LATE AGAIN!

We know you have wearied of excuses long ago, and are impatient at the tardiness of this office in supplying you with a more readable paper and our inability to get it to you on time.

But, friend, with both carpenter and brickmason at work in the office; a belayed part of our linotype still in freightdepot; and a concrete base for our new gas engine still in a plastic state, 'excuse' in this case translates 'Reason.'

The Herald again has its worries, but we are permitting optimism to reign in our household. As this is written we have scattered before us upon the "deck" an abundance of parts for our linotype, but the closest scrutiny fails to locate the base of the machine, and the part to which these on hand must be applied. In a nutshell, the largest portion of our machine has been misplaced by the railroads, and we are still "sticking type" until the case is empty. That's as far as we can go. We are pegging along as best we can until the railroads deliver our goods.

The Herald may be cussed for making the assertion, but we could sincerely rejoice at the successful passage of a dyed-in-the-wool stock law for Hertford county.

Ye men of Ahoskie begin now to prepare for the new situation in civic conditions of this town! You had as well begin to think it over. It is coming—and you'll live to see it, too. Ahoskie must have a drainage system, along with it asphalt or paved streets. He who is for it is with us—but woe unto him who thinketh that he can destroy the germ of progressiveness that has been dormant long enough. The Herald will offer a reward of any value to that person who can convince the majority of the voters of Ahoskie that this town should not have waterworks and paved streets. We'll entertain an article from any non-progressive who can prove it. All we ask, is an opportunity to reply.

The General Assembly of North Carolina, which convened at Raleigh this week, will be confronted with the task of providing revenue by taxation for the execution of the six months school term, which was overwhelmingly adopted by the voters of the state at the last election. To be sure it is a difficult problem to provide a system of taxation that will be satisfactory to every interest, and nobody can hope for such an utopia. But, the one big and sure fact that faces the legislators is the vote of North Carolina's people. They have asked that it be done, and the man who deliberately sits down and refuses to vote in favor of taxation for the furtherance of this program, had as well crawl into his political grave and cover himself up body and all. Hertford county's representative can, it is hoped, be depended upon to vote aye on any conservative system of taxation that is for the betterment of his county intellectually.

Administrator's Notice

Having qualified as administrator of the estate of Rufus Burke, deceased, late of Hertford county, North Carolina, this is to notify all persons having claims against the estate of said deceased to exhibit them to the undersigned at Ahoskie, N.
