The political pot is beginning to boil in Ahoskie and Hertford county.

Any amateur Burbank can cross wild oats with extract of corn and raise an enormous amount of gain.

The adage of today runs—"look before you drink; it may be your last look." Correct, you can never tell what it might be made of.

The season approaches in Ahoskie when the "old man" must choose between expensive graduation dresses and new tires for the fivver.

Other business may be dull around Ahoskie at this period, but we understand that the mosquitos will take advantage of the style tendencies and open up new territory this season.

If you fail to advertise your business, you prove to the public you have all the business you want, and from the appearance of the business men of Ahoskie at the present time, they have all the business they can possibly handle.

A little more pep in the clean-up week campaign for Ahoskie. This is clean-up week all the week, so let's make the finish as good as the start. Make the job a thorough one. Good results have been obtained so far but there is yet room for some more of the same stuff.

"Come on with that day current," is the hue and cry of many of Ahoskie's impatient citizens. Yes, we look forward to the time when day current will be an established thing in this town. It is understood that the aforementioned juice will begin in a very short time hence, to continue throughout the balance of the summer.

The local high schools finals, a la Commencement, are thought to be a perfect acme, as compared with other commencements in former years; in various respects. The graduating class, 15 in number, the largest in the history of this county's school life, speaks well for the general progressiveness of our school. Other attractions are to be staged for the ensuing Commencement. As the mildewed phrase runs; "the public is cordially invited and so on.

It is indeed gratifying to observe the things accomplished by the promoters of the "Clean-up" campaign. With a few more public spirited pushers to set the wheels going, Ahoskie might do almost anything in the way of civic improvement, once things got started. At any rate, our old burg is now a better place in which to live, as a result of the clean-up movement, and what it has done to improve the appearance of everything in general. It is something that is well worth the while of every citizen to participate in, push, and work for. And let it be kept in mind, also, that after clean-up week is over with in name, it should not be allowed to become a thing of the past. There is need to put it into practice all the year 'round. Each individual may attend to his own premises, and let the rest of the world go by. Then everything will run on all six, and Ahoskie will henceforth and immediately if not sooner, be a cleaner, better, and more wide-awake place.

LEGAL ADVERTISING

We understand there is some complaint from a few in the county concerning our rule that legal advertisements must be paid for after the first insertion. Well gentlemen, if you hold a mortgage on a man's property and you are not able to have it advertised for settlement, if that is necessary; our advice to you is that you should let the mortgage run or give the man a clear deed for same. If you send in an advertisement of this matter and he is not financially able to turn the trick for you, our advice is that it would pay you to employ someone else.

We have lost several hundred dollars du rihgtgnas, rmietaoinetaoinhh lars during the past year on such accounts, and if you were in our fix and did not try to help yourself, you can assure yourself that you are a man who has more confidence in the public than we have. When a bee stings us once, that is sufficient.

If you send in an advertisement of this kind and fail to pay for it after the first week's insertion, you may assure yourself that it will not appear in the next week's edition. We have made this rule and we mean to stick up to. This applies to everyone, rich or poor.

THE OUTLET

April showers spoil Spring hat flowers.

They tell us that better times are just around the corner. What corner?

Little Boy Blue, come blow your horn; the still's in the meadow; the kick's in the corn.

A good poker player is a good player, but that is about all you can say about him. What else is he good for?

If the old man has anything left after buying the Easter bonnet, he may get a new suit to wear next Sunday.

Gentlemen of Ahoskie who are inclined to talk too much are reminded that too much gas keep a car from climbing.

Medical men are now inserting monkey glands to restore man's youth. A monkey run insertion will do it, for a few minutes.

A psychoanalyst says that blondes are more fearful than brunettes. The drug store kind are certainly more fearful looking.

21 nations, members of the League of Nations, have failed to pay their subscriptions for 1921. They must think the League is a newspaper.

A mildewed adage runs: "Beauty is only skin-deep." But why so? It is only smeared on the surface. U-h. Only don't tell that to the women.

In many parts of the country the political pot begins to boil. Which reminds us that when the boiling ceases, the scum is always on the top.

"Electrical wizard makes lightning with mechanical device." Headline. Most any lighting and power company can make thunder with the family income. Locally, for instance. Locally, for instance.

Pessimism has had its day. It has enveloped us all with a wet blanket for the past few years. Let's welcome Optimism and treat him well. Let's all go in for more business and restore former confidence all along the line.

Now that Easter is gone but not forgotten by father's pocketbook, we are reminded that a woman's head is used to adorn most of our coins, but that it takes a good many of our coins to adorn a woman's head. Yes, ask father.

IODINE LEADS AS ANTISEPTIC

Especially Preferred by Physicians Engaged in Industrial Work, Conference Board Finds.

New York.—Iodine still holds first place as a skin and wound disinfectant in surgical technic, particularly in the industrial medical field. Such objections as have been raised to it were against the danger of burns and the discomfort it causes rather than against its efficiency as a sterilizing agent. In spite of the great popularity attained by chlorine compounds in the treatment of war wounds, iodine still holds its general popularity in favor in medical circles in the treatment of injuries in civil life.

The Conference Board of Physicians and Industry, which acts as adviser to the National Industrial Conference board, 10 East Thirty-ninth street, on medical problems in industry, recently investigated the extent to which iodine is used as a wound disinfectant in industrial work, the strength in which it is used and the method of preliminary cleansing of the wound before the application of iodine and dressings.

Replies were received from 65 physicians, all of whom were doing industrial work or surgery closely allied to industry. Forty-five replied that they used a solution of five per cent strength or less and twenty used U. S. P. or greater strength. A few industrial physicians said they did not use iodine, or only sparingly. These men preferred such disinfectants as dichloramin-T, picric acid, Dakin's solution and similar products. The objection to iodine was that it caused burns too frequently.
