Learn the Government way to poison

For years the experts of the U. S. Department of Agriculture have been seeking a dependable and profitable way for the farmer to poison the boll weevil. After innumerable experiments and demonstrations, the Government announced the discovery of a method of poisoning with calcium arsenate, which, if properly done, will control the weevil and make cotton growing profitable in badly infested sections.

The Government work has been carried on in the far South where the weevil first appeared and where the infestation is worst. But the weevil is in North Carolina now, and our farmers can save their cotton if they use the knowledge gained in Louisiana, Alabama and Mississippi.

Like everyone else whose prosperity is wrapped up in the growing of profitable crops, we are most anxious that Carolina farmers should be shown this Government method of poisoning before the weevil destroys our cotton.
