THE TWELFTH CONFERENCE

Young Women's Christian Association Held at Asheville.

The twelfth annual Southern Conference of the Young Women's Christian Association of the 8th of June at Kenelworth Inn, near Asheville. The conference continued until the evening of the nineteenth.

At this conference there were three hundred and twenty-four young women from Virginia, the Carolinas, the Gulf States, Tennessee and Kentucky, representing both Colleges and City Associations. Mrs. J. S. Griffith, of Chicago, chairman of the American Union, was the presiding officer, other members of the committee were present and assisted her.

We who were delegates to the conference, soon found that it was good to be there. We came in contact with the leaders who, had their whole heart in the work, and, too, it was very helpful to mingle with those who are from other colleges and towns with them, plan for association work. But in the very beginning we were very glad to see the dear old Mrs. Griffith, who had been with us many years, and to see her again.

To me it was very dear to see the dear old Mrs. Griffith, who had been with us many years, and to see her again. It was very dear to see the dear old Mrs. Griffith, who had been with us many years, and to see her again.

WISDOM OF BAILEY

The Supreme Court in a Middle on the Interstate Commerce Bill.

The rate of the interstate commerce bill, and on the 14th of the Supreme Court put into a tangle on the rate question which may serve to illustrate the wisdom of Bailey and the absurdity of the railroad amendment. In a case arising under the interstate commerce law the court was equally divided, four justices on one side and four on the other and one disqualified by his personal interest in the result.

In that case certain railroads had about six years ago made an advance in the rate on hay. The interstate commerce commission decided that the new rate was unreasonable and undertook to establish another. The railroad company refused to obey the order of the commission, and the commission applied to Judge Wing of the United States circuit court for a mandamus. Judge Wing, decided that the commission has no power to make rates and dismissed the bill. An appeal was taken to the supreme court and the order dismissing the bill stands affirmed by a divided court, by a majority of the court. It has taken six years for the commission to determine that the commission had no right to make a rate. Under the railroad bill as it passed the senate the order of the commission is made to be obeyed and the railroads are made to obey the order of the commission.
