C. C. SENIOR CLASS HONORED

Of the annual privileges accorded the Senior Class of Chowan College, no occasion, this spring has been more unique and impressive than that of "Taking the Senior Table" Tuesday evening, April 18th.

Just after the big college bell announced the evening meal, the Seniors—dressed in white, marched into the dining hall. They were preceded by President Vann, Mrs. Vann, Miss McDowell, dean of the faculty, and Mr. J. H. Matthews, Chairman of the Board of Trustees. When their places at the table, indicated by attractive place cards, were occupied, the president of the Junior class approached and in these words—presented the Seniors with a lovely bouquet of pink roses.

"We thought and thought for hours and finally decided to 'say it with flowers.'"

Following this honor, the Freshman president advanced, bearing a bottle of Mary Garden perfume for each senior. Then followed the sister class—the sophomores, who gathered around the table and sang a song written especially for the occasion. Their gift to each Senior was a college seal.

Decoration in "Rose and Gray"—the class colors—formed a picturesque background for the banquet and the color motif was further used more significantly in the table decorations.

In the center of the table was a ship in blue and white—the college colors, bearing a gray pennant with 1922 in old rose. Under the ship was a large mirror—the sea. And around the mirror were pink roses—the class flower. The soft pink glow of the chandelier just above deepened the effect and emphasized the significance of the scene.

After a three course dinner was served, the following toasts were given: Mrs. Vann whos was toast mistress, gave a toast to the "Designer"—the founders and past heroes of the college. Miss Pearl Hopkins, the class president, toasted the shipyard, "Our Alma Mater." Following Miss Josie Piland gave a toast to the "Workmen"—the President, Neans, faculty and trustee;—Miss Josie Futrell toasted the "Ornament"—the training and mental and spiritual adornment of their sojourn.

Miss McDowell responded with a toast to the "Crew"—the Senior Class." President Vann followed with a toast to the "Launching of the Ship" and in tender words emphasized this importance of faithful correct steering in order to insure a safe anchorage. Mr. J. H. Matthews toasted the "voyage"—dwelling upon the duty and obligations of the crew and emphasized the importance of maintaining their loyalty and high ideals throughout the voyage.

The effect of the occasion left on the entire student body was well expressed in the refrain of the Sophomore's son:

"Here's to our Senior Class, Here's to all her past, With the first girls of the land, She will always be classed."

LETTER FROM A MOTHERLESS BABY!

Greensboro, N. C., May 10, 1922. Dear Mr. Editor: I am a little boy six months old and I want a mother. A kind providence sent me to the children's home Society and I am growing fat and will soon be a big boy.

There are so many babies here I want some good woman to write to the superintendent of the Children's Home Society of North Carolina, Greensboro, N. C., and ask him to give me to her. I am sure he will do so as he has so many motherless babies and more want to come to the Home. Write him today and I will come to some childless home.

With love, "A HOMELESS BABY BOY."
