TOBACCO GROWERS REPORT SUCCESS OF KENTUCKY MEN

Returning directly from Kentucky to the Directors' Meeting of the Tobacco Growers' Cooperative Association held in Raleigh last week, members of the executive committee of the Board from North Carolina and Virginia investigating the Burley Tobacco Growers' Association, reported that cooperative marketing of tobacco in Kentucky has been a complete success to date.

The success of the Kentucky growers is due in large measure to their freedom from the one crop system, according to the report, which states that in the land of blue grass, sleek cattle and fat hogs, the tobacco crop is the big money maker because Kentucky growers raise their food and feed at home instead of paying for it with the proceeds of tobacco.

The Directors from Virginia and North Carolina, of the Cooperative Marketing Association, who studied the Burley Association within the past fortnight, are strongly advising the growers of the Carolinas and of Virginia to plant more hay and grain and to raise enough live stock this year to insure the enjoyment of such splendid profits from tobacco as the celebrating with the first sales in the hundred warehouses of their association.

The success of the Kentucky Burley Growers Marketing Association is described in the current issue of the Tri-State Tobacco Grower, which was mailed last week to over 60,000 members of Tobacco Growers' Cooperative Association in Virginia and the Carolinas, and contains an article of Dr. J. Y. Joyner, formerly superintendent of public instruction for North Carolina, and now Director from the 8th district, in reply to recent extravagant criticisms of the Association.

TO THE FARMERS-ATLANTIC BANK, AHO SKIE, N. C.

The following poem was received, accompanied by a check of five dollars for deposit on their INAUGURATION DAY, at the local bank one day this week. The verses are original and were written by a young lady of this section, who is away teaching school:

—ACCEPTANCE—

An in-vi-ta-tion, did you say,
For fourth of March, on Saturday,
To go to that great big red Bank,
When all the grown-folks play and prank?

I think it surely will be fine
To see the crowd in that long line,
And watch 'em come from miles and miles,
A-bringing along their sweetest smiles.

But how about the "SAVING" part?
That sure does strike close to my heart.

I want to meet the world right square
And keep my record clean and fair
O, what is it that I can do
To put this Banking business thro?
I've scratched my head and pulled my nose,
Then hit the plan that always goes.

I'll cut pine wood for neighbor Jones
To warm the aches from out his bones
And shine the shoes of sporty Ned
Who sometimes stays too late in bed

I'll work the Mayor's awful street,
And saunter on with dry-shod feet
To plant a rose on every lot,
And make the town a beauty spot.

I'll patch some pants and guess 'twas
Right
That spanked 'em through in such plight;
And make a dress for high school Jane
That will not rip in sun or rain.

Then with my "SAVINGS" in a hank
I'll hasten onward to the Bank,
Quite ready for play and fun,
Content with work that was well done
—BETSEY THOMAS.

PARENT-TEACHER'S ASSOCIATION ORGANIZED COLERAIN

Colerain, March 1.—The Parent-Teachers Association of Colerain organized the 9th of February by electing Mrs. Dora Saunders president, and Dr. P. Mitchell secretary. A called meeting on the 24th, adopted the constitution. Our membership was increased to 61. We are greatly encouraged by the enthusiasm manifested not only by the parents, but by the citizens at large. We are asking the vigorous support of each and everyone in our school district, in this endeavor to bring about a hearty cooperation between parents and teachers. A very enjoyable George Washington party was given by the pupils of our school on last Friday night, after which refreshments were served by the ladies of the Parent-Teachers' Association. A neat sum was realized.

The next meeting will be held in the academy on Friday, the tenth of March, when the following program will be given:

1. The school as a community center;
2. Why the school should be the Community center, by Mr. E. White;
3. The school as a community, builder by Mrs. G. M. Holly;
4. Future citizens of the Community, by Mrs. R. B. Lineberry;
5. The dangers arising from unsanitary conditions, by Dr. Mitchell;
6. The school building Colerain needs, by Professor J. W. Heath;
7. How the Parent-Teacher Association can support our school and community this year, by Miss Villa Montague.

A most cordial invitation is extended to all.

DATA ON MARRIAGES

Proportion of Married Men Has Gone Up, Says Census.

Probably More Indicative of Change in Age Composition of Population Than Growing Propensity to Matrimony.

Washington.—The proportion of married men to the total male population of the country fifteen years of age and over increased from 55.8 per cent to 59.2 per cent in the ten years preceding the 1920 census, according to a compilation of marital statistics made public by the census bureau.

The bureau believed, however, that this was probably more indicative of a change in the age composition of the population—an increase in the percentage of males between fifteen and twenty-five years of age due to increased immigration—than a growing propensity to matrimony.

Of the total male population of 53,900,431 above the fifteen-year classification the census figures showed 21,849,266 married, 1,758,306 widowed and 235,284 divorced, the latter figure, however, including none divorced and remarried. The divorce total showed an increase of 20 per cent in its ratio to the total population during the ten-year period, constituting six-tenths of 1 per cent of the latter against five-tenths in 1910.

Although due to the absence of the wives of many foreign-born residents, the number of married women was shown to be about 500,000 less than the male total, the number of divorced women exceeded men by approximately 40,000, representing closely the difference between the number of men and women remarried after divorce.

By states, Massachusetts led the field in the proportion of single women with a percentage of 34.4, although the District of Columbia exceeded this with 37.3 per cent. The census bureau pointed out, however, that the ratio of men to women in the population "naturally has a very important bearing on the proportions of single men and women." Wyoming led with 70.5 per cent in the proportion of married women, while 62.8 per cent was shown for Mississippi and Arkansas, and the smallest, 45.9 per cent, for Nevada.

FIRST WOMAN ASSESSOR

Since Mrs. Roxa S. Kirby, the first woman to be elected an assessor, assumed office as county assessor of Campbell county, Wyo. (which is exactly the size of the state of Connecticut) the "hard-boiled" property owner who was wont to drop in and "cuss out" the assessor for "overvaluing" his property has become as rare there as the dodo. In fact, he "ain't."

Mrs. Kirby, who served as deputy assessor before she was elected to the head of the office (having an overwhelming majority over the man who ran against her) knows the assessment business "from the ground up to the money in the bank," and argument with her over the valuation of property is highly unprofitable.

She was born in Union county, Ia., was graduated from the Iowa State Teachers' college; taught Latin and English in Iowa high schools; married J. H. Kirby, a jeweler and watchmaker, in 1916, and in 1919 migrated with him to Wyoming, where he took up the homestead claim on which they still reside.

"I still like to cook and to do fancy work," says Mrs. Assessor Kirby.

JUDGE OPPOSES FAT ALIMONY

New York Jurist Says Divorce Can't Get All the Luxury She Had in Marriage.

New York.—Justice Guy, in the Manhattan Supreme court, told prospective alimony seekers that after a separation or divorce they cannot expect to be supported in the luxurious style to which they became accustomed during the marriage.

"It is not the policy of the law," Justice Guy declared, "that a woman who is asking to end the marriage contract shall have all the luxury of marriage. She is not entitled to one-third of her husband's income. She cannot expect all the extras that a loving husband would naturally bestow upon her if the two were living contentedly together."
