THE CULTIVATION OF BEES.

The early sublimas are flashing long streams of light through the thick straggery of the garden, the blossoms have unfolded their thin robes to receive the light which invigorates the germ and clothes the petals in their variegated tints. A tiny insect, all life and music, dances from flower to flower, drinking honey from their cups, and, like a Bechazant, singing as he drinks. His jet black breeches and yellow vest are conspicuous among the white and pink blossoms as he thrusts his head fearlessly into their hollow tubes, surrounded with stamens and pistils, and extracts the liquid sweetness they secrete. Not a blossom escapes his visit, and when all are thus robbed by this voracious burglar, off he starts, with a directness of course and a rapidity that makes one instinctively dodge his head to give him a free course, so disproportionate seems the power evinced in his activity to the diminutive size of the body. This little insect, noted for its industry, though dreaded for the violence of its sting, is the honey bee, which may be domesticated and cultivated until it can be harmlessly handled, and the labor which it seems to delight in performing unceasingly in the blossom season, may have its rich results transferred by man to his own benefit. All that is required is to know how to do it, and this knowledge, fortunately, is easily acquired by the study of the habits and the peculiarities of the insect, so as to know practically how to manage it.

THE APPIAN, OR BEE CULTIVATOR, IS A MANUFACTURER, THOUGH HIS PRODUCTIONS MAY NOT ENTER INTO THE CALCULATIONS OF NATIONAL WEALTH.

He is the proprietor of thousands of busy workmen, who voluntarily perform labor without asking a division of the profits in wages. He takes their surplus as his own, and there are none to question his right—and he is able to do this through observation of natural objects and patient investigation of the laws which control their life. His business is an art, and he can impart its principles to others till they become equally as expert as himself. It is now fifteen years since Mr. Langstroth, of Greenfield, Mass., first turned his attention to the cultivation of bees. In the course of his experiments he found that he could dispense entirely with natural swarming, and yet multiply colonies of bees with greater rapidity and certainty than by the common methods. It is the quality of the bee, as in men, of being exceedingly good-natured after a meal, which enables one to cultivate it. The bee never volunteers an attack or acts on the offensive when filled with honey; and when it intends to swarm it fills its honey-bag to its utmost capacity. Bees cannot, under any circumstances, resist the temptation of sweetness, and a little sugar and water mollifies their wrath and seduces them as surely as sweet words poured into the unsuspecting ear of maidenly affection.

A LIVE CONTAINS THREE KINDS OF BEES—THE QUEEN, THE DRONE AND THE WORKER.

The queen bee is the only perfect female in the hive and lays all the eggs, amounting to two or three thousand per day during the height of the season. By a curious provision of nature, though not peculiar to the bee, the fecundation of the queen lasts for several years, or probably as long as she lives. At least this is the prevailing opinion among the apianians, though it is not without its difficulties and its doubts. If this fecundation is retarded, her eggs will all produce drones. The queen bee is essential to the existence of the colony, and when she is taken away there is as great a commotion in the hive as in a nation when it loses its reigning female sovereign. The labor of the hive is abandoned or the work of rearing a successor to the insect monarch is immediately commenced. The drone is the male bee, and several hundreds will be found in a hive. He is necessary to the propagation of the species, but adds nothing to the accumulation of the stores of honey. He goes forth filled and comes back empty, and like all such profitless members of an industrious community, is driven out of the hive soon after the swarming season is over. The life of such an idler fortunately lasts but three or four months.

THE THIRD KIND OF BEE IS THE SMALLEST IN SIZE, THE GREATEST IN NUMBER AND THE MOST USEFUL IN THE HIVE.

This bee is called the worker, and is the common bee we see visiting the blossoms. It is an imperfectly developed female, incapable of breeding. A good swarm will contain from fifteen to twenty thousand workers, which live six or seven months. The wax with which the bee builds its comb is a natural secretion of the insect, and is, in the opinion of experienced naturalists and apianians, not derived from the pollen of the flowers. It is an animal oil, secreted from honey, and twenty pounds of honey are required to be consumed to produce one pound of wax. The building of the honeycomb is carried on during the night and in bad weather, so that little time is lost by the industrious bee. The young are nourished with the bee bread or pollen of flowers, which the bee carries home on his thighs. Successful cultivators use a substitute of rye meal, by which they obtain an early breed. A hive of bees will produce in a season a hundred pounds of honey.

WE SHOULD EXTEND THIS SUBJECT TO TOO GREAT A LENGTH TO TREAT OF ALL THE INTERESTING FACTS CONNECTED WITH THE LIFE AND HABITS OF THIS USEFUL INSECT, OR THE MOST SUCCESSFUL MODE OF CULTIVATING IT—HOW BEES SHOULD BE PROTECTED, HOW THEIR HIVES BE VENTILATED, AND HOW THEY MAY BE MADE TO SWARM ARTIFICIALLY, WHAT PASTURE IS PREFERABLE, WHAT FLOWERS THEY PREFER, ARE ALL DETAILS WHICH MAY BE LEARNED BY OBSERVATION AND EXPERIENCE, OR BY DIRECTLY COMMUNICATED BY THE

skilled apianian. The gentleman above alluded to is probably an experienced guide as we have, and he has published a work in which all the facts respecting the subject desirable to be known are published. He has invented the patent movable comb bee-hive, which removes the main difficulties attending the bee keeper, gives him the control over the combs, and enables him to take them out at pleasure, without injuring or killing the bee, and the comb may be returned to the bee to be refilled. By this invention the management of the bee is so simplified, that lives may be placed in gentlemen's houses or even bed rooms, and we hear of one gentleman in this city who has them in the latter proximity. It is no doubt a gratification to be able to cultivate the friendship of this rambler among the blossoms, and be on terms of familiarity with it, though our instinctive dread would make us decline such association. Those who have no such fears, and who have the faculty of eliciting by their gentleness and kindness the good-will of every animated creature, might find it both a pleasurable and a profitable recreation, equally as excitable as politics, and not so damaging to the temper and the character. If it but diverted the mind from the harassing pursuits of life into channels where nature always breathes fresh and pure, it would be a healthy inspiration, a rejuvenation of the mental power, and a rejuvenation of the life of the individual that would lead it some of the charms of youth to accompany its age to the grave.

PEOPLE ARE PRONE TO CONDEMN IN OTHERS WHAT THEY PRACTICE IN THEMSELVES WITHOUT SCRUPLE.

Pitarch tells of a wolf, who, peeping into a hut where a company of shepherds were regaling themselves with a joint mutton, exclaimed, "What a clamor would they have raised, if they had caught me at such a banquet!"

THE FIRST ANNUAL FAIR OF THE SOUTH CAROLINA STATE AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY, TO BE HELD AT COLUMBIA, SOUTH CAROLINA, NOVEMBER 11, 12, 13, AND 14.

THE extensive grounds and halls of exhibition will be in complete readiness for the occasion. Should the weather be unpropitious the Halls will shelter EIGHT THOUSAND PERSONS. The Agriculturalists, Manufacturers and Mechanics of the Southern States are invited to send forward all articles of Agricultural and Mechanical interest, to compete for the various and extensive list of Premiums offered. The Pomologist and Florist must present the Fruits and Flowers of the South, as well as the products of their gardens. The exhibitors are especially invited to exhibit (free of charge) specimens of Household Industry, the substantial as well as the delicate fabrics of their handiwork. The Painters and Sculptors of the South must adorn our halls with the productions of their genius.

EVERY THING WORTHY OF A PREMIUM IN THE WIDE RANGE OF THE INDUSTRIOUS AND USEFUL ARTS SHOULD BE BROUGHT FORWARD.

A Steam Engine and necessary Shafting, for all sorts of Machinery, will be erected. Ample covered Stalls for Stock of all kinds, and forage arrangements, will be provided. All the Railroads in the State will transport articles and Stock for exhibition, with the necessary attendants on the latter, at the owner's risk of charge. Visitors to the Fair will be charged but one fare going and returning. All small packages of value should be sent prepaid, by Adams & Co.'s Express, as this would insure their safety. All articles for exhibition, not in charge of the owner, should be directed to "A. G. Sumner, for State Agricultural Society, Columbia, S. C.," and have the owner's name plainly marked thereon. The Annual Address will be delivered on WEDNESDAY, by Gen. DAVID F. JAMISON, of Orangeburg, S. C. Comfortable hotel accommodations, as well as private entertainment, will be furnished at reasonable rates for all who may come.

THE RAIL-ROAD HOTEL, CHARLOTTE, N. C.

THE undersigned has taken charge of the new Hotel recently erected in the immediate vicinity of the Depots of the S. C. & N. C. RAILROADS, at Charlotte, and they invite from the travelling public and the community generally a trial of the merits of their establishment. Our House will be kept in all respects not inferior to any other good hotel, whether regard be had to the table or to the comfort and convenience of the sleeping apartments. To the travellers on the Rail-Roads, this stand is particularly desirable, being near to and in full view of the Depots—and to boarders of the town, we will make it as desirable, we hope, both in regard to accommodations and terms, as any other similar establishment. No effort will be spared on our part to give entire satisfaction to all who may favor us with their patronage. KINZEL & CO.

THE $25 REWARD.

RAN AWAY from the subscriber near Ridgeway Post Office, Fairfield District, South Carolina, on about the 22nd day of June last, a mulatto negro fellow named CHAMP or CHAMPION, who is about 22 years of age, five feet or 10 inches high, high cheek bones, a stub nose, large mouth, which he inclines to keep open, thick curling lips, large teeth, full eyes, of which he has the habit of squinting when spoken to, a short chin, large and heavy feet, and when walking turns his toes outward, has a notable scar of this shape X, on the back of his neck, caused by two cuts with a lancet, has a scar also near the point of his elbow, resembling a burn, and has a general air of being a vagrant on the outside of the right leg, a few inches above the ankle joint. Any one apprehending said negro, and delivering him to me, or lodging him in any jail in the United States, so that I get him, will be paid by me a reward of Twenty-Five Dollars. W. M. THE ELOPEMENT.

They looked me in an upper room, And took away the key, Because I wouldn't marry one Who never suited me. They did not know the female heart, Or they had clearly seen That locks were never made to keep, A girl of seventeen.

They had a gilded cage in view, And thought the bird secure, Surrounded by the guards of power And every awful law. They never thought of counterplots In any one like me, And little knew what I would do, For love and liberty.

They wanted me to "marry rich," Unmindful of the means— To couple me with wealth and age While I was in my "teens." But being otherwise "engaged," No coaxing could prevail, For I preferred to please myself, And wouldn't be "for sale."

The night was dark, the window raised— How could I answer no! When that night he saw my chance, And might he stand me so. A Railroad station being near, A carriage waiting by— And such an opportunity What could I do but try?

Not being fond of solitude, It had for me no charms, While I could not get a silk-cord To reach a lover's arms. "Resolved, therefore," I would not stay To be imposed upon; So, while they thought they had me, I was "going—going—gone!"

READ THIS AND TAKE NOTICE.

I, as surviving partner of Springs & Wood, having closed up the business of said firm, I therefore notify all persons indebted either by note or book account, made at Clear Creek or Rocky River Stone, that longer indulgence will not be given, as the longest indulgence said notes and accounts have now stood too long unsettled. The shortest and quickest course will be pursued for their collection. Call at the Grocery Store of Springs & McLeod, Charlotte, or at the Store, at Rocky River, when the business will be continued, and settle the same forthwith. LEROY SPRINGS, Surviving partner.

WAIT FOR THE WAGON!

Why is it Jenkins & Taylor sell Stoves so cheap? Because they buy them from the Manufacturers.

JENKINS & TAYLOR

WOULD respectfully announce to the inhabitants of Charlotte and vicinity, that they have removed from their Old Stand, to one door West of Elms & Spratt's Grocery Store, where they have now an exhibition, just received from the North, one of the most EXTENSIVE ASSORTMENTS OF IRON STOVES.

IRON WITCH COOKING STOVE!

Which has gained such a famous reputation in the Southern Country for the last eighteen months. This Stove we warrant superior to any Cooking Stove now in use. It is simple in its arrangements, consumes less fuel, and does more work in a given time, than any other Stove now in use. We will put one beside any other Stove of the same size in the United States, and if it does not do more work in its arrangements, consumes less fuel, and does more work in a given time, than any other Stove now in use. We will put one beside any other Stove of the same size in the United States, and if it does not do more work in its arrangements, consumes less fuel, and does more work in a given time, than any other Stove now in use.

ALL KINDS OF PARLOUR AND BOX STOVES.

We have, and constantly keep an extensive and varied stock of Tin, and Sheet Iron, Japan and Britannia Ware, Brass Kettles, Cast Iron Bedsteads, Hat Racks, Cradles, &c. All of which will be sold Wholesale and Retail, cheaper than has ever been before offered in this vicinity. We would return our thanks to our friends and customers for the very liberal patronage and orders they have bestowed upon us, and they may rest assured, that we shall endeavor, by close attention to business, together with a determination to please, to merit a continuance of the same.

OUR MOTTO IS "QUICK SALES AND SMALL PROFITS."

Ladies and Gentlemen are particularly invited to call and examine our Stock. ALL KINDS OF JOB WORK Attended to with dispatch. N. B.—We will tell you why we had an advertisement "WAIT FOR THE WAGON,"—it is because we have three wagons constantly traveling through the country with Stoves, and all orders will be faithfully and promptly attended to. ROBERT SHAW

TAKES this opportunity of informing the public generally, and all who intend going to Kansas in particular, that he intends to continue the same. His stables are furnished with good horses, and a abundance of provender, and he is prepared at a moment's notice to supply his customers with private conveyances of every sort, to any part of the surrounding country. He desires to return his acknowledgments to the public, and to state that he is prepared for the future an equally liberal share of patronage. Aug 20, 1854. 51f

WASHINGTON AND A CORPORAL.

During the American Revolution, the commander of a little squad was giving orders to those under him, relative to a log of timber which they were endeavoring to raise up to the top of some military works they were repairing. The timber went up with difficulty, and on this account, the voice of the little great man, was often heard, in regular vociferations of "Heave away! there she goes! heave ho!" An officer, not in the military costume, was passing, and asked the commander why he did not take hold and render a little aid. The latter, astonished, turning round with all the pomp of an emperor, said, "Sir, I am a corporal." "You are, are you?" replied the officer, "I was not aware of that" and taking off his hat and bowing, the officer said, "I ask your pardon, Mr. Corporal," and then dismounted, and lifted till the sweat stood in drops on his forehead. When the work was finished, turning to the commander, he said, "Mr. Corporal, when you have another such job, and have not men enough, send for your commander-in-chief, and I will come and help you a second time." The Corporal was thunderstruck! It was Washington who thus addressed him!

MOUNTAIN HOUSE, MORGANTON, N. C.

J. M. HAPPOLDT, Proprietor.

THIS establishment continues open for the reception of the traveling public. Its location is in First Class Hotel, its admirable location as regards coolness and quietness, being remote from the noise and bustle of the Court Square, and the disorder of the Drinking Establishments in that vicinity; its fine Mountain views, and receiving the Mountain air fresh and invigorating, yet being near enough to the public square for any object of business, is too well known to admit of further commendation; and the proprietor has added and is still adding to its comforts and conveniences, and he hopes to merit and continue to receive the very liberal and public patronage which he has formerly had.

CARROLL HOUSE, Chester, S. C.

THIS large and splendid three-story building, now open for the accommodation of persons travelling by the cars or otherwise. The Proprietor well aware that nothing short of a well-kept House will induce a customer to patronize him, he refrains from those thousand-and-one promises which have been made only to be broken by many of his brethren, professional. He confidently hopes and trusts that he will be able to give such satisfaction and accommodation as will send him on his way rejoicing. J. L. CARROLL. Chester, S. C., Feb. 26, 1856—1f

RAIL-ROAD HOTEL, CHESTER, S. C.

By J. R. NICHOLSON. THE subscriber respectfully informs his friends and the public generally, that his house, known as the "Rail-Road Hotel," opposite the Chester Depot, is still open for the reception of regular and transient boarders and the travelling public; and that he is making every exertion to deserve and secure a continuance of the kind and liberal patronage which has hitherto been extended to him. He flatters himself that every needed arrangement has been made to promote the comfort of all who stop with him; and he is prepared at a moment's notice to supply his customers with private conveyances of every sort, to any part of the surrounding country. He desires to return his acknowledgments to the public, and to state that he is prepared for the future an equally liberal share of patronage. Aug 20, 1854. 51f

While Signor Blitz, the slight-of-hand

trickster, was in Cincinnati, one evening he had a bright little fellow on the stand to assist him in his "experiments." "Bub," said the Signor, "do you think I could put the twenty cent pieces which that lady holds in her hand into your coat pocket?" "No!" said the boy confidently. "Think not?" "I know you couldn't," said the little fellow, with great firmness. "Why not?" "Cause the pockets are all torn out."

OF COURSE NOT—We have no desire, says the New-London Chronicle, to injure the molasses trade, but we simply state the fact, that Mr. Richards, who keeps a store on the Hartford road, a few days since, found in one of his empty molasses hogsheads the body of a stout negro, who was probably asleep in the hoghead when it was filled on the plantation.

PIEDMONT Sulphur and Chalybeate Springs, BURKE COUNTY, N. C.

THESE Springs are 16 miles north of Morganton, N. Carolina, located in a beautiful Mountain Cove, and surrounded with magnificent SCENERY. From this point the celebrated TABLE ROCK, the LINNVILLE FALLS, the CAVE, and other curiosities, are accessible, and make, to and fro, an easy and pleasant excursion, and change of scenery, calculated not only to gratify but invigorate the invalid, as well as those who seek pleasure among the mountains, during the season of oppressive heat, and a relief from the disease so common to fertile regions. The superiority of these Waters has been sufficiently tried to prove their efficacy, and many broken-down, and almost wasted invalids, have been fully restored to health by their use. The waters have been analyzed by Dr. Hapgood, of Morganton, and other Physicians, who are ready to bear testimony to their efficacy in certain disorders. Those wishing to visit these Springs, by calling on J. M. Hapgood, at the most fashionable, will obtain all the information desired, as regards their curative effects and application to certain forms of disease. The Proprietor, in order that the Patrons of his Springs may have their stay
