GOOD HEALTH GIVERS

IMPROVED HIGHWAYS FROM A MED-ICAL POINT OF VIEW.

Michigan Physician Points Out the Benedis and Disadvantages to Man-kind of Pine and Bad Roads—Value of Trees Along Roadsides.

The medical man in ploneer days The medical man in ploaser units was many times one of the first to blaze the path, to lay out the road or to plan the highways, and it is a fact that in modern times he is one of the first to lend his knowledge and aid to further the movement of good roads, says cleideressed for E. B. Smith, secretary of the Michigan College of Medicine and Surgery, in the Auto Advocate and Councillation. try Roads.

gery, in the Auto Advocate and County Roads.

Many years ago Michigan possessed a man of sterling worth, broad intellect and keen observation for the requirements of the people of his locality and the needs of good roads and the reclaiming of many acres for new settlers and clearing up of the cause of much sickness and death. Dr. Henry Wyman in about 1844 was a member of the legislature from Lenawee county. The district was a great cotton-wood swamp. Malaria and typhoid fever prevailed every month of the year. Through his efforts in the legislative body Dr. Wyman secured appropriations for digging a ditch a considerable distance across Lenawee and well into Mouroe. They say that at that time logs were felled, and over the logs was thrown the dirt from the ditch, which contained considerable clay. These logs were either fired on purpose or by chance, and the fire baked the clay into the brick substance, and today going through this country one can see the result of that baking process.

As a result of this ditching and turnbaking process.

As a result of this ditching and turn piking there are no more beautiful farms, with people enjoying good health, in any other part of the United States than in Lemawee and Mourse counties. So I believe that as good roads mean good drainings—that is, drainage of the surface of the road, drainage under the road and drainage along the sides of the road—so we have good health to those living along the roads construct-ied after this manner. Man is so constructed that when he walks, runs or jumps the jar is lessen-ed and entirely spent before it reaches tissue or vital organs that are unable to withstand it. This is so on account of the arch in the foot and on account of the elasticity of that arch. This of the einsticity of that arch. This arch is a more perfect one than you builders can make. Between each fom are fluid buffers, and running from one lone to another, keeping the Johrs from spreading and to aid them to swing, are guy ropes that assume a lax or tense condition as required, and between each bone in the spinal column are mattresses that make it possible for one to jump from a considerable height, and, striking upon the feet, the force of the blow is carried from part to part of the body and the force spent upon these resisting bodies until it is spent before reaching the brain. I firmly believe that the rough, and roads of our country are no the brain. I firmly believe that the rough, bad roads of our country are no small factor as a cause of the large number of nervous and insune cases that our rural districts supply.

Cutarrial conditions are aggravated by the dust from the roads, the decay-ing vegetable life along the roadside breeds disease, and the stagnated pool is a fertile field for low forms of aniis a fertile field for low forms of animal life. From these the air is polluted, and man has only to be found in a condition to be infected. It is too bad that these stagmant pools cannot cry out to the passerby: "Unclean! Unclean!" If this were so you and I could turn out of the way and pass by. Healthy plant life along the roadside is consincive to good health in man. It helps give unto man that which man meets for his growth and for his living. What is pleasing to the eye gives beath. That is one reason why the health. That is one reason why the tourist and travelers seek other climes. The eye is delighted. It is pleased. That helps the body. Every special sense is helped, and so the great body is made more healthy. The nose smells, and we are pleased or displeased. We are satisfied, even gratified, or we are disgusted and sickened. The ear hears the sweet songs, the mind becomes joyous, and the heart beats stronger and fuller, and we are made to feel the joy of exhibitation at the pleasant surroundings; we are made to feel that it is good to live. The keen sense of taste begins to manifest itself. The appetite is sharpened, the stomach es better work, and the man begins to feel his power and strength and feels that it is good to be here. I can say to you farmers, I can say to you men outside of the cities and towns, that good roads are your salva-tion, your health. I can say that that which improves your everyday life and that which improves your ways in life make you live longer make you live easier, make you live a little better, and that which makes you live longer, easier and better makes it possible for you to die easier.
