TO DISTINGUISH COMMON GRASSES

Not Many of Wild Species Are Abundant or Valuable in Any One Locality.

TIMOTHY IS MOST IMPORTANT

It Grows All Over Northern Half of United States and South to Beginning of Cotton Belt—Details of Seeds.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Although there are probably 6,000 distinct species of grasses in the world, only about 60 of these are important cultivated plants. Not more than 20 wild species are abundant or valuable in any one locality. With an illustrated guide to help, one can easily learn to distinguish many of the grasses, both cultivated and wild. Elaborate instruments or detailed knowledge of structures of the grasses are unnecessary. To aid in making these distinctions, the United States Department of Agriculture has prepared a new farmer's bulletin, No. 1254, "Important Cultivated Grasses," by C. V. Piper, agronomist, in which 26 well-known grasses are described and illustrated.

A Load of Rhodes Grass, Baled and Ready for Shipment.

Timothy Most Important.

Timothy is said to be the most important hay grass cultivated in America. It grows all over the northern half of the United States, and about as far south as the beginning of the cotton belt. Kentucky bluegrass, in spite of its name, is not a native of this country, but was undoubtedly brought over from the Old World by early colonists, in mixed grass seeds, and grew well in the new soil. Kentucky bluegrass is well known for the excellent lawns it makes, and for the highly nutritious pasturage it furnishes.

Details of Seed.

The bulletin gives the weight per bushel seeds of various grasses, number of seeds to a pound, and the usual rate of seeding to the acre. Redtop, Bermuda grass, Orchard grass, Carpet grass, Canada bluegrass, Napier grass, Rhodes grass, Para grass, several "fescues," and millets, rye-grasses, Sudan grass and others are described fully in the bulletin, and their principal uses indicated. The bulletin may be obtained upon application to the United States Department of Agriculture.

WAREHOUSE LAW IN EFFECT

Department of Agriculture Co-operating With Bankers in States in the Northwest

Efforts to put the United States warehouse act in effect on a large scale in the Northwest are being made by the United States Department of Agriculture in co-operation with the banks of that section. Grain warehousemen who were licensed under the act last year have indicated their intention of renewing their licenses this year, and it is expected that a number of other warehousemen will come into the system.

GREEN MANURE HELPS SOILS

Government Has Collected Much Valuable Information in Regard to Practice.

Many of the poorer soils can be improved by plowing under a green manure crop. The government has recently collected the available information in regard to the practice into a farmers' bulletin, No. 1250, on "Green Manuring," which may be obtained free on application to the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C. Every man interested in soil improvement ought to have a copy.

VENTILATION DURING SUMMER

Good Plan to Remove Windows From Houses and Substitute Muslin or Fine Meshed Wire.

In the summer time it is well to remove the windows from the poultry houses and substitute muslin-covered frames, or fine meshed wire. The wide mesh wire allows the entrance of sparrows, and with sparrows come mites and often chickenpox. They are robbers of the mash box, and pests.
