One day this week a certain man of Ahoskie stopped in Manhattan Cafe and borrowed John Hale's newspaper. John, being a lover of his country, receives a Greek publication, so when this man asked John for the loan of his paper, he gladly accommodated him. The borrower put the paper in his pocket and went home. After supper when he sat down to read what was happening, he soon decided that something was wrong with his glasses. John says he met this gentleman on the street the next day and the gentleman would not speak to him. It doesn't pay to borrow everybody's paper.

IN POLICE COURT

Quite a little excitement was caused on the streets of Ahoskie Tuesday when Geo. Harrell, Jr., colored, struck Mr. Henry Benthall with his fist or hand, the force of the blow knocking Mr. Benthall down. It seems that Mr. Benthall reproved Harrell for beating a mule, belonging to the County. An argument was started which resulted as stated above. After striking Mr. Benthall the negro beat a hasty retreat but was captured and arraigned before Mayor W. L. Curtis who fined him the sum of $14.70 for his actions. Upon being released after paying the fine, Harrell was again arrested on a warrant charging him with cruelty to animals. This case was heard by Magistrate J. H. Mitchell who found him guilty as charged and assessed a fine of $14.65 upon him. The moral to be gained from this story is that it costs just 5 cents more to hit a white man than it does a mule.

CONTROL OF THE RED SPIDER

By H. L. MILLER, County Demonstration Agent.

This insect pest does quite a bit of damage in our cotton fields each year that can largely be avoided by proper care and attention. The insect thrives best in a dry season, in fact a wet spell is about the only thing that will check them when they have once gotten a good foot-hold. The first precautions to take in keeping down the spider is to keep down the weeds along your ditch banks and fence rows, and especially the poke berry weed. If you will keep down all weeds around the edge of your cotton fields you are not likely to have any trouble with the pest. The writer visited a good many cotton fields last year, infected with the red spider, and in every case was able to trace the outbreak to a clump of poke berry bushes somewhere near the edge of the cotton. Keep a close watch on your cotton field and especially so during dry spells and if you see any signs of the spider (easily noticed by the leaves turning red and dropping off from top to bottom of the plant and of course also by the presence of the almost microscopic insect itself on the under side of the leaf,) pull up and burn the plants for several feet around the plant you noticed infected. A little care along this line may easily save an almost total failure of several acres of cotton for you.

The Chinese prefer a paper much softer quality their correspondence than that made for the use of Americans. This is because the Chinese write entirely with brushes and ink. Wrapping paper of a soft, thin variety light cream in color, is usually found in the better stationery shops, while the native shops sell a cheap brown paper.
