FROST DAMAGE

Hertford and adjoining counties experienced some low temperatures Friday, Saturday and Sunday nights. The thermometer hovered along in the thirties and frost was generally reported. However, the damage locally was not great, considering the open weather of the previous two weeks and the opportunity afforded for the general advancement of vegetation. Those who had early corn and potatoes up, mostly in gardens, will have to replant. Beyond this, the damage is reported as slight. Farther north through Virginia and Maryland, particularly in the trucking section of the Eastern Shore of Virginia, the result of the frost is reported as being devastating, particularly to truck. The damage to apples in the great apple raising belt is reported as being about 40 per cent.

BEWARE OF THE WIRELESS FAKIRS

Watch out for the wireless fakirs. The new generation, since the scandalous stock jobbing operation that marked the advent of the Marconi wireless telegraph concern in which thousands of widows and other poor folks were robbed of their savings, should read a little history. The public is short of memory. It will not be long before the stock jobbers will be at work offering all kinds of alluring propositions identified with the manufacture and operation of wireless telegraph outfits. The danger of being swindled in these highly speculative enterprises is in proportion to the opportunity of profit, and so a double warning is necessary, because the wireless telephone business is destined to stagger the imagination before many years have passed. When the thousand per cent per day proposal reaches town, let those with loose change be cautious. Cupidity is a dangerous leader. Follow old General Conservatism and be safe.—Hendersonville News.

FIGHT ON PNEUMONIA

Army Doctors Seek Vaccine to Prevent Dread Disease.

Mortality in Modern War Could Be Cut One-Half if Preventive for Pneumonia and Other Respiratory Diseases is Found.

Chicago.—Merritt W. Ireland, surgeon general of the United States army, declared that the mortality in modern war could be cut virtually one-half if a preventive for pneumonia and other respiratory diseases could be found.

As a corollary he asserted the elimination of the menace of pneumonia would cause such a rapid increase in the population of the world that in a short time we wouldn't know what to do with the surplus. His statements were made at the Congress hotel, where he was a guest of medical men attending the eighteenth annual congress on medical education, public health and hospitals. He said they are based on figures compiled from the death lists of Americans in the great war.

These figures disclose that while 37,000 soldiers were killed on the battlefield, 45,000 died from pneumonia in the hospitals and training camps, he said. Of these 42,000 died in four months.

"The greatest problem before medical men today is finding a vaccine or preparation which will prevent the contraction of diseases which lead to pneumonia and death," General Ireland said. "This controlled, deaths from other diseases, especially in warfare, would be negligible.

"Physicians all over the country are bending their best efforts to the solution of this problem. In the army we have been making extensive experiments and it is possible now that we are on the track of a preparation which will lead to the desired results.

"Within the last few weeks army physicians have been trying out a new vaccine in the army and some of the reports are encouraging. That, however, is all we can say. It will take months of work before anything definite will be known.

"If war should be declared tomorrow, I would not need to have a single cot prepared for patients suffering from typhoid fever and malaria, the diseases which worried such havoc in the Spanish-American war. These diseases are under control. But under present conditions we would have to make a huge outlay both in money, beds, and medicines for the fight against respiratory diseases."

IS JUST 103 YEARS YOUNG

Mrs. Lulu C. Daniel, oldest inmate of the Arkansas Confederate home near Little Rock, Ark., is just one hundred and three years of age. She is anything but a "has been," having a younger outlook on life than many women half her age. She makes all her own clothes, even to the Irish crocheted lace on her dainty collars. She is a stranger to digestive or other ills. Her lightness of foot is phenomenal.

Pigs Milk Cow.
Luray, Va.—The mysterious milking every night for some time of a cow belonging to David Baker, a farmer of this county, has just been explained. Keeping a constant watch on the cow for a night revealed the fact that several pigs were responsible. The pigs were found standing on their hind legs pulling and tugging at their breakfast.

Boy Knocks Man's Pipe in Haymow; Barn Burned

John L. Hayward of West Bridgewater, Mass., was enjoying an after-breakfast smoke at the door of his barn when a boy in a passing automobile threw a snowball. It knocked the pipe out of Hayward's mouth. While Hayward pursued the boy, burning tobacco from the pipe set fire to the hay in the mow. The barn and dairy were destroyed with a loss of $2,200.
