

EDITOR PARKER WRITES FROM THE COAL FIELDS

BY J. ROY PARKER

With practically a week of the national coal strike having passed and thousands of miners idling; and operators refusing to be coerced into the demands of the United Mine Workers, the Logan field continues to serve the country with an increased output of coal. The Chesapeake & Ohio railroad which serves this field is taxed to its capacity in furnishing sufficient cars to carry the coal away. Only through newspaper reports does this region know of any strike—a singular fact in the light of the fact that coal mining is the one and only industry in the mountains and hills of this territory.

Mine owners and operators here point with just pride to the record of co-operation between themselves and their employees. Although many of the miners are union men, they have not ceased working. Logan county does not expect a reoccurrence of the armed invasion staged by the union miners of other counties, August, 1921. In fact, the invaders were bitterly taught to stay out and attend to their own business. The loss of many men, and the realization of an undivided sentiment of hostility in Logan county to the methods adopted by the union miners has impressed it indelibly upon their minds to attend more strictly to their own business.

The advent of spring is noticeably in effect on the mountain sides and tops. Trees are shaping their buds into foliage, green shrubbery beds the hills, and grasses are beginning to become visible. The contrast is striking to the one who has all his life been accustomed to the flat lands of eastern North Carolina; and the effect of such a contrast is to produce feelings akin to pity for the person who is denied the privilege of seeing nature's creations. It is refreshing and a great monotony breaker to get out and take it all in.

Today, Friday, April 7th, the temperature is standing at 80 indoors, and the sunshine outdoors reminds one of an early summer day. However, it is not oppressive; especially in this office where the rear door opens almost directly over the river up which a cooling breeze steadily blows.

The Logan Evening Telegram is the name of the new enterprise which makes its debut here Monday, April 10th. Advance copy for the first issue is now being prepared, telegraph instruments connected to a special leased wire, over which a minimum of 15,000 words daily will come into this office, are already installed, and on Monday morning will begin ticking off the news from all parts of the country and foreign countries. My position with the paper will be city editor. Since coming here I have served as associate editor of the weekly paper, published in this office, and which will be continued in conjunction with the daily.

46 GERMANS KILLED EACH HOUR OF THE WAR

Berlin, April 12.—Forty-six men were killed and 109 wounded on the German side during every hour the World War was raging, according to an estimate arrived at by General von Altröck, a statistician. This estimate was made from a study of official records.

Germany's losses totaled in dead 1,808,545 and in wounded 4,246,779. Men to the number of 13,000,000 were under arms during the course of the war, of whom about one in seven was killed in battle.

The officers' corps lost 53,000 men killed and 96,000 wounded. German soldier and civilian losses through death, caused directly or indirectly by the war, are estimated by General von Altröck at 12,000,000.

PAR CLEARANCE CASE IS WON BY NORTH CAROLINA BANKS

North Carolina state banks have won a decisive victory in the first "skirmish" in what is known as the "par-clearance case" in the suit of some 275 state banks against the Federal Reserve bank of Richmond, according to the decision handed down by Judge James L. Webb, of Shelby. The decision, some say, is the result of the hearing of the case in Union county court about five weeks ago.

The defendant, the Federal Reserve bank of Richmond, "excepts and appeals" to the supreme court from the decision, notice of appeal having been waived. The appeal bond is fixed by Judge Webb at $100. As previously stated by counsel for both sides, regardless of the decision, the case goes to the supreme court.

This case has attracted more than state-wide attention, in that it involves banking practices that will doubtless be far-reaching in their effect, certainly, after the case has been decided by the U. S. supreme court, to which it is expected to be carried, regardless of the decision given by the N. C. supreme court, to which it has now been appealed.

Judge Webb holds that the act passed by the North Carolina general assembly on February 5, 1921, entitled, "An act to promote the solvency of state banks," and making lawful the collection of exchange on checks and the payment of checks by drafts on reserve deposits of banks on whom the checks are drawn, is valid and constitutional.

As a result of the judgment, the Federal Reserve bank of Richmond is permanently restricted from dishonoring checks on non-member banks and presenting them over the counter of the bank for payment in cash, a practice started about a year and a half ago, and on which the temporary restraining order was signed by Judge J. Bis Ray in Monroe nearly a year ago and denied, transcripts of the case were presented to Judge E. Yates Webb, of the federal court, and a hearing held in Charlotte last summer, as a result of which Judge Webb sent it back to the state court. —Charlotte Observer.

LETTER FROM CONGRESSMAN H. S. WARD

I afraid the soldiers have not all understood the late Act of Congress which provides that they must register for vocational training before December 1922 or else, so far as we can know, be forever barred. I have seen or heard from several who want to finish this year's crop and take training next year. The purpose of this is to give them all notice that they must register before December of this year and that they may write to me for further information. They must have as much as 10 per cent. disability and be otherwise eligible. Arrangements have been made between the Veteran's Bureau and the North Carolina Agricultural College at Raleigh by which one can take training in agriculture upon very little education and receive compensation at the same time. This has been a great benefit to a large number of ex-service men.
