HOG RAISING.

The Best Breeders and How They Should be Treated.

I have been breeding hogs a long time and have decided the Berkshires are the best I have ever raised, and are one of the most popular in all parts of the South.

Berkshires are of English origin, and were first brought to this country about 1830. They may be put in good condition for killing before they are six months old, but will continue to gain in weight until they are two years or more of age.

They are good "rustlers" and will make a large part of their living in the pasture, but respond quickly to fattening food. They lose less in dressing than do most others.

They are excellent to follow cattle, it being almost impossible for them to be hurt by the horns of the cattle. If closely confined and well fed, they grow rapidly and fatten easily.

Select a sow from a large, even litter, and I prefer having her one year old when her first litter is dropped. The sow is now given a liberal treatment and furnished as great a variety of food as thick slops made of bran or shorts, in addition to a small allowance of corn, with clover and rye pastures.

They should have plenty of exercise every day, with clean water to drink and cool themselves in. Ten days before she is to farrow, if circumstances have prevented you from keeping your brood sows separated from the balance of your herd during the entire time of pregnancy, quietly separate her from the herd and give her good, comfortable, private quarters, with a moderate amount of dry straw for bedding, in a bed with warm southern exposure.

Now feed with a view to keeping her system loose and open, thus avoiding a feverish and restless condition in farrowing, reducing the quantity gradually a short time before farrowing. You will find but very little risk when the proper precautions have been taken to secure the above conditions beforehand.

As a rule, it seldom pays to disturb them while farrowing, unless the weather is very cold, when it is best to cover the mother with a blanket and remove the pigs as fast as delivered to the fire and keep them there until all are dry.

The Cost of Education.

Dr. Melver in a recent address at the close of the Charlotte High School said he would discuss the cost of an education. By education he meant an ornamental thing that can be put on and off like an article of clothing, but a training that is needed for work.

Education is a training for work. There is no place in the world for those who do not work. The man who lives and consumes more than he produces is a drone.

It is impossible to buy an education. It is neither bought nor sold, and it never comes by inheritance. In cold dollars and cents an education will cost $5,000. It has been estimated that it will cost that amount to graduate a boy or girl with the bachelor's degree.

There are many who say they cannot afford such a sum, and yet the speaker said that he had known widows without resources to educate five or six sons. The money consideration is the smallest part of the investment.

Thousands have got the money, but there are other things their education will do more than the money to do. The few who complete their education will do more than the many who do not.

In the second place, Dr. Melver said that a great item in the cost of an education was the skillful teacher. It is the teacher that directs the mind of the pupil. It is far better that the boy or girl come in contact with one great master than that he or she be taught by all the wooden teachers in the world, who delight only to ask routine questions.

The speaker said that when he went into the court room and heard the lawyer plead his case, he felt that he would like to be a lawyer. When he heard the preacher preach and sway his audience, he felt that he would like to be a preacher. He also felt that when he saw the crack short-stop pull down the ball and throw the man out at first, that he would like for the time to be a short-stop. Men admire the man who is master of whatever he undertakes. The teachers should be masterful men and masterful women.

The speaker thought the teachers should be better paid, so that they might have the opportunity of traveling, of buying books, and in other ways of making themselves masters. It is a fact that laborers are paid a greater yearly salary than many teachers.

The teacher can't teach geography if she has not been out of the congressional district, and she can't leave the district unless she is better paid for her work.

Just What Everyone Should Do.

Mr. J. T. Barber, of Irwinville, Ga., always keeps a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy at hand, ready for instant use.

Attacks of colic, cholera, morbus and diarrhoea come on so suddenly that there is no time to hunt a doctor or go to the store for medicine. Mr. Barber says: "I have tried Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy which is one of the best medicines I ever saw. I keep a bottle of it in my room as I have had several attacks of colic and it has proved to be the best medicine I ever used." Sold by Standard Drug Co., Asheville Drug Co., Asheville, and W. A. Underwood, Randleman.

Having qualified as executor of the estate of the late Mrs. M. J. Jones, deceased, I have the honor to certify that Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy cured my husband of a severe attack of Cuban diarrhoea, which he brought home from Cuba. We had several doctors but they did him no good. One bottle of this remedy cured him, as our neighbors will testify. I thank God for so valuable a medicine. For sale by Standard Drug Co., Asheville Drug Co., Asheville, and W. A. Underwood, Randleman.
