In Memoriam.

On November 1st, 1906 the death angel visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Walker, of Gray's Chapel, and carried away the spirit of little Lela aged nine years three months and nineteen days. Lela left a bright testimony behind that she was going to be with Jesus. She kissed her parents, brothers and sisters goodbye and told them not to cry for her for she was going to Jesus. Lela said she would like to get well but said Jesus had come and she must go. Little Lela is now enjoying the heavenly sun light which she had her mother to sing about a few days before she died. Little Lela in her white casket beneath flowers was laid to rest in the cemetery at Gray's Chapel November 2. Rev. O. P. Routh conducted the burial service.

Dear little Lela, light of the home, Looking for some one beckoning come.

Fair as a sun beam Pure as the dew,

Anxiously looking, mother, for you.

SEEKING EDWARD'S COUNTRY.

Concluded from First Page.

ery business. Quebec is full of quaint old churches, many of them rich in historical legendary. Notre Dame, which is located in lower Quebec is insignificant looking but it is one of the landmarks and is well preserved. It has stood many wars and has been remodelled and beautified. The Basilica was built by Champlain in it are a number of valuable paintings brought from France by Canadian priests in 1793. The old gates which were only large enough to admit a horse and wagon have been removed and streets now pass through at various points.

The Kent gate and St. Louis gate have been rebuilt and enlarged into handsome arches. Quebec is full of monuments besides the ones already mentioned there are many more. On the side of a cliff in Lower Quebec beneath the citadel is a marker placed by our countrymen at the point where Montgomery fell Dec. 31st, 1775 while attempting to scale the heights. The Canadian government refused the right to erect a monument here. A monument has been erected to the memory of the soldiers who lost their lives in South Africa.

At one place we saw what we thought was a dumping ground, but on enquiring found that snow was hauled here in winter and thrown over then covered with earth and it remained there during summer and was used at Drug stores and other places instead of ice. In next week's article I will give a description of St. Anne De Beaupre's Church and Montmorency Falls.
