NEGRO FARM DAIRY PROBLEMS TO BE DISCUSSED

The Negro Farm Dairy Problem will be discussed by experts from the State Department of Agriculture. It will be worth any farmer's while to come to the Farmers' Congress August 8th and 9th and learn the value and place of a milk cow on the farm. Certainly the milk cow is the farmer's greatest friend but he has failed to realize it because he has not known his friend. A farm and home are incomplete without a milk cow, many a child is deformed, many go to premature graves, many are walking around in the world weaklings, because the farmer does not know the value of his friend, the dairy cow.

At the A. & T. College during the Farmers' Congress, there will be an exhibition in front of the main building a typical dairy cow. There will also be a demonstration in grooming and milking, showing the farmer how to protect his family from harmful germs by the proper cleanliness in handling milk. While milk is one of the greatest blessings of the home if proper sanitation is practiced, it may prove to be one of the greatest curses if unsanitary methods are used, therefore, it is an essential to know how to handle the dairy products as it is to produce them for the families' use.

There will also be a demonstration in butter-making by one of the College students. The sanitary handling, proper preparation, seasoning etc., will be shown in this demonstration. It is worth any farmer's trip to the Congress to hear this lecture on "The Value of the Dairy Cow and see the demonstrations referred to above. Watch the papers for other items of the program that will appear later.

CHRISTIAN HARBOR NEWS

Mr. and Mrs. B. N. Sykes and Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Rowe were visitors in the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. V. Grissom last Sunday.

Mrs. A. D. White, of Colerain, was a caller in our community last Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Bismark Hoggard, who has been visiting Mr. and Mrs. N. S. Hoggard left Monday for their home in Norfolk.

Mr. W. J. Holloman spent the week end in Norfolk on business.

Mrs. J. G. Raby, of Tarboro, and her mother Mrs. Addie Williams, of Colerain, were visitors at Christian Harboro Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. B. B. Owens, who has been visiting her relatives for some time left Tuesday to visit her brother Mr. W. H. Evans, of Rocky Mount, from there she will go to her home in Huntington, West Va.

Mr. Henry Hyatt, of Ahoskie, was in our community last Sunday.

Mrs. J. D. Downing and son J. D. Jr., of Norfolk, who has been visiting Mrs. J. N. Blythe and Mrs. N. S. Hoggard left Tuesday for Rocky Mount and will accompany Mrs. B. B. Evans to her home in Huntington, West Va.

Our Sunday School picnic was held at the church last Wednesday. A very good program was rendered which was enjoyed by all. We were also glad to have many visitors with us, among them were; Rev. Barnes of River Side and Rev. Bristow of Colerain. Rev. Barnes gave us a very good sermon in the afternoon, his text being—education.

We were sorry that our pastor Rev. R. B. Lineberry could not be with us at Christian Harboro last Wednesday.

To Secure Clouds on Negative.
Amateur photographers are delighted to find, sometimes, that they have natural clouds upon their negatives, and they imagine that these have occurred by a lucky chance. Really the result is a proof that they have made a correct exposure.

In order to secure clouds on the negative, it is necessary to remember an old rule—"Expose for the shadows, and the high-lights will take care of themselves." In other words, one must look for the darkest part of the picture, and give that part sufficient exposure. Usually, clouds are lost because the sky, being bright, is much more exposed than other parts of the picture. On development the image becomes dense there before the darker parts are strong enough. Hence the sky will not print.

DISOLUTION NOTICE.

This is to notify the public that the undersigned has sold his entire interest of shop tools and machinery in the firm of B. Vinson and Brother to J. A. Horton. All persons holding claims against the firm of B. Vinson and Brother will be paid by the firm of Horton and Vinson. All persons indebted to the said firm of B. Vinson and Brother will please make payment to B. Vinson and Brother.

Pretty Things That are made at Home

HOME makers and hostesses are making more and more use of paper for household decoration, as a substitute for linen and in many other ways. The list of things for which paper serves grows longer; even fancy dress costumes and millinery are made of it and recently there has been much experimenting with paper toys. Its place is established as a medium for making table decorations as lamp and candle shades, floral pieces, place cards and centerpieces. The summer hostess finds frequent use for these paper things, especially in the affairs which concern the members of the younger set.

Centerpieces, nut cups and place cards, lamp and candle shades usually reflect the time of year and the occasion. A bluebird table set, as pictured here, is recommended for a birthday table, although it is appropriate for many other occasions as well. It includes a centerpiece covered with pink rose petals and having wire handles wound with pink crepe. They intersect at the top and are tied at this point with a big bow of pink gauze ribbon. Little "bluebirds of happiness," cut from printed paper, are pasted to the end-lengths of pink baby ribbon and suspended from the handles.

The foundation for the centerpiece is made by cutting out a circle 10 inches in diameter, from cardboard. A band of cardboard 3/4 inches wide is cut long enough to go around this circle and one edge of it is fastened to the circle with short pieces of gummed cloth. The petals may be pasted or sewed to the cardboard and basket lined with pink crepe paper.

Little paper nut cups are provided with wire handles (wound with crepe paper) and covered with petals. A bluebird is poised on each handle. The place cards are supported by standards of the covered wire to which they are tied with baby ribbon and a bluebird finds his flight arrested by each of them.

The comic spoon dolls are made of picnic spoons, wire and crepe paper and dressed in any costume the hostess chooses—as in college garb for the luncheon table of a home-coming student.

COMBINED FABRICS SERVE THE THRIFTY SEAMSTRESS

FABRICS have traveled in pairs this season, and there are rumors that this vogue is to continue. Dresses and blouses, especially, reveal a happy union of two materials. Where there is not a combination of two different fabrics, there are likely to be two varieties of one fabric, or at least two contrasting-colors used together. We find georgette crepe and pussy willow crepe in one frock—canton and crepe in another; taffeta, dotted swiss, the crepe weaves and many other materials have all sought the companionship of organdie as a life partner—and so mated have sailed the summer seas of fashion with great success.

It does not take thrifty seamstresses long to see the advantage in this vogue for combined materials and their wardrobes are amplified accordingly. Taking example from their rich relations, gingham have associated themselves with organdie and volle, cotton crepe and ratine take unto themselves mates, and two old dresses become one new one or a little new goods makes it possible for last year's dress to begin life anew. The two smart costumes pictured show combinations of two materials that may be carried out in either silk or cotton goods.

For the dress at the left, cotton kasha or plain gingham or fabrics of like character can be used for the plain underdress and ratine for the sleeveless jacket. One can imagine it in white or tan, with the jacket in blue, green, yellow or red. It could be prettily developed in white crepe de chine with black canton crepe.

Black and white, in the model at the right make a distinguished dress, but almost any color with white makes an ideal midsummer costume. White organdie, volle or crepe de chine, invite any of the light-weight materials in a color to bear them company and narrow braid in the same color is chosen for decoration.
