

"LONGING FOR MOTHER."

Oh! mother dear mother, I'm so weary tonight
My life's so sad and so dim seems the light,
Could I call you back from the echoless shore
So you'd take me again to your heart as of yore,
I'm longing still longin gfor your fond loving care,
For a kiss on my cheek and your hand on my hair,
But I know up on high a loving watch you'll keep Over your dear boy as I lay fast asleep.

I know I should be happy yes happy always
And look for the light of a far brighter day,
Never grow tired of sowing for others to reap
The seeds of all kindness while mother dear sleeps,
But I feel such great sorrow from the sad living green,
Of a low mossy grave by a silvery stream,
But for your dear I'll not seek in vain
For your angelic presence seems with me again.

I'm true to the highest my mind can conceive
I let my life be a witness of what I believe,
But I so often give way to sorrow and grief
When I remember the words you so often said,
My boy ther are brighter days ahead
The dark shadows around me, no longer do stay,
For I know you'll soon come to bear me away.
My life with its sorrow care and pain

I'll prove its not been a life all in vain,
Tho I have heartaches and shed bitter tears
That comes to me through these long weary years,
Then I remember the prayers you taught me to say,
That through prayer all sorrow would banish away,
I think then of things that to you were worth while
And try to lift up my head and smile.

My hear has turned white since you left me alone
My troubles caused griefs you have never known,
It has caused more sorrow then I could bear
As I still keep longing for your love and care,
But I think of you mother in the same sweet way
And am still watching for "that far brighter day."
When you with the angel's will come for your boy,
Who'll greet you dear mother with heart bursting wit joy.

MRS BROWN A WELL WOMAN ONCE MORE

"Some strange things happen in this world and the change Tanlac has brought about in my wife's condition is one of them," said J. L. Brown, a resident of College Park, Ga.

"For over two years," he continued, "my wife had so much trouble with her stomach that she could not hardly take any nourishment at all but a milk diet, and she fell off until she was little more than a living skeleton. Shegot little rest or any sleep at night, had no energy at all and was so weak and run-down that most of her time was spent in the bed or in her chair. Her skin was salow and unhealthy looking and she didn't seem to take any interest in anything.

In fact she was about as bad off as she could be to live when she stearted taking Tanlac, and just a few bottles of this wonderful medicine have made her a well woman once more. She now eats anything she wants, sleeps like a child, has ganided twenty pounds and is able to do all of her houswork as well as she ever did."

Tanlac is sold by all leading drng-gists everywhere. adv.
