

Intemperance.—It will be seen, from the advertisement in this week's paper, that a supply of Dr. Chambers' justly celebrated Medicine, for the cure of Intemperance, has been received by Dr. J. McKnight, of this county, and is now offered for sale at the New-York prices. The numerous and well authenticated instances of the surprising efficacy of this medicine, in the cure of drunkenness, leave little room to doubt its virtues; and it is to be hoped a fair trial of it will now be made in this quarter, and that some, addicted to the vice of intemperance, will have the resolution to attempt a cure. If they do this, we feel confident they will succeed, and thus escape the melancholy fate which otherwise awaits them. We expect to have a few doses deposited with us for sale—of which due notice will be given.

Maryland.—The elections in this State of members to the Legislature have terminated, and the friends of the Administration have triumphed. The House of Delegates will consist of 50 Administration men and 30 Jacksonians. "This is a great triumph," says the National Intelligencer, "obtained in favor of liberal principles and republican government, and a disastrous defeat of all the flushed hopes and sanguine calculations of those who differ in opinion with us on that point. From no disrespect to them, but for their own sakes, we rejoice in it."

Delaware.—The combination have calculated on Delaware as certain; but they are again doomed to disappointment. The National Intelligencer, of October 6th, says:—"The election of a Representative to Congress has taken place in the State of Delaware. We have as yet no decisive returns; but we are informed that KENNER JONES (friendly to the Administration) is elected. This, again, is well."

Gen. Saunders says in his publication, that the vote of New-York depended upon Gen. Van Rensselaer, who had asserted most positively that he would not vote for Mr. Adams; but that "Mr. Clay whispered some of his flattering unctious" into his ear," and he gave his vote for Mr. Adams. A General Stewart, a Jackson candidate for the Legislature of Maryland, has improved upon this story:—he does not say that Mr. Clay "whispered" "unction" into Gen. Van Rensselaer's "ear;" but that Mr. Clay induced him to vote for Mr. Adams, "by holding out the idea that a mob from Baltimore would come to Washington to influence their deliberations." The editor of the Baltimore Patriot, in his paper of Sept. 27th, says he is authorized to state, that the whole of this story "is entirely unfounded in fact. Mr. Clay never having said a word, directly or indirectly, to Gen. Van Rensselaer, to induce him to vote for Mr. Adams."

So much for this gratuitous slander, which will now recoil upon its authors.

"No Englishman" has again enlightened the columns of the People's Advocate, in an address extending through three pages. But we see nothing in it that requires an answer. It is a pompous piece of declamation—and take away its epithets, expletives, and gratuitous assertions, and little is left.

We have shown, that the framers of the constitution, who ought to know, at least as well as Dr. Cooper, the meaning of that instrument, believed it constitutional to protect American manufactures—to this "No Englishman" has not condescended to reply. We have shown, that Congress has afforded protection to the Southern cotton planter, tobacco planter, and sugar planter, as well as to the Northern manufacturer—but this has escaped the notice of "No Englishman." We have asked him to point out a single article, manufactured in the U. S. and protected under the revenue laws, which has risen in price—this he has not done, nor even attempted to do. But we have shown, that the protection afforded to articles of American manufacture, has cost them less, from 75 to 361 per cent. than he has tacitly admitted it. What, then, has he done? He has eulogized its patron, and liberally bestowed his abusive epithets on those who have had the independence and patriotism to censure, severely, we admit, Dr. Cooper's intemperance and disorganizing proceedings. This is what he has done; and in all he has done. His empty declamation, therefore, needs no reply. We have no disposition to "bandy epithets, vulgar and disrespectful," with him:—he has shown himself more expert in the use of them than we can ever hope to be; and we are willing he should enjoy, without a rival, the fame thus to be acquired.

The following is the "scrap," from a correspondent, alluded to in our last. It may, perhaps, be considered too favorable a notice of one, (if any notice at all should be taken of him,) who has so often strikingly exemplified, in himself, the truth of the poet's remark, that "Want of decency is want of sense."

Mr. BINGHAM:—I am sorry to find, that the renowned Major, who marshals the invincible columns of the Carolinian, is working himself of late into a most warlike passion with the Journal. If he will suffer me, however, I will remind him, that a good officer will ever keep himself cool in action, and that it is not every man, how much soever of a soldier and tactician he might be, that would have met with the same fortune with Charles XII. at Bender. If the little hero continues his tremendous cannonade upon the Journal, you must erect batteries and give him now and then a shot in sheer defence of your port, notwithstanding his many anathemas, couched in the polite and classic terms with which he so well knows how to dignify them; and notwithstanding he should, in imitation of the "madman Swede," whom, I presume, he has taken for his military model, send one of his boots to awe you into submission.

After all, what could have roused the wonderful ire of the magnanimous little Major? Have you not acknowledged his title to his military honors? and you may now, in anticipation, by these present acknowledgments, without some reservation; yet, in hopes that it may in a measure depreciate his wrath, you might willingly admit, that if he is not a wit himself, he has been known more than once to be witty, and is always the cause of wit in others.

"March up the hill and then—march down again."

The truth is, you have not yet acknowledged his title to the character of a wit—there lies the rub. Had you done this in time and with due submission, he would not have shaken his ambrosial curls and frowned so terribly upon you. Although you cannot bring your minds, at present, to make this acknowledgment, without some reservation; yet, in hopes that it may in a measure depreciate his wrath, you might willingly admit, that if he is not a wit himself, he has been known more than once to be witty, and is always the cause of wit in others.

Charles XII. when absent from his kingdom, being thwarted in some favorite measure by his Diet, swore that he would send them one of his boots, which should compel their concurrence.

Late From England.—The packet ship Canada has arrived at New-York, from Liverpool, whence she sailed on the first Sept. Mr. Huskisson has arrived in England, but the new British ministry had not been finally arranged. The news from Greece is of a most cheering character.—Victory has again smiled upon the efforts of that gallant people. Ibrahim Pacha having been severely beaten in the vicinity of Vozitza, in the Peloponnese. Lord Cochrane had also struck a blow, and succeeded in capturing a Turkish 35 gun frigate and a schooner, after a contest. There was a rumour, that the British forces were to be withdrawn from Portugal in a short time, but it was not credited. Spain continued distracted by commotions. It is not known what effect the treaty for the pacification of Greece has had on the Sublime Porte. The markets for American produce continued very dull.

Raleigh, Reg.

From the Baltimore Patriot.

In the reply of R. M. Saunders, of Salisbury, N. C. to Gov. Kent, of the State of Maryland, published in the Jackson press, Mr. Saunders holds the following language:—"From the commencement of the last Presidential contest, to its termination, I harbored but one feeling, and expressed but one language, or preference for William H. Crawford, and a most positive hostility to John Quincy Adams."

Whatever may have been Mr. Saunders' professions, pretensions, or preferences, made to Gov. Kent, to the Editors of whom he speaks, or to any other person or persons, after he left the District, is not for me to say; but, before the election for President took place, when Mr. Saunders was before the People as a candidate for Congress, he told his constituents, in the case he failed to obtain Mr. Crawford, his first choice, he would unhesitatingly take up Mr. Adams as his second. It is not from any personal hostility that I have to Mr. Saunders—for I have none—that has induced me to make this statement: I am a citizen of North Carolina, and from one of the counties that compose Mr. Saunders' District. Another of his constituents is with me, in Baltimore, and is willing to testify to the truth of the statement.

Truth never was indebted to a Lie.

Mr. Calhoun has been nominated in Georgia as a candidate for re-election to the office of Vice President of the United States. This early unauthorized movement, may, perhaps, interfere with arrangements said to be making by the master spirits elsewhere. It is dangerous for wheel horses to run away with their leaders. Bye and bye "we shall see what we shall see, and know what we don't know."

Dr. Chambers'

Remedy for Intemperance.

THE Subscriber, on the decease of the late Doct. Wm. Chambers, took into his possession the personal estate of the deceased, and found prepared a large quantity of Doctor Chambers' remedy for Intemperance.

He hereby informs the public, that he has disposed of all the Medicine so found, to Dr. Jas. H. Hart, and Mr. Andrew M. Fanning, of this city.

In making this disposition, the subscriber has been actuated by a due regard to the interest of the heirs of the Intestate, as well as from a wish to give the most extensive use to the virtues of the discovery, whatever they may be—and he can further add, with confidence, that the gentlemen who will hereafter be the vendors of the remedy for Intemperance, as prepared by the Inventor, have been intimately connected with Doctor Chambers in his life time—have been his agents in compounding the medicine, and are acquainted with its composition.

SYLVANUS MILLER, Pub. Administrator, &c.

THE Medicine is prepared only by the subscribers, who alone are in possession of the original Recipe of the Inventor, at the office of the late Dr. C. in the basement story of Rutgers' Medical College, in Duane street, east side of Broadway, and at the Medical store of Dr. Hart, corner of Broadway and Chamber street, 3 doors from Washington Hall, New-York.

[From the Vermont Gazette.]

"We have the pleasure to announce that Doctor Chambers' Medicine for Intemperance has been administered to twelve persons in this vicinity, and that in every instance it has had the desired effect of producing an entire despatch for the use of ardent spirits. It has relieved them from obvious ruin, and restored them to themselves, relatives, and friends, to health, to industry, to usefulness, and to their proper stations in society."

BEWARE OF IMITATIONS!—The almost incredible success which Dr. Chambers' medicine has met with in the cure of intemperance, has brought forth many fraudulent imitations of this valuable remedy. To secure the public against imposition, the directions accompanying the genuine remedy for intemperance are signed in the hand writing of the subscribers, without which none are genuine.

TO EDITORS.

In order that the efficacy of Dr. Chambers' Remedy for Intemperance may be thoroughly tested, Editors of newspapers, throughout the country, who will insert our advertisement and add this article to it, and send us a copy of the paper containing it, shall receive from us, in return of mail, a quantity sufficient to cure one drunkard, which they will be requested to administer to some patient in their neighborhood, and publish the result.

Public Institutions and Philanthropic Societies, by making application (duly authenticated) to the Secretary, shall receive the medicine at a very reduced price. On enclosing to us the usual price, $3, postage paid, the medicine can be sent in a letter by mail. To those who are unable to pay, or personal application of the individual to our office, the medicine will be administered gratis.

JAMES B. HART, M. D.

A. M. FANNING.

Successors to W. Chambers.

A supply of the above Medicine has been forwarded by J. H. Hart, M. D. & A. M. Fanning, warranted to be genuine, to the subscriber, living 10 miles north of Charlotte, of whom it can be had at the New-York prices. A few parcels of the same are deposited with William F. Cowan, merchant, Statesville.

It is hoped that those who are disposed to test this highly celebrated medicine, will avail themselves of this opportunity of procuring it genuine; as there are spurious imitations of it in vogue on the community, which are neither safe nor efficacious. J. MCKITT. Oct. 5, 1827.—455.
