SPECULATION MANIA

A Word of Caution Against Get-Rich-Quick Plans

BEWARE OF REAL ESTATE BOOMS

Remember That Speculative Sellers Generally Know More Than Speenlative Buyers-The Price of Fara Products Not Governed by Monetary Inflation-Need of Tariff Refor

It is perhaps a thankless task to advise those who have been selzed with the mania for speculation, but it is the duty of honest Journalism to be the watchman on the tower to warn the people of the approach of political foes and false political economy. There is a spirit of political and economic unrest abroad in the land, and wisdom would abroad in the land, and wisdom would dictate caution in dealing with political speculations as much as or more than in dealing in the stock market, mining shares or real estate. The first thing to remember is that but few specula-tors in politics or business gambling are successful. Wise conservation is generally the winner in the long run.

Regarding speculation, Chicago and New York have been built up on the money that is constantly sout to those cities, either directly or through the agents of Wall street and the speculative markets all over the land, with but small returns to those who send it.
When some one makes a winning the favorable result is heraided everywhere, but we never hear publicly of the great army of losers. The latest phase of the gambling era is real es-tate speculation, which is rampant in the cities, and town lots are being sold, miles from the business centers, at prices that will require years to make reasonable. In the meantime taxes must be puld, and unless the property is for home building the result in most cases will be that in a few years the advance in value, if any, will not cover the taxes paid. The man who buys a home on the installment plan can af-ford to pay more than it is intrinsicaliy worth, because it is the only way he can own his own home, and he has the use of it and with good management and economy will in time get it paid for, and there is no intention in giving this advice of retarding such a natural and sensible longing as owning a home.

The price of farming land in the reached a prohibitive figure, for it must be remembered that a farm is worth what it will produce at a profit enough to pay interest on the investment and a fair return for the work expended. During this era of specula-tion the price that farm land will sell for may exceed its value as a business investment, but in the long run the price of farms must come down to what they will pay on the investment.

The speculators in cotton, wheat, rullroad and industrial stocks and mining stocks must remember that those who sell prebably know more about the actual value than those who buy, and unless full information of earnings and management is procurable the buyer is buying in the dark.

There is no doubt that the enormous inflation of the circulating medium, through the constantly increasing out-put of gold, is resulting in an advance in values, measured in gold, the world over, but this increase in prices does not apply to cotton, wheat, corn and many other farm products, the price of which is governed by supply and de-mand, depending upon the favorable mand, depending upon the favorable or unfavorable sensons for growing and gathering the crops. The present low price of wheat, cotton and corn, measured by the advancing price of other commodities, is a proof that the law of supply and demand is more po-tent than the other law of the quantity of money infaiting prices.

The present tariff policy of protect-ness our manufacturing trusts and com-

The present tariff policy of protecting our manufacturing trusts and combines from foreign competition has been a great factor in increasing the price of the products of those corporations, so that consumers, whether on the farm or in the city, are not only paying the natural increase of prices from gold inflation, but the greater inflation of prices by the unnatural conditions created by the tariff production ditions created by the tariff protection to the industrial corporations called trusts. The tariff and trust issue, be-ing entirely political, can be made to assist rather than to retard the natural

CURE FOR MALARIA

The Treatment Used by Dr. W. Gill Wylle, the Famous Physician.

men working in the catawoa. The men working in the swamps occasionally contract malaria

Dr. Wylle has given the workmen a prescription for malaria which he has had printed on placards and posted around the grounds. It as follows:

Directions for Treating Chronic Malaria.

"Take four 1-10 grs. of calomel after dinner, and the next morning a saline laxative, a seiditz powder or mageral water, sufficient to give one free movement of the bowels a day. After each meal take three of the 3 gr. capsules, or two of the 5 gr. capsules of quinine with the juice of a half a lemon in a half glass of water, so as to insure its absorption, making 27 to 30 grs. in a day. In large, strong people the amount of the quinine can be increased to 40 grs. a day instead of 30 grs. Keep this calomel and quinine up for four consecutive days in the above quantities. If during the four days the quinine makes your head buzz or disturbs you exdessively, take 20 grs. of bromide of of potash in half a glass of water in the the afternoon of evening.
"After taking 27 or 30 grs. a day for four days, then take 3 grs., three times a day, or one capsule after each meal for four days longer. "After this a tonic pill which has arsenic and iron in it may be taken tutee times a day for several weeks if indicated.

"Then if at any time after this you have the pains in the back of your neck and exhausted feelings, and more or less depression or dis-turbed digestion, have your blood examined and report to me for fur-ther treatment which will be indi-cated; it would be perfectly safe if the same general symptoms return to repeat he above treatment in two to repeat he above treatment in two or three months or more, especially if you live in a malarial destrict where there are mosquitoes.

"By using Merk's bi-sulphate of quinne, 5 grains dissolved in a teaspoonfail of sterile water, an interpection can be made with a sterile class syringe, giving two injections of 5 grains each instead of one of the 9 grains doses by smouth. In extreme cases two of these 10 gr. doses may be given by hypodermic instead of by mouth, smore effectively.

Mrs. Leach, Mrs. Allen's mother, fell on the steps of the piazra a few days ago, receiving a severe shock, and her feeble con-dition came very near making it a fatal accident. She has an attack of rheumatism. Her condition, too,

The stock law fence in the eastern part of the county was discussed, a few claims allowed and some other matters disposed of, but nothing of interest was transacted. The following persons were Fair Pluy the Remedy.

Forcing peace between the Cuban factions by threatening them with a large freet of warships will not lead to permanent peace. What is needed is fair play between the factions instead of backing up the corrupt Paima administration, which was first installed by the aid of General Wood and American troops. The Li crais might not give Cuba mideal government, but as they evidently have a impority of the people of Cuba behind them they should be given a fair field and no favor.

WATERLOO.

Brouchy Was Solely to Blame For the Downfall of Napoleon.

the Bownfall of Napoleon.

Napoleon would have won the battle of Waterloo had Granchy prevented the junction of the Frinssians with the English army, because he would not have had to fight two battles at once. Few persons restize that the so called battle of Waterlao was in reality a fouble battle, somewhat like Jena and Auerstadt. Napoleon fought one hat-tle at Waterlao against the English. On the arrival of the Prussians be was forced to go in person toward Planche-noit and there fight another battle against the Prussian army, leaving to Ney the conduct of the troops at Waterloo. It is a well known maxim in war that a very great or decisive victory cannot be gained unless one commander makes a serious blunder of which the other takes immediate advantage. It is very evident that the fact of the emperor having to fight two battles at once instead of concen-trating his attention on one alone enormously increased the possibility of a misrake. Moreover, Napoleon did not have the able lieutenants of his former campaigns. Desatx, Kieber, Lannes and Bessieres were dead, Massena and Mucdonald had taken the oath of allegiance to the Bourbons, and Murat had split with the emperor. Napoleou's personal attention was therefore im-perative. To Grouchy alone all blame must be attributed, for had he prevent-ed the union of the Prussians with the English the emperor would have had to fight only one battle at a time and could have given his entire personal attention to that one battle.

attention to that one battle.

In the second place, Ninoleon would not have been forced to light with 71,-247 men against two armies numbering about 125,000—nearly two to one against him. He would have had 71,-947 good soldiers pitted against a raw, undisciplined army of 67,661 men under the Punke of Wellington, which was not only infector in more numbers but not only inferior in mere numbers, but far inferior in morale and experience.
The chances would have been greatly in favor of the French. Then, too, the French army was commanded by the acknowledged master of modern warfare, whose brilliant successes at Ri-voll, Marengo, Austeriliz, Jena, Fried-land, Wagram, the Borodino and Dres-den had dazzled the whole world. Until then Napoleon had never been de till then Napoleon had never been de-feated in any great decisive battle ex-cept Leipsic, and the French were strong in their confidence of the em-peror's success. Two of the best writ-ers on the Waterloo campaign, Shaw-Kennedy and Sthourne, both English-men, concur in saying that had Grouchy kept the Prussians away the English army would have been badly beaten.
