USE WOOD ASHES FOR FERTILIZER

Raleigh, May 10.—"The town families of North Carolina are throwing away thousands of dollars a year through their failure to utilize as fertilizer for their gardens the wood ashes from their fire places and kitchen stoves," today remarked Dr. Clarence Poe, editor of the Progressive Farmer, in speaking of the Live-at-Home campaign and the economic necessity for increased food production in North Carolina. "Wood ashes contain valuable elements necessary for plant growth, being particularly strong in potash. I began putting my ashes on my garden a few years ago and the results have been remarkable. Town families which have no garden should offer their ashes to neighbors who do have gardens.

"Another valuable asset for the town gardener is found in leaves which too often are raked up and burned after they fall in early winter. They should never be burned but piled up to rot for use in the garden. They not only add valuable humus to the soil but are worth practically as much as an equal weight of manure for fertilizer. The destruction of leaves and the failure to utilize wood ashes for manure constitute an economic waste of no small proportions. The utilization of these things would add thousands of dollars a year to the value of our own town gardens."

CARDUI HELPED REGAIN STRENGTH

Alabama Lady Was Sick For Three Years, Suffering Pain, Nervous and Depressed—Read Her Own Story of Recovery.

Pain's Rock, Ala.—Mrs. C. M. Stegall, of near here, recently related the following interesting account of her recovery: "I was in a weakened condition. I was sick three years in bed, suffering a great deal of pain, weak, nervous, depressed. I was so weak, I couldn't walk across the floor; just had to lay and my little ones do the work. I was almost dead. I tried everything I heard of, and a number of doctors. Still I didn't get any relief. I couldn't eat, and slept poorly. I believe if I hadn't heard of and taken Cardui I would have died. I bought six bottles, after a neighbor told me what it did for her."

"I began to eat and sleep, began to gain my strength and am now well and strong. I haven't had any trouble since... I sure can testify to the good that Cardui did me. I don't think there is a better tonic made and I believe it saved my life."

For over 40 years, thousands of women have used Cardui successfully, in the treatment of many womanly ailments. If you suffer as these women did, take Cardui. It may help you, too. At all druggists. 33
