martha Washington dresses were the costumes of the guests.

First among the entertainment offered was the choosing of partners. This was carried out by the young ladies and young men drawing colonial hatchets from charmingly decorated trays. On each of these was the name of a young gentleman or lady, and much amusement was caused by the partners the respective ones drew. Washington and his cabinet, with their better halves were the names inscribed on each handle of the hatchets.

Washington's career was traced from his boyhood until gray hairs streaked his brow, and even the intimaecy of his court ship were were shown with marked approval. To the strains of Mendleson Wedding March, rendered by Miss Ruth Odom, George and Martha marched down the flower strewn hall to the improvised altar. Here Miss Josephine Harrell, as Martha, was given to Mr. James Stanley Leary, as George Washington, by the maid of honor Miss Annie Parker leaning on the arm of the best man, Mr. Clarence Askew Perry. After the ceremony was conducted, the members of the wedding party, composed of Miss Josephine Harrell, Mr. James Stanley Leary, Miss Annie Parker, Mr. C. A. Perry, Miss Ruth Odom, Miss Nancy Leary, soloist, Miss Virginia Dare Howard and Mr. Alfred Lee Copeland, acting minister, led the remaining members of the cabinet in a colonial wedding ball.

"After the ball was over" Miss Odom, assisted by Miss Lillian Boyette, served refreshments which further carried out the general color scheme.
Everyone voted Miss Odom a charming hostess and departed with a feeling touched with patriotic sentiments.

Those attending were; Miss Idare Henry with Mr. James S. Leary, Miss Lillian Boyette with Mr. Alfred Lee Copeland, Miss Florence Eevlye Gerock with Mr. James Pembroke Baker, Miss Nannie Pastoria Lery with Mr. Clarence Askew Perry, Miss Josephine Harrell with Mr. William Skiles Britton, Miss Virginia Dare Howard with Bernard Banks, Miss Annie Mae Parker with Mr. Robert Oscar Gerock, Miss Ruth Odom with Mr. James S. Vinson, Miss Janie Belle Baker with Mr. Stanley Leary, Miss Margarette Sessoms with Mr. Jimmie Howard Robertson.—Reported.

The Merchant's Dream.

Last evening I was talking
With a merchant aged and gray,
When he told me of a dream he had,
I think 'twas Christmas Day.
While snoozing in his office
This vision came to view,
For he saw an angel enter,
Dressed in garments white and new.

Said the angel, "I'm from heaven:
The Lord just sent me down
To bring you up to glory
And put on your golden crown.
You've been a friend to every one,
And worked, hard night and day;
You've supported many thousands
And from few received your pay.

So we want you up in glory,
For you have labored hard,
And the good Lord is preparing
Your eternal, just reward."

Then the angel and the merchant
Started up towards glory's gate,
But when passing close to hades
The angel murmured "Wait—

I've a place I wish to show you;
It's the hottest place in Hell,
Where the ones who never paid you
In torment forever dwell."

And behold the merchant saw there
His old patrons by the score,
And grabbing up a chair and fan,
He wished for nothing more.

He desired to sit and watch them
As they'd sizzle, singe and burn;
And his eyes would rest on debtor
Whichever way they'd turn.

Said the angel, "Come on merchant
There are pearly gates to see."
But the merchant only muttered,
"This is Heaven enough for me."

The Wisest are Most Annoyed at the Loss of Time

All automobile advertising to-day is a striking testimonial that Henry Ford was right years ago when he built the first light car. Automobile manufacturers see what Henry Ford saw long since—that the light car is the car best adapted to meet all conditions.

You can hardly read an ad to-day that doesn't make you smile and say: "There's another proof that Henry Ford has been right all along."
The Ford to-day is recognized as the standard light car the world over. And it is the standard light car because Henry Ford had the correct vision years before the rest.
