WHAT'S DOING AT NATION'S CAPITOL

(By PETER KEEGAN) COL. GEORGE HARVEY, the American Ambassador to the Court of St. James, is the star boarder at the White House. The lean and lanky George is registered at a down town hotel, but he has a distinct preference for the meals provided by the President's chefs. After taking it easy and getting plenty to eat for a couple of weeks, he will return to his post in London.

THERE ARE SOME observers who think Coolidge played poor politics by letting Governor Pinchot of Pennsylvania get into the limelight in connection with wage war in the hard coal fields. On the other hand, the President's friends say he should be given credit for not hogging all of the glory, while others suggest that the stage is all set for Pinchot to hook up with Coolidge as the Republican Vice-Presidential candidate next year.

GEORGE B. LOCKWOOD, an Indiana newspaper publisher, will be one of the "key men" in the Republican organization in 1924. Lockwood has been acting as Chairman of the Republican National Committee this summer during the absence of his chief, John T. Adams. He has a keen political mind and stands high with President Coolidge.

WASHINGTON DERIVED considerable amusement out of the publication of Hiram Johnson's admission that he didn't think he could even carry California should he run for President. Johnson made the statement in a highly confidential letter to a friend, and charged that it was "stolen" and published by political enemies. After weeping on the shoulders of his friends here, Johnson has gone back to San Francisco to see to it that no more such letters get into the public prints.

HENRY C. WALLACE, the Secretary of Agriculture, and Hubert Work, the Secretary of the Interior, are ready to fly at each other's throat. They are fighting to determine which is going to control Alaska. At present Wallace thinks he's got the upper hand, but Work has planted his feet firmly and is ready to scrap him at every turn. Some of the newspaper correspondents who went into Alaska with Harding can't see that there's anything to fight about. They are in favor of giving the territory back to the Eskimos, with condolences.

JAMES J. DAVIS, steel worker, author and Secretary of Labor, is fretting because he did not have a chance to take a hand in the latest coal upheaval. John Hays Hammond, Chairman of the Federal Coal Commission, was the President's right hand man through all the trouble, while Davis sat in the side lines, disconsolate and alone. They wouldn't let him play, and he's wondering why.

TOURISTS WHO COME to Washington hereafter will not have to pay to be shown through the United States Capitol. Legislation has been drafted abolishing the existing fee system and making the guides employees of the Government, thereby making them liable to severe punishment if they accept any money from visitors. Guides in other public buildings have been on this basis for many years.

THIS IS THE SEASON for foreign diplomats to get the State Department to approve their requisitions for the importation of their fall and winter liquor supply. They are usually allowed all that they ask for, the amounts depending on the size of the ambassador's staff and the amount of entertaining contemplated. The liquor is usually landed at Baltimore, and brought over here—a distance of forty miles on motor trucks, heavily guarded.

SINCE THE CHANGE in the Administration, there have been new rumors that Harry S. New, the Postmaster General, was to leave the Cabinet to become Governor General of the Philippines succeeding Leonard Wood. These have all met with denial, however, and it is known that both the Postmaster General and Mrs. New prefer Washington society to that which they would encounter at Manila.

Cutting Expenses

keeper of the County Home. The purchase of supplies for the Home will hereafter be delegated to W. H. Vaughan, Commissioner.

Tax collectors were named at the meeting, and doing the job was a matter of only a very few minutes. Every single commissioner named his man and he went through without opposition, except Mr. Eure, Winton commissioner. "Bud" Matthews didn't want the job again, but there were four others who did, and Mr. Eure let the commissioners choose between them. It required three ballots to name the winner, W. Mills Jordan getting the appointment. The other contestants were N. C. Joyner, Leslie Hale, and H. B. Knox. The following were named in the other townships: Ahooskie, S. E. Vaughn; St. Johns, W. H. Vinson; Harrellsville, J. L. Smith; Murfreesboro, T. T. Parker; Maneya Neck, F. T. Railey. All of these served this year, except Mr. Railey.

Other business despatched was the postponement of sale of land for 1922 taxes until the first Monday in October, granting $8 per month to blind woman and her granddaughter, paying $15 to have benches built on courthouse lawn, buying a cow for the County Home, and reducing J. W. Godwin's taxes, error in acres listed.

The following jurors were drawn for the October term of superior court:

REVIVAL IN PROGRESS

Revival services began at Ahooskie Baptist church Monday afternoon and is continuing through the week, there being two meetings each day, at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, and 7:30 at night. Preaching at night begins at 8 o'clock, a song and prayer service being held thirty minutes prior to the preaching hour. Rev. Isenhower is assisted in the meeting by Reverend Wheeler, who has held a meeting here before, during the pastorate of Rev. F. T. Collins. He is now preaching a series of sermons to the church members, and large congregations have heard him at every service.

PYLAND-COOPER

A beautiful romance came to a happy climax on Monday, September 3, when Miss Josie B. Pyland of Winton, N. C., became the bride of Mr. D. H. Cooper of Jefferson City, Tenn. The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Pyland of Winton, and is a modest young lady possessing an attractive personality. She is a graduate of Chowan College, and was formerly a teacher at Goldsboro.

Mr. Cooper is a graduate of Carson-Newman College, and has been in the teaching profession for several years. He has left that profession, however, to enter business in his home town.

They became acquainted about three years ago while Miss Pyland was a student at Chowan College and Mr. Cooper an instructor at the same place.

After the simple ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Cooper departed by motor for Jefferson City, Tenn., where they will make their future home.

"Keep those tires up!"

—says the experienced Fleet Boss. And he's right, absolutely. His long experience has shown him that it wastes gasoline to run on under-inflated tires—that a loss of 15 or 20 pounds of air pressure in the tires can cost you as much as 1 to 1 1/2 miles per gallon, whereas an extra passenger cuts off only 1/10 to 1/5 of a mile. Polarine is built around a practical experience of more than fifty years which has shown us a thousand and one things that affect the performance of a motor oil or fuel. You can trust it as thoroughly as you can trust the finest tire or motor car.
