

LIBERTY NEWS.

Many Familiar Faces Seen, While Others are Absent in the Homes in Liberty—Wants Mr. Causey for Treasurer.

The fruit tree agents are returning. M. J. Reitzel and others have already come.

We would like to suggest the name of H. C. Causey, from our place for Treasurer of Randolph county. He is one of our best citizens and has been a strong man for his party all his life.

Dr. J. W. Long and family spent a night in Liberty recently with his sister, Mrs. C. P. Smith, Sr. He was enroute to Mt. Vernon Springs.

President Thomas C. Amick was absent last week and the early part of this week in Mebane, Chapel Hill, and other points. He delivered an address at Mebane at an educational rally and one at Haw Fields at a Sunday School Convention while he was away.

Mr. W. G. Amick and wife of Bluefield, West Virginia, have been visiting their brother, Prof. T. C. Amick.

Mr. Branson has moved from the Hornady house to the Brower house in Liberty.

The Hornady house is to undergo extensive repairs preparatory to its being used as a club house for the young ladies attending the Liberty Normal College. It is to be painted outside and inside and to have other repair work done. It will make a very pleasant home for the club girls.

Prof. Hornady and wife spent a part of last week at the home of O. N. Hornady in Alamance county.

Prof. Amick and wife, and foster daughter, Miss Harlow Jones, spent a part of last week at the home of Mrs. K. B. Causey in Guilford county.

Mrs. Josie Harlow, of Chicago, returned with her husband to Liberty recently. They expect to make Liberty their home.

Miss Pearl Deane has bought a good amount of property of Dr. Hatcher, in Liberty. She and her father expect to improve the property right away in the near future.

People are commencing to harvest their wheat. They are getting good crops.

The outlook for the Liberty Normal College grows to be very good. Business foundations for information are coming from every direction, and the prospect is for the best term of years to have ever had. If you have not seen the catalogue and for information.

A number of our people live at Franklinsville at the county Sunday school Association this week.

An advertisement of the A. and M. College of Raleigh appears in this issue.

The catalogue of this popular institution shows 494 students during the year, distributed among the departments as follows: Civil Engineering, 94; Electrical Engineering, 74; Agriculture (all courses), 34; snort course, 44; (dairying), 23; Textile Industry (cotton manufacturing), 37; Industrial Chemistry, 21; Mechanical Engineering, 68; Mechanic Arts (drawing, designing wood and iron work), 41. In spite of urgent need for more room and added teaching force the college continues to do more, and better work. The registration the past year was 494, against 474 in 1904 '5. The graduating class numbered this year 34, last year 49. Already the number of inquiries making toward matriculation in September is very large. Young men desiring industrial training would do well to write for a catalogue to President Winston, West Raleigh, N. C.

A new Methodist church will be erected at Eagle Springs.

Bud Thomas and Coggins Bros. are putting in a new saw mill, grist mill, and cotton gin at Tranway.

The new pipe organ for the Carthage Presbyterian Church has arrived and the installation will require an addition to the building which will be done at once.

During a colored festival at Carthage July 4th, Dan Shaw, a desperate character, under small provocation wounded, but not seriously, four other negroes. A 38 calibre pistol was used. Shaw was arrested, but gave bonds aggregating $700 and was released.

National Rip-Saw Rippers.

"Financial success" is no indication of real wisdom.

There's one thing that no man ought to have to spare—time.

A busy wife seldom needs the services of a "divorce lawyer."

The bigger the fool the more money he must have to enjoy himself.

If you want your prayer to sound right, you've got to get your heart right.

Most hearts broken in "love affairs" can be mended if the right "gal" bobs up.

Whenever we smell "perfume" on a man or woman we always imagine they need it.

It's not nearly so dangerous for a thief to frown on you as it is for a hypocrite to "grin" at you.

"Industry" is the best watch dog imaginable to keep the wolf from hanging around a f-b-low's door.

Now comes the "graduating girl" with short sleeves, flowers, white socks, pink ribbons, some learning and a very small desire to help her mother in the kitchen.

Lots of young society women would have a fit if their "steady" should come to see them with his breath perfumed with onions, but they'll "wallow" around with them half the night with the smell of "boozie" as strong on their breath that it would intoxicate a canary.

Summer Gowns and Accessories.

White is always appropriate for Summer gowns, but yellow seems to be preferred for the dressy functions crowded into August. The latest shade is the rich gold of ripened corn. This tint combines beautifully with the faint greens and warm browns one sees in suburban parks.

An artistic creation in this golden hue is valued with very fine brown tulle and embroidered in the ornate tulle. The line that reaches across it is of intricate work, finished by a high neckline. It is of yellow chip and shows brown velvet ribbon across the crown. The waistline is hidden by closely set chains of brown tulle, with golden dandelion nestling among them. The small, tailored evening gowns are trimmed with snowy buttons, straps and bouffants of the most elaborate.

Many of them are pure white, the material ranging from rayon through serge, cloth and tulle, to every day wearable cottons. The dresses are long or short, and the original treatment of the collar and cuffs. Insets of satin, orange or black silk are edged with lines of tulle. Rich shades of yellow, blue, green, and pink are combined with black, white, and yellow in beautiful patterns.

Things that Have Happened in and Out of the State.

During the past session of congress North Carolina representatives secured from the Postmaster General an order that on and after Aug. 1, 1906, home-made R. F. D. Mail boxes, approved by the Postmaster serving the route, may be used. This defeats the letter-car trust.

Last week near Julian in this county Deputy Marshal Milikan and Deputy Collector Pool ran across a blockade still, but were unable to take it. They were seen as they arrived in the neighborhood and the operators were warned by four pistol shots from a nearby house.

Mr. C. G. Dorsett, of Vass, Va., sent to the Patriot the first cotton bloom we have seen this year, and probably one of the first to blossom in the country. It opened on the patriotic day of July 4th.—GREENSBORO PATRIOT.

The little child of Mr. W. O. Mills of Jackson Springs died Monday night. Death came not unexpectedly, as the parents and friends had lost hope of the child's recovery several hours before the end came.—MONTGOMERY NEWS.

Mr. W. A. Hennepe, who for years has managed the cafe of the Union News Company in the depot at Greensboro, will in the near future go to the Hotel Elwood, in High Point, as manager, succeeding Mr. W. H. Plummer, Jr., who will go to the Everett.

The Farmer's warehouse at Greensboro will be in the hands of a new management next fall. Messrs. E. L. Morgan and R. O. Gault will take charge August 1.

THE FEDERAL POWER.

The Two Theories of Constitutional Government.

The Springfield Republican says: "The president seems bent upon leaving no vestige of state government in this nation. He is apparently determined to centralize all power at Washington."

But the ominous feature of the situation is that the Republican congress as well as the president is drifting in the same direction. During the hearings on a public building bill the other day Attorney General Moody said, "The whole tendency of legislation is to broaden the federal power." The president is only fanning the flame of imperialism which was already burning furiously at the time of his accession to office. It is singular that the only check the tendency has received came from the Republican majority of the house judiciary committee in its report against the assumption of federal control of life insurance companies and that Judge De Armond, the leading Democrat on that committee, dissented from that report and filed a minority report in which he advocated assuming control of such institutions under the taxing power.

It seems that congress can control anything except interstate and foreign commerce by an exertion of the taxing power and that it can control interstate and foreign commerce by an exertion of the power expressly given for that purpose by the constitution. The Republicans invoke the reserved rights of the states in order to shield the insurance grafters who contribute to their campaign funds, while the Democrats invoke those state rights for the purpose of curbing graft and corruption. But Mr. De Armond invokes the taxing power as a weapon against graft and corruption, while the Republicans invoke and exercise it in the form of imposts and tariffs in order to promote and shelter marauding trusts and monopolies. We naturally prefer the Democratic theory, but protectionism has operated so many accidents, imperfections and anomalies that a majority of the people seem to like Roosevelt because by his hands he really renders to the people the benefits of those classes and by his acts shrewdly penetrates the interests of the plutocrats who are fast as active as the assassins in their drive for the residence of legislation to transfer the federal power.

TARIFF REFORM.

Opening Date of Campaign For Democratic Congress.

In issuing an invitation for a tariff reform dinner the tariff reform committee of the New York Reform Club says:

"The tariff, more than any previous tariff act, is the mother of privileges and of trusts. It grows a new crop every year, for it yields a diminishing amount of revenue in proportion to the taxes it imposes upon the people, and it protects in an immense number of cases where the protection is able them to sell goods more cheaply to foreigners than Americans."

"Bill's" estimate indicates that the present tariff exceeds the people's capacity to support it. It is estimated that in a year there will be an additional $1,000,000,000. The most of this $1,000,000,000 is spent for the benefit of the trusts and other protected interests. If each of all the receipts of all our steam railroads were given to the people, it would not begin to equal the yearly grant of our protected trusts. If all the receipts of all our life insurance companies were each year stolen from the people the robbery would be small in comparison with that of the tariff. If any shows the money which will be spent in running the Panama canal were dumped into the Pacific ocean the loss would not equal the needless tariff taxes paid by our consumers."

Hon. John Sharp Williams and ex-Governor Douglas of Massachusetts will deliver the principal addresses, and the occasion will be a notable one as the opening gun of the campaign to elect a Democratic congress.

A Public Benefactor.

President Roosevelt's intense dislike of "the man with the muck rake" can hardly be wondered at, for "the man" has answered so many scandals that the Roosevelt administration will go down into history as the most disreputable era of Republican supremacy. If there had been no muck rake would have remained idle. Was not a rake necessary to uncover the insurance grafting, the postal frauds, the land frauds, the Panama grafting and mismanagement, and would President Roosevelt have prevented the exposure of these scandals because it unmasked the corruption or connivance of some of the highest officials of the Republican party? It is no easy or pleasant task to wield the rake, but the man who does stir up the muck in an even handed manner, telling the truth without fear or favor, is a public benefactor. The fact is the Republican politicians had become so entrenched in power that the grafters thought that anything they did, however vicious, would be unobserved by the people, but the man with the rake, with his publicity, exposed them, and the Republican party which was responsible for them.

Tillman and Chandler.

The Baltimore Sun recently printed a good story on the old friendship between Chandler and Tillman, a friendship which arose long ago from the fact that they always stood shoulder to shoulder in every fight to control the railroads. Chandler fought and beat the reading bill time and time again, and Tillman and Chandler together fought the armor trust before the naval committee, as they did the railroads before the interstate commerce committee and the ship subsidy act.

The Republican State platform endorses the Russell administration by declaring that the fusion of the Republicans and Populists brought about good things. This makes it necessary for the Democratic speakers to contrast the State administration under Russell with that under Aycock and Glenn.—News and Observer.

Greensboro to Thomasville.

Work was started Thursday at High Point on the electric railway connecting Greensboro, High Point, and Thomasville. The contractors have seventy-five hands, eighteen mules, and twelve scrapers at work, and the work of construction will be rapidly pushed.
