CITIZEN'S MILITARY TRAINING CAMPS

North Carolina shows an increase from 22 to 29 per cent in her quota for the Citizens' Military Training Camps during the past week, however the state still stands at the bottom of the list in the Fourth Corps Area, and B. C. Riley, as Vice President of the Military Training Camps Association in charge of the civilian agencies assisting the Government in recruiting work, urges the citizens of the State to get behind this movement and urge the young men to take advantage of the opportunity to equip themselves at Government expense for greater service in case of emergency. Because some of the states have been a little backward in recruiting their quota, the War Department has extended the time until June 15th, in which to do this work.

Emphasis is being placed on the fact that young men who attend these camps will have a fine opportunity to engage in all kinds of athletics and have a good time under proper guidance, in addition to receiving army instruction with all expenses paid, and that they will benefit greatly mentally and physically. Any young man over seventeen years of age is eligible for the Red or Elementary Course, while the more advanced courses are designed for men with some experience or boys who attended camp last summer.

These camps will be held at Camp McClellan, Alabama, July 27th to August 26th, where instructions in Infantry, Cavalry, Field Artillery, Engineers will be given, also at Fort Barrancas, Florida, July 27th, to August 26th where instructions in Coast Artillery work will be given.

For further information and application blanks, address,

MAJOR R. S. LYTLE, Recruiting Adjutant. Headquarters, Fourth Corps Area, Fort McPherson, Ga.

CHRISTIAN HARBOR WOMAN PASSES AWAY

The entire community in which she lived was saddened by the death of Mrs. Annie W. Fairless, of near Christian Harbor, which occurred Thursday night, May 18. Mrs. Fairless was a noble example of a true Christian, a member of the Episcopal church of Winton, and a loyal church member to the last of her career. The interment, attended by a large concourse of loving friends and devoted relatives was held at the home place, Saturday, May 20th. She leaves to mourn their loss, her devoted husband, Mr. J. J. Fairless, and three children. The deep loss of the community in the passing away of this Christian woman will be lessened only by the passage of the years to come.

ROBERTA

ROBERTA, the charming boyish name signifying "bright fame," is one of the many examples of feminine names coined directly from the masculine cognomen, Robert. Though Robert can be clearly traced, there is no record of the evolution of the feminine and it can only be deduced that some parent, disappointed at the birth of a daughter, bestowed the family name upon the girl-child and added the final "a" as a concession to the sex. Roberta has a charmingly poetical heritage. Her counterpart appears in the most famous passages of England's early history. The origin of the name was in "red," which accounts for the translation of "bright." One of the wild dukes of Normandy brought it back to England and numerous earls and nobles seized upon it, establishing its vogue permanently. The dearly beloved Robin Hood, whose deeds are recorded in English ballads, did much toward making it popular. Robin was the epithet by which Queen Elizabeth addressed the two earls, stepson and stepfather, who sunned themselves in her favor. Robert of Bruce was the national hero of Scotland and Robin Lawless was a favorite Irish character. Roberta is essentially American, though the contraction, Bertie, which is the endearment for several other names as well as Roberta, has the real Yankee sound. Roberta's talismanic stone is the sapphire, which is said to guard her from danger and disease. Tuesday is her lucky day and 7 her lucky number. (Copyright.)
