

RAILROAD MEN SPEAKERS

put into effect by the railroads of the United States. He laid particular stress upon the money his road was investing.

He called for whole-hearted support from the business interests; asked for quicker loading and unloading of freight cars; assured the persons present that the railroads would do all within their power for Ahoosie and the general public; and wound up by asking that a friendly feeling exist between the public and the railroads, so that the latter's securities would receive favorable consideration.

He said: "Unless they are able to get capital they will not be able to give you the service you have got to have if you are to prosper. But so long as there is any prospect of government ownership of railroads, or so long as money fairly invested in railroad property is prohibited by law or prevented by restrictive regulations from earning a return comparable with that earned by money invested in other businesses it is going to be hard to get people to put their money into railroad securities, and the railroads are going to find it difficult to raise the capital that is needed to give you the service you require."

The young ladies assisting in serving the banquet and who were given a rising vote of thanks by the banqueters were Mrs. J. Roy Parker, and Misses Earl Lawrence, Helen Leary, Mary Glen Smith and Nancy Howard.

Gasoline, to give you complete satisfaction, must be made to specifications as carefully as the motor in which it is used.

In its all-round completeness lies the strength of "Standard" Gasoline

JUST as there is a great difference in houses, automobiles and roads because of the way in which they are built so there is a marked difference in gasoline. Building good gasoline is chiefly a matter of skill, long experience and up-to-date equipment. "Standard" the Balanced gasoline, is complete because it is built to rigid specifications. It has all the qualities that you require in a motor fuel.

This gasoline hasn't been perfected in a week or a month or a year. Constant effort over a long period of years has made it possible. Starting with a strong foundation of abundant power, this company has built into its gasoline those other qualities which you usually take for granted but which are very often lacking—quick pick-up, instant starting, long mileage, full clean burning, uniform quality.

Get all the satisfaction you're entitled to from your annual gasoline investment—by using "Standard" regularly. At the red S. O. pump—everywhere.
