

UNIQUE EXHIBIT AT FOUR COUNTY FAIR ON PEANUT VALUE

Professor Carver of Tuskegee Will Bring His Products And Will Give Demonstrations

FIRST TIME EVER WAS ASSEMBLED;
NEGRO SCIENTIST BILLED TO TALK

One Hundred Different Products Showing Value And Uses Of The Goober

Suffolk, Va., Sept. 28.—Every Fair lays claim to wonderful exhibits, but the Four County Fair in Suffolk, October 24th-27th, may truly lay claim to one of the most unique exhibits ever assembled. In fact, the peanut industry, one of the largest agricultural industries of five states, has never attempted it.

"It is but right that the first exhibit of its kind in the world should be in Suffolk," says Mr. L. P. Jordan, the secretary and who is also identified with the peanut industry. "We are going to have the first exhibit of its kind and it will be the most unique in the world."

Mr. Jordan has been working hard for several weeks to plan this exhibit and stated he would not attempt it unless it was possible to get Prof. George W. Carver, Director of Chemical Research, of the Tuskegee Normal and Industrial Institute, Tuskegee, Ala. to attend and bring with him his exhibits. A telegram yesterday concluded arrangements for Prof. Carver's products and for him to attend in person and lecture daily during the fair. Mr. Jordan now considers his plans complete and is arranging to assemble the numerous products manufactured from the peanut grown and marketed in this section of Virginia. That the exhibit will be a revelation to every one in this section, is stating facts briefly. Not even every peanut dealer knows the number of products depending on the peanut for their chief ingredients.

Prof. Carver, of Tuskegee, through his research work with the peanut and sweet potato, has opened new vistas for the peanut industry and his efforts will greatly benefit the producing states. He has produced for practical commercial uses from the peanut the following products, two salad oils, meal stock for cattle and swine, flour for diabetics, meals for polishing metals, cake, numerous confections, ground hay, leather dyes of nineteen shades, instant coffee, bisque from peanut milk, Worcester sauce, chili sauce, sprouts, relishes, breakfast foods, axle greases, toilet and laundry soaps, quinine from the red peanut skins, tannic acid, linoleum, glycerin from which nitro-glycerine was made during the war, butter chili, lard compound, Oleomargarine, cheese filler, pomade, writing ink, purple and black indelible, wood stains of nine shades and colors, and last but not least peanut milk. Peanut milk is of particular interest. An ordinary tumbler of shelled peanuts will produce one pint of rich creamy milk containing three times as much protein, three times as much carbohydrates, and twelve times as much fat as cow's milk. "By controlling the quantity of carbohydrates and proteins used," says Prof. Carver, "many different grades of milk can be made. This milk is now being produced for culinary purposes."

The life of Prof. Carver reads like a romance. He was born in Diamond Grove, Missouri in a one-room shanty. His parents were slaves. Like Booker T. Washington, with who he was associated so many years, at Tuskegee, he fought his way upward from reconstruction days and won his education by manual labor. He went to school at Fayetteville, Ark. then to Neosho, Mo. working as he went. Through help of friends, but mostly by his own efforts he entered Simpson College at Indianola, Iowa, and later completed his work in science and agriculture at the Iowa State College where he took the degrees of Bachelor and Master. He was then added to the faculty and placed in charge of the greenhouses, bacteriological laboratory and work in systematic botany and was called from that post by Booker T. Washington to his present work at Tuskegee and for thirty years he has worked at that great colored institution.

During early Spring when the peanut cleaners of the South went to Washington to consult Chairman Fordney about the peanut tariff and to appear before the Ways and Means Committee, they had Prof. Carver accompany the delegation. Speakers were allotted ten minutes each to present their arguments. When Carver was called a weary look overspread the committee. When his ten minutes time was up he prepared

WINTON NEWS

Mrs. J. A. Northcott, who has been the guest of her sister, Mrs. E. A. Huggins at Rich Square, returned home Monday.

Messrs. T. A. Eure, T. D. Northcott and E. L. Banks, Jr., attended the Radcliffe Chautauqua at Gatesville Monday evening.

Miss Anna Lee Carter left Wednesday for Greenville where she will enter East Carolina Teacher Training School.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Lassiter, Mrs. J. J. Piland and daughter, Miss Lucy Piland, motored to Coinjock Tuesday where they will visit Mr. and Mrs. Ray Midgett.

Mr. Robert L. Bridger left Monday for Chapel Hill, where he will enter school.

Mr. Jim Darden from Union was a caller in town last Sunday evening.

Misses Gladys Jenkins, Oletha Vick and Mr. Ralas Brett were visitors at Chowan College Monday afternoon.

Mr. Robert Brown was in Norfolk Friday and Saturday on business.

Mrs. Duke Eure and Miss Audrey Newsome of Ahoskie were the guests of Misses Pearle and Gladys Jenkins last Thursday night, and attended Mr. Eley's recital.

Miss Sue Britt, a member of the faculty at Chowan College, spent the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Britt.

Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Storey and two daughters from near Murfreesboro, were the guests of Mrs. R. E. Storey Tuesday evening.

Mr. T. M. Condon was the guest of friends in Gatesville last week-end. He also attended the Radcliff Chautauqua.

Mr. E. D. Hale was in Norfolk Monday on business.

Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Jenkins were the guests of Mrs. Jenkins' sister, Mrs. B. F. Storey, at Mapleton Tuesday and Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Holloman and Mrs. C. W. Jones were visitors in Ahoskie Saturday afternoon.

Mr. Thad A. Eure was the guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Eure at Gatesville last week-end.

Miss Hilda Duke, Mr. Vann Holloman and Rev. Fred Stinson from Union were callers at the home of Mr. E. L. Jenkins last Sunday afternoon.

Miss Leona Harris and Mr. Ernest Banks were visitors at Chowan College Sunday afternoon.

Mr. Robert Vann of the American Bank and Trust Co., Suffolk, spent the week-end with his home people.

Miss Emma Riddick Parker from Chowan College was the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Parker, last week-end.

Mr. Alvin Eley is spending this week in Suffolk.

Miss Ruth Edwards, a member of the faculty here, went to Williamston Sunday with a party from Sunbury spending the day.

Mr. and Mrs. I. P. Storey spent Sunday in Woodland with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Storey.

Mr. Clarence Dickerson from Tunis was a caller in town Sunday evening.

The concert given by Alvin Eley, tenor, for benefit of M. E. Church last Thursday evening in the High School Auditorium, was a great success. The attendance was larger than ever attending anything of its kind here. Mr. Eley and assisting artists were accorded a big reception and called on for repeated encores.

Misses Lane and White assisted Mr. Eley in this treat to our music lovers here.

Messrs. W. M. Eley and Jimmie Eure went over to Franklin last Saturday on business.

Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Clark and daughter, Miss Estelle Clark, Dr. and Mrs. W. B. Pollard, were the guests of Mrs. Mary Brown at Menola Sunday afternoon.

Mr. Carver was asked to continue. Congressmen from the lobby came in to the room. Carver spoke as a scientist, he showed samples of the things he had accomplished and was allowed to speak for one hour and forty minutes. He knew what he was talking about. With all his achievements, he is retiring in manner, reserved in appearance and modest. He is now past sixty years of age, medium build and dark complexion.

By assembling the numerous every day products made of peanuts numbering about fifty different commercial items, and with those of Prof. Carver, the peanut exhibit at Suffolk, in October will be worth traveling miles to see. These exhibits and the cost of assembling them is being borne largely by some of the prominent peanut cleaners of this section.

Photographs and detail description of the exhibit when assembled will mean much to the peanut industry of the entire South, for the exhibit will be along educational lines only.
