

TARIFF REVISION.

Opposed by Republican Leaders as Impracticable.

SPEAKER CANNON'S VIEWS.

The "Common Mind" of the People is Giving Much Trouble to the Republicans—Abundant Convention that Partially Revises the Tariff Rates Would Destroy Domestic Industry.

Speaker Cannon has been smoked out of his tariff hole and forced to give a reason why the tariff should not be revised. He declared in a private letter to a trust pottery manufacturer, protected from competition by the tariff, that "the desire for a change which exists in the common mind will drive the Republican party, if continued in power, to a tariff revision." He said he did not want it, but it would have to come "in the not distant future." This letter having been published compelled Mr. Cannon to make a further statement of his position. He starts off by saying that the amendment of a single schedule, or a few schedules, is "entirely impracticable." In his judgment "nothing can be done except by a complete revision of the tariff." That, he says, "would halt production, consumption and commerce for at least twelve months," and the result would "probably not be an improvement on existing law."

For the general interest of the whole country," he thinks, the revision toward which "the common mind" in its desire for change is driving the Republican party "should be postponed as long as possible." This disagreement of the common mind of Speaker Cannon with that of the common people is nothing new with Republican politicians. Their affiliation with the corporations, trusts and combines obliterates any sympathy for the plundered people. But tariff revision and other reforms will come, not through the aid of the unwilling Republican Speaker of the House of Representatives, or his party associates, but through the ardent reform efforts of a new Congress, born of the desires of the Democracy and aided by independent voters who are sick and tired of the plundering of the trusts and the corruption and grafting of the Republican party.

The attitude of the Republican politician towards the protective tariff is like a heathen before his idol, it is a fetish to worship and too sacred to be touched. But when the time of stress and political trouble comes and the tariff idol has shown itself to be but a brazen image and its high priests have exalted it to plunder the people, then the voters will have none of it and will cast it down and break it.

The Republican contention that to revise the tariff, by reducing the rates on hides, or coal, would destroy domestic industry is too absurd for argument. Would it ruin the crops because the rain to come or the sun to be darkened? The Beef Trust would lose a trifle of its enormous profits, but no one believes the farmer or cattle grower would lose a cent. Even the abnormally high price for hides, now being paid, has not increased the price of cattle, for cattle are now selling cheaper than for many years before, though the tariff protected Beef Trust is getting a high price for beef.

Take the iron and steel schedules and abolish the tariff rates on the products of the Steel Trust and that giant corporation would still control the market for its products, for the cost of transportation over seas would be protection enough and only inordinate profits would be reduced. There is hardly a schedule of the tariff that does not shelter some trust, or combine, that in all fairness to a long-suffering people does not require revision. The Republicans refuse to meddle with it, so this duty must be entrusted to the Democrats, who are pledged to a reasonable reform that will prevent the trusts selling cheaper abroad than here, and while producing enough revenue to run the government will reduce the cost of living to something more in reason than now.

BLACKBURN WILL BE LICKED AT POLLS.

What his enemies within his own party failed to do for him in court at Greensboro last week the Democrats ought to be able to do for Mr. Spencer Blackburn at the polls next fall. He and his friends think he is invincible, but if the Democrats nominate the right man against him they will learn better. His public record, notwithstanding the boast on his campaign buttons that "He Does Things for Us," is not so admirable as to commend him to any Democrat and there are more Democrats than republicans in the eighth district. All that remains to do is to get them to the election and have them vote for their party's nominee.—Charlotte Observer.

Want Duty on Railroad Rails Remitted.

Railroad building is so active in Canada that the local steel mills are unable to supply the demand for rails and large orders are accordingly being turned to the United States. But the present Canadian duty on steel rails is high enough to make importations expensive and so the Grand Trunk Pacific company has petitioned the government to remit the duty on the ground that it was imposed purely as a protective measure and the local mills cannot meet the demand.—Springfield, Mass., Republican.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Carpenter, who have had charge of our school since September 1st, resigned to moved back to their farm at Trinity, N. C., and Capt. C. F. Siler has been elected to finish the unexpired term. He began his duties Monday April 16th, and the worthy Captain reports a full school. It was necessary for Mr. and Mrs. Carpenter to leave before the expiration of the term in order to get their farm in shape and a crop started.—Biscoe Cor. to The Montgmanian.

FROM THE PREFACE

"In every situation General Lee was a great, a dominant figure. The character of Lee has been somewhat lost sight of in the study of his career, but it fairly glows with all that is high and noble and true. The Bayard of the South exhibits the characteristics of the Christian gentleman to the full. His is a personality to be studied, to be followed, to be loved. In his greatness and in his simplicity he is an enduring inspiration to true manhood for all America—the world even."

The Patriots

By CYRUS TOWNSEND BRADY Author of "The Southerners," etc.

A War-time story in all its aspects. It opens with a chapter in the life of Lee, woven around the hour in which he decided to take up arms for Virginia and the Southland.

There is a dual love story—a vein of the most tender and sweetest sentiment running through the pages.
