

DIPPING VAT LAW

States Bureau of Animal Industry, under the supervision of a quarantine inspector, shall be placed in quarantine, dipped, and cared for at the expense of the owner or owners, by the quarantine inspector.

Section 10. Any expense incurred in the enforcement of section nine of this act, and the cost of feeding and caring for animals while undergoing the process of tick eradication, shall constitute a lien upon any animal, and should the owner or owners fail or refuse to pay said expense after three days' notice, they shall be sold by the sheriff of the county, after twenty days' advertising, at the courthouse door and three other public places in the immediate neighborhood of the place at which the animal was taken up for the purpose of tick eradication. The said advertisement shall state therein the time and place of sale, which place shall be where the animal is confined. The sale shall be at public auction and to the highest bidder, for cash. Out of the proceeds of the sale, the sheriff shall pay the cost of publishing the notices of the tick eradication process, including dipping, cost of feeding and caring for the animals, and the cost of the sale which shall include one dollar and fifty cents in the case of each sale to said sheriff. The surplus, if any, shall be paid to the owner of the animals if he can be ascertained. If he cannot be ascertained within thirty days after such sale, then the sheriff shall pay such surplus to the county treasurer for the benefit of the public school fund of the county. Provided, however, that if the owner of the animal shall within twelve months after the fund is turned over to the county treasurer, as aforesaid, prove to the satisfaction of the board of county commissioners of the county, that he was the owner of such animal, then upon the order of said board such surplus shall be refunded to the owner.

Section 11. It shall be the duty of the sheriff in any county in which the work of tick eradication is in progress, to render all quarantine inspectors any assistance necessary in the enforcement of this act and the regulations of the North Carolina Department of Agriculture. If the sheriff of any county shall neglect, fail or refuse to render this assistance when so required, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and be punishable at the discretion of the court.

Section 12. The Commissioner of Agriculture, by and with the consent of the State Board of Agriculture, shall have full power to promulgate and enforce such rules and regulations that may hereafter be necessary to complete tick eradication in North Carolina.

Section 13. Any person, firm, or corporation who shall violate any provision set forth in this act or any rule or regulation duly established by the State Board of Agriculture, or any officer or inspector who shall willfully fail to comply with any provisions of this act, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Section 14. Any person, or persons, who shall willfully damage or destroy by any means any vat erected, or in the process of being erected, as herein provided for tick eradication, shall be guilty of a felony, and upon conviction shall be imprisoned not less than two years nor more than ten years in the State Prison.

Section 15. All laws and parts of laws in conflict with this act are continued in force so far as they affect the State offenses, committed prior to the ratification of this act, and for no other purposes. Subject to provisions hereinbefore set out in this section, all laws and parts of laws in conflict with this act are hereby repealed.

Section 16. This act shall be in full force and effect from and after its ratification.

Ratified this 3rd day of March, 1923.

Farm Notes

As a summer legume the soybean is second to none as extension workers. As a soil building crop it is excellent and it makes good pasture for cattle, sheep and hogs.

Make provision for a good acreage to summer legumes advises College and Department of Agriculture workers. More fertile soils will result.

His first year out of college, a young farmer of Nash county made $2180 clear last year on a rented farm. Another in Sampson county made enough money to purchase and pay for a 100-hive apiary worth $1,000 and still another in Pender county made $1750 net from his farm. These men are above the $300 income men because of college training and they will get better as they gain experience.

SUPERIOR COURT

home," said Judge Daniels, in referring to the tendency so prevalent to nag at public officials and the conduct of society. He believed public officials should be made to realize their duty fully, and should be amenable to the electorate, but he decried the modern tendency to criticize, much of which was due to temporary feelings aggravated probably by one instance of miscarried justice.

A habeas corpus proceedings from Conway, Northampton County, took up nearly all of the Monday afternoon session. A negro, Jack Parker, was seeking to have a bond of $1,000 reduced, in order to allow his employer to bail him out. He was being held in the county jail at Jackson charged with an assault upon a female with intent to commit rape. Argument of counsel was concluded at five o'clock, and the prisoner remanded to jail to await the finding of Judge Daniels who announced he would give a decision later.

Minor criminal cases took up the court's time during the remainder of the day, continuing through Tuesday and Wednesday. Wednesday afternoon Carey Vaughan, colored, was arraigned for the alleged murder of his young boy. The trial is still in progress.

Esther Holloman, negro woman charged with an assault with deadly weapon upon deputy sheriff O. H. Britton, submitted and was fined $25. Her brothers who are also charged with assault upon an officer have been apprehended in Philadelphia, and will be brought back to Hertford County, provided the necessary requisition papers are honored by the Governor of Pennsylvania.

A special venire of 100 men was summoned from which to select the twelve men to pass upon Carey Vaughan, under trial for the alleged murder of his son. One of the largest court crowds of recent years is on hand at Winton for the trial.

The grand jury submitted its report on county property, all of which was found in good condition, and was discharged by Judge Daniels late Wednesday afternoon. Just before being discharged, G. C. Picot, one of the jurors, read to Judge Daniels an appreciation and tribute of respect unanimously ordered by the grand jury, in which the veteran jurist was extolled for the strong charge delivered and for his despatch of business. Judge Daniels, in a few words, feelingly expressed his gratitude for the compliments paid.
