

ORIGINAL POSTRY.

Tribute TO THE MEMORY OF E. STRADLEY.

BY G. Z. ADAMS.

Par better thus, in life's bright spring, Ere earth had soiled the spirit's wing-Ere grief had dimm'd thine eye with team Or thou hadst wept o'er wasted years-Or on thy tranquil brow stern care Had left its rueful impress there, To pass in youth's unspent career, Where hope shall bloom, apmix'd with fear!

Far better thus !-each sever'd tie Shall reunite in worlds on high! Though hearts may bleed awhile below, And sighs from stricken bosoms flow, Yet sorrow's wail and anguish's moan Shall change to rapture's gushing tone, When hand meets hand, and eye meets eye Where love shall never change, nor die!

Far better thus !- Earth's longings vain, Its restless doubts, its dread, its pain-The secret wish but to explore The realms beyond Death's silent shore Are quench'd to thee, whose spirit's glance Now wanders o'er that vast expanse-Gazes on scenes where angels gaze, And earth's redeem'd from earliest days!

EXTRACT FROM AN ORATION, Delivered at Pisgah, Ohio, on the 4th of July, by Mr. LEMUEL REYNOLDS.

Franklir., Aug. 16, 1840.

We will include all other means for the promotion of our prosperity and happiness, under the head of national virtue and piety. It is a truth developed in the scriptures, and which will be eternally developed throughout the empire of the Almighty, that misery is for ever inseparable from vice, and happiness is for ever wedded to virtue. Piety is the great conservative principle in the moral universe-implety is the great repulsive, disorganizing, destructive agent in the moral universe. A government is pure and permanent, and calculated to produce ess, just so far as it is founded upon and incorporated with the principles of piety The influence of Christianity constitutes the great difference we behold among the nations of the earth. Those of Christendom. when true to their principles, uniformly exhibit a vast superiority. This sentiment is sustained by the fact that when a Christian nation embraces infidelity she is plunged into all the horrors which might be expected as a consequence of separation from the great source of happiness. Do you want proof? Look at France. That nation tried the fearful experiment—that peo-pic declared independence of Heaven— they renonneed allegiance not only to Louis XVI., but to the King of kings. They cut loose their moorings from the throne of God, and their sails were crowded with all the worst passions of the human heart. If you would catch a glimpse of what a people may become, when left to themselves, turn your eyes on France as she then was.—
Here was the triumph of reason—here was the reign of philosophy-here was indeed liberty with a vengeance. Av, it was such liberty as results from a relinquishment of all interests in that covenant by which the attributes of Jehovah are pledged in behalf of man. We will not travel through the seas of blood, or dwell upon the scenes of rapine and murder, which deluged and con-vulsed that fair land. But O, gentle Heaven, save my country from such crimes and from such sufferings.

The surest and the shortest way to indiridual or national destruction is, to withdraw from under the patronage of heaven. Exterminate the institutions of Christianity -let our sabbaths be desecrated and forgotten-demolish our temples of worship banish the blessed Bible from the land and you not only wrest from trembling age its only prop, from youth its only hope, from the child of poverty its only treasure, and from sorrow its only solace—but you uproot the foundations of the government, you rob the nation of its grandeur, you dismantle the fairest edifice that ever reared its top to heaven. The wandering pilgrim, surveying with gloomy feeling the vast desolution, would say to himself—
This was America: alas! the sun of her glory has forever set-" Hope sits weeping in the heavens, and washes out with falling tears the traces of her feet on earth."-Sorely that nation only is permanent, prosperous, and happy, whose God is the Lord.

WATERLOO AT NOON THE DAY AFTER THE nattle.—On a surface of two square miles it was ascertained that fifty thousand men and horses were lying! The luxurious erop of ripe grain which had covered the field of battle was reduced to litter and beaten into the earth, and the surface trodden down by the cavalry, and furrowed deeply by the cannon wheels, strewed with many a relic of the fight. Helmets and cuirasses, shattered firearms and broken swords, all the variety of military ornaments, lancer caps, and highland bonnets, uniforms of every color, plume, and pennon; musical instruments, the apparatus of artillery, drums, bugles; but, why dwell on the harrowing picture of a foughten field? Each and every ruinous display bore mute testi-mony to the misery of such a battle.

Could the melancholy appearance of this scene of death be heightened, it would be by witnessing the researches of the living amidst its desolation for the objects of their love. Mothers, and wives, and children, for days were occupied in that mournful duty; and the confusion of the corpses, friend and foe, intermingled as they were, often rendered the attempt at recognizing individuals difficult, and in some cases impossible. * * In many places the dead lay four deep upon each other, marking the spot which some British square had occupied, exposed for hours to the murder. ous fire of a French battery. Outside, lancer and cuirassier were scattered thickly on the earth. Madly attempting to force the serried bayonets of the British, they had fallen in the bootless essay, by the musketry of the inner files. Farther on you trace the spot where the cavalry of France and England had encountered; chasseur and hussar were intermingled; and the heavy Norman horse of the Imperial Guard were interspersed with the gray chargers which had carried Albion's chivalry. Here the highlander and traileur lay side by side together; and the heavy dragoon, with green Erin's badge upon his helmet, was grappling in death with the Polish lancer. * On the summit of the ridge, where the ground was cumbered with dead, and trodden fetlock deep in mud and gore, by the frequent rush of rival cavalry, the thick-strewn corpses of the Imperial Guard, pointed out the spot where Napoleon had been defeated. Here, in column, that favored corps, on whom his last chance rested; had been annihilated; and the advance and repulse of the guard was traccable by a mass of fallen Frenchmen. In the hollow below the last struggle of France had been vainly made; for there, the old guard at-tempted to meet the British, and afford time for their disorganized companions to rally.

NOTICE.

SOME time in the mouth of April last, the subscriber purchased, at this place, from a man who called himself Laban Jones, a Bay Mare, about 14 hands 3 inches high, both hind feet white, a small ring of white above the hoof of her near fore foot, and a star in her face. But a small part of the value of said mare was said at the time of the purchase. From some paid at the time of the purchase. From some suspicious circumstances in Jones' conduct, at the time of the sale, together with the fact of his having never returned to receive the purchase money the subscriber is induced to believe that the mare had been stolen. She is still in his possession, and can be had by the owner, on his producing satisfactory proof of his right to her, and paying for this advertisement.

PROSPECTUS OF THE HERBHERAND SIENTERIER.

THE subscriber proposes to publish at Calliour Anderson District, S. C., by the first day of Anderson District, S. C., by the first day of September next, a weekly Journal of the above title, of respectable size, and good paper, and fair type, to be devoted to the dissemination of political principles, in accordance with a strict construction of the Federal Compact, and the doctrine promulgated by the Jeffersonian Republican School. As consistent with those principles it will-advocate the Election of Wm. H. Harrison, of Ohio to the Presidence, and John Tyler, of Vic. of Ohio to the Presidency, and John Tyler, of Vir-ginia to the Vice Presidency of the United States, and will exercise all honorable means for the Sub-version of the present Administration, with a firm Conviction that its leading measures are in direct hostility to the prosperity and happiness of the great mass of the Citizens of our Common Country. "It will observe a mild and dignified tone, and address itself in plain language to the common sense of every class of citizens for whose benefit it is designed." It will be the uncompromising opponent of that ridiculous system of proscription for opinion's sake adopted by the present administration, and will maintain the true character of an Independent public press.

And although it will advocate the Election of Harrison and Tyler with all the zeal and ability it can command, as the only hope of restoring the flarrison and Tyler with all the zeal and ability it can command, as the only hope of restoring the government to its original purity and republican simplicity, it will nevertheless treat with respect the opinions of those who differ with us, and its columns will be open to a temperate discussion of all political subjects, and it will under no circum-stances become so much of a partizan, but that it will scrutinize every act of the Administration for the time being, and condemn or approve as may redound to the interest of the South. The Highland Sentinel will not be exclusively a political paper, but will devote much of its col-umns, to Agriculture, Education, Literature, the Arts and Sciences, History, Novelties, Amuse-ment, the Turf, Field sports, the markets, &c. and will use every exertion to present such a medley of useful and entertaining matter that it can not fail to suit the taste of all classes of readers.

The subscriber, a few weeks since issued a prospectus of the Southern Times and General Intelligencer, which was designed to occupy neutral ground in Politics, he was not aware at the time that South Carolina would enter the arena of President making with the carnestness that she is likely to do. But having been dissappointed in that expectation, and not willing to stand aloof from an important political contest, has thus changed his purpose and has issued this prospec-tus under the belief that the friends of reform gentus under the benef that the friends of reform gen-erally (but more particularly in the District and State) will make a united and zealous effort to procure and return subscribers.—"Indeed to send the paper to all who read without preju-

P. C. PENDLETON & G. F. PIERC

To the Ladies of Georgia, and of the South gurally, the following plan is most respectfully a mitted. It is hoped that it will receive the serious attention, and meet their approbate since it is for their especial benefit that the weather that the serious attention is the content of the con is projected.

PROSPECTUS.

PROSPECTIS.

In submitting the following plan, we would be call the attention of the Ladies, and all the who feel interested (and who are those that not?) in the welfare and improvement of the male sex, to the presentechdition of the South Press. Nearly all the publications which is from it are engaged in political eiscussions, a their columns teem with accurations, denie abuse and every other form of wordy warfarcarried on in language, frequently unfit for "a palite," and seldom suited to the delicacy and seldoms which belong so peculiarly to the Femerharacter.

Of the few literary papers published South the Potomac, there is not one exclusively dedited to the Ladies! We have felt this as a my which ought to be supplied: and we propose make an effort to do so, confident that our end your will be crowned with success, if we can a scure the hearty co-operation of those for the we propose to labor—The labes of the South And we expect, further, that every intellige mind among the other sex, will view with application, and aid in sustaining, an enterprise desged to improve the minds of those, without what the contract of the sex of the cheering smiles and coothing companionship, a would be dreary and this fair world a desert.

We wish, also, to afford to the Ladies a held the exercise of their own talents, and for the velopement of the resources of their minds. the excreise of their own talents, and for the a velopement of the resources of their minds. It lists of authors, for some years past, have is quently ensolled the names of females whose prious success has shed an additional radiance the name of "Worken." The "lords of creation have been forced to acknowledge that the Femilian in the process of the same that it is possessed of superior delicacy and tact. Law was woman's mind held in thraldom—long we have powers underrated, and forced to remain a active or unexercised, by the force of conventies arrangements; but her chains are broken, and be liberty has been proclaimed. The article of Malem faith that "women have no zouls," no long obtains among us. Let the ladies now assert the own privileges, and we offer them, in our proposowork, a medium for the expression of their or views and sentiments, on all that appertains, any degree, to the welfare and improvement their sex.

In offering the plan of a Southern Ladier Bei we do not intend that it shall be precisely similar to a woak of like name at the North. We less that the ladies are the same at the North.

we do not intend that it shall be precisely similate a weak of like name at the North. We less to our Northern cotemporary pictorial representations of fashion and dress, for the embellishment tions of fashion and dress, for the embellishment the person; be it ours to provide a garb of purit elegance, refinement and grace, for the adornment of the mind. All that may contribute to form in heart, invigorate the mind, purify the affection and refine the manners, shall be our especial est that our work may be a useful aid to the your and fair, and beautiful, in preparing themselve for the arduous duties which devolve on Woman in her varied canacity of Daucher Wife as for the arduous duties which devolve on Wossin her varied capacity of Daughter, Wife as Mother. And we repeat, that in the accamplishment of this high enterprize, we confidently a peet the aid and support of the enlightened as judicious of both sexes, Arrangements for replar aid will be made with several Ladies, who productions have already gained them high fassin the literary world—and several gentlemen distinguished attainments have already been seen red as contributors, from whom scientific tracts with notes and observations on the Arts, may expected. This department of the work will a ceive marked attention. In short, nothing will be contributed to the contributors of the work will a ceive marked attention. expected. This department of the work will a ceive marked attention. In short, nothing will be omitted which may tend to give to the publication such character as will render it worthy the attention of the learned, and of those to whom it especially dedicated—the ladies of the South of West. It only remains to obtain the requision number of subscribers—say two thousand—and the Ladies will smile upon, and aid our efforts, the number will not long be wanting. Let then set their fathers, husbands, brothers and friends, as it is soon done.
