[For the Messenger.] LINES SUGGESTED BY THE DEATH OF T. W. P.

I would not weep for thee! Oh no, fair boy, Thine is a scene more brightly full of joy, Dull earth with all its sullen pangs and woes, No more can chill thy spirit's calm repose; No more the touch of fierce disease and pain Can twine around thy heart its crushing chain.

I would not weep-and yet a tear-drop must a Fall o'er those hopes now crumbled into dust. Fond eyes had followed thy young promise on, And thought the goal of joy already won; But thou, the object of those heart-breath'd pray'rs Hast left to us but unavailing tears!

Thy smile around the fire-side hearth no more Gleans with the happy light that once it wore, Nor comes the echo of thy steps along The scenes made joyous with thy voice of song The starry gladness of thine eyes has fled; Thy home is now among the silent dead!

Yet Fancy finds in each familiar secue Some gentle token, where thy course has been, And joys to fill thy desolated hall With objects which thy memory will recall; And Hope, escaping from the clogs of earth, Points far beyond the grave-thy second birth !

I will not weep !- there comes a pealing tone To listening worlds, from scraph's harp-strings thrown,

That stills, in joyful awe, the voice of wo, And bids the soul beyond this dim world go, On Faith's strong pinions borne far, far away, To join the loved and lost in Houven's eternal day

American Chronology.

REMARKABLE EVENTS. 1784. The public debt of the United States at the close of the war was reckoned to be something more than forty millions.

The cities of Hartford, New Haven, Norwick and Middleton were this year incorporated.

New York chamber of commerce instituted.

Methodist Episcopal church organized in the city of Baltimore, Thomas Coke L. L. D. and Francis Asbury first superintendents. First voyage of an American vessel to China, by the ship Empress, commanded by John Greene of Boston. 1785. Treaty of friendship and commerce between the United States and Prus-

Treaty with the Cherokee Indians. John Adams sent to London as an ambassador from the United States, and had his first audience with the King on the 2nd of June. 1786. Insurrection in Massachusetts and New Hampshire, caused by scarcety of jority of nineteen votes. When this bill money and heavy taxes, it was headed by one Daniel Shays, whose force amounted to upwards of 1,500. The insurgents were surpressed with considerable loss by the militia under Gen. Lincoln. Delegates from five of the States met at Annapolis to concert measures for an mendment in the government.

Treaty with the Choctaw Indians Portland in Maine incorporated. Printing commenced at Lexington Ken-

Columbia in South Carolina founded. 1787. When the convention which met at Annapolis the last year adjourned, they adjourned to meet in May this year in Philadelphia, and recommended that the several States send delegates with power to revise the federal system. Accordingly all the States in the Union except Rhode Island sent commissioners who met on the 19th, chose Gen. Washington president and after long deliberations with closed doors, framed the Federal Constitution .-This convention resolved that so soon as the constitution was ratified by nine of the States, Congress should carry it into oper-

The Legislatures of the different States transferred the constitution to conventions called by the people for the express purpose of examening its merits, and accepting or rejecting it. After much opposition it was ratified by eleven States. North Carolina and Rhode Island dissensing at first but afterwards acceded to it, the former in November 1789, the latter in May 1790.

While the constitution was under consideration by the people, its principles were fully developed, and ably defended, in a series of essays signed "Publius," written by Alexander Hamilton, Mr. Jay, and Mr. Madison, these have since been collected into a volume called the "Federalist." Another defence of the constitution was published by John Adams. Treaty with the Emperor of Morocco concluded by John Adams and Thomas Jefferson. Baltimore contained 1,959 houses. 1788. Trading voyages to the Northwest coast of America commenced this year from Boston. Mass first performed in Boston by a Roman Catholic priest.

Ohio settled by a colony from New Eng. land under the superintendence of General Putnam. Their first settlement was commenced at Marietta.

1789. First Congress under the new constitution assembled, George Washington inaugurated President of the United States, the oath of office was administered on the 30th of April by Mr. Livingston, Chancellor of the State of New York. John Adams was elected Vice President, and the other great political departments were by Washington's appointment fitled as follows: Thomas Jefferson, Secretary of State; Alexander Hamilton, Secretary of the Treasury; Henry Knox, Secretary of War; Edmund Randolph, Attorney General,

The President's salary was fixed at 25. 000 dollars; that of the Vice President, Secretary of State, and Secretary of the trade from the American ports. Treasury each 5,000 dollars; the Secretary of War, $4,500; and the Attorney General $3,000.

During this session, Congress after a long and animated discussion of the subject, agreed upon twelve new articles to be ad. ded to the Federal Constitution, which were after ratified by the State Legislatures. On the 29th of September, Congress adourned, and during the recess, President

Washington visited New England. Kerby's report of the Supreme Court of language, by Noah Webster; and The American Geography by Jedidiah Morse published this year.

1790. On the 8th of January the second session of the first Congress commenced. Among the concluding acts of the first session, was one directing the Secretary of the Treasury to prepare a plan for maintaining the public credit, and report the same at their next meeting; accordingly carly this session Mr. Hamilton made his report in which he recommended as the only mode in his opinion, of supporting the public credit :-1st. That provision be made for the full discharge of the foreign debt according tothe precise terms of the contract.

2nd. That provision be made for the pay ment of the domestic flebt in a similar manner.

3rd. That the debts of the several States created for the purpose of carrying on the war be assumed by the General Government. After a spirited and protracted debate, the sentiments of the Secretary prevailed in Congress, and bills were passed conformably thereto by a small majority.

District of Columbia ceded to the United States by Virginia and Maryland; and a bill was passed in Congress fixing the seat of Government for ten years at Philadelphia, and after that permanently in the Dis-

Treaty with the Creek Iudians August 7. Gen. Harmer who had been sent with ,400 men against the hostile Indians North of the Ohio, was defeated near Chillicothe in September.

Tennessee erected into a Territory by an act of Congress. First census of the United States popu-atian 3,929,326. 1791. Vermont by a vote of Congres vas received into the Union. General St. Clair defeated by the Indians n Ohio, with a loss of 600 killed and 200 wounded. Congress according to a recommenda tion from the Secretary of the Treasury laid a tax on domestic spirits.

The Secretary next appeared recommend ding the establishment of a national bank. This met with most violent opposition on various grounds. These objections were after a long debate it was passed by a mawas sent up for executive sanction, the president required the opinions of the cabinet in writing.

The Secretary of State, Mr. Jefferson, and the Attorney General, Mr. Randolph cunsidered the bill as decidedly unconstitudonal. Mr. Hamilton as firmly maintained the opposite, and the President after much deliberation, gave it his signature, much thereof as will satisfy the tax and costs due and thus a bank of the United States was thereon for the year 1839. To wit: established with a capital of ten millions of dollars

United States mint established at Phila delphia by an act of Congress.

1792. Kentucky by an act of Congress vas admitted into the Union as a State. Rev. Doct. Clagget consecrated at New York, as Bishop of the Protestant Episcopal church. Chemistry. The first course of lectures in America on Lavoisier's system, delivered at Columbia College by Doct, Samuel L.

Mitchell. 'Col. Harden and Maj. Freeman, two brave officers and valuable men were sent by the President to attempt a negotiation with the unfriendly Indians were most inhumanly murdered by those savages. In November Congress met, and soon after it was opened a motion was made to reduce the military establishment, but it was no doubt designed as a reflection on the executive, was soon followed by several resolutions introduced by Mr. Giles, tending to criminate the Secretary of the Treasury, Mr. Hamilton. Furious attacks were made against the Secretary in the public prints, and though the resolutions were reected there was a manifest design on the part of the opposition to fix on Mr. Hamilton the character of an ambitious and dangerous man. 1793. Washington re-elected President, and John Adams Vice President. The French revolution which was now going on, greatly affected the politics of the United States. Soon after intelligence was received of the declaration of war made by France against England and Holland, the President issued his proclamation of neutrality in reference to the contending

This was followed by the recalling at the President's request, Mr. Genet, the French minister, to the United States, who had been using improper means to enlist the American people against Great Britan. During this year Philadelphia was ravaged by the yellow fever, it commenced in August and continued about three months, during which time 4,000 out of a population of 6,000 died of that disorder alone. In the course of this year there were 683 foreign and 1381 coasting vessels entered the port of New York.

1793. On the last, of December, Mr. Jefferson resigned his office as Secretary of State and was succeeded by Edmund Randolph the then Attorney General, which latter office was filled by William Brand. ford of Pennsylvania.

1794. Congress passed a resolution to provide a naval force for the protection of and John Jay Chief Justice of the United | the commerce of the United States against the Algerine corsairs.

During this session Congress passed a law prohibiting the carrying on the slave

The act of 1791, taxing domestic spirits gave such offence, the people of Pennsylvania, that they broke out this year in open rebellion, but were quieted by the President ordering out 15,000 militia.

POLITICAL AMBITION.

But above all things, the young man has need to be warned against turning politician as a business and profession. Of all employments this is one of the most wretch ed and improfitable. Too often a young Connecticut, A dissertation on the English man, who has a more than ordinary talent for talking, (the mischief generally com-mences here,) begins to think because he can entertain a circle of his companions, with a wordy and superficial dissertation on public affairs, that he discovers in himself the talents of a statesman and legislator. Sc. ductive visions begin to float before the imagination, of political power and consequence. He pictures himself addressing multitudes; swaying legislatures, mounting from one grade of office to another, till the highest places in the country seem to be at his disposal. The man has hitherto, perhaps, been honest in his political opinions, but the probability of his continuing so is very small. Having commenced the life of a politician, bent upon succeeding at any rate, the question with him is no longer what is true and what is right, but what will be popular. He looks out to see what questions are likely to occupy public attention, and what side is likely to find most favor with the multitude. He throws himself into the arms of that party which, according to the best of his judgment, is likely to succeed, and becomes most clamorous for their most popular measures, right or wrong. Perhaps he gets into office, and enjoys for a brief space the power and emolument he so ardently coveted. But the political wheel is ever revolving, and will not stop at the precise moment when he is at the culminating point, another aspirant is already training to push him from his seat and the Sisyphean task is all to go over again. In the mean time, his business, he had any, is gone, the best of his life is spent; and it is more than an even chance that the convivial usages of the electioneering campaign have fixed upon him habits which are afterwards his scourge, and per haps his ruin. Of all pursuits the last in which a young man should engage, is the career of political ambition .- Burnap's Lectures to Young Men.
