since all the papers, records, dockets, and nine hundred volumes of the laws, were taken out of the Supreme Court Clerk' office, and burned. And this is not the only instance of the kind. I say to you again and through you to the President, it is impossible for us to enforce the laws in this Territory .- Every man here holds his life at the will of Brigham Young, and here we are without protection. I am firmly of opinion that Babbit was murdered by Mormons under direction of Brigham Young and not by Indians .-- Murder is a common thing here; and Mormons cannot be punished with a Mormon jury, witnesses, officers, and Governor to pardon. It is too cruel and must not be endured. A man, not a member of the church, is murdered, robbed, castrated and imprisoned, solely for questioning the authority of the church. Persons are now in the penitentiary, convicted before the Probate Judge, who are wholly innocent of any crime. Is there any other country where this abuse is or would be endured? Let all, then take hold and crush out one of the most treasonable

The administration have had the matter under serious consideration, and will soon appoint a Governor, who will take a sufficient military force into that Territory to carry out the laws to the fullest extent.

THE DISMAL SWAMP CANAL, which connects the harbor of Norfolk with the waters of North Carolina, is the medium of an immense amount of business from which Norfolk and Portsmouth receive a large portion of their support. Few, except those engaged in it, are aware of its magnitude and importance. It makes no noise, no show. The little vessels arrive and deliver their cargoes at the wharves, taking in return freights, and depart for the waters of our sister State without attracting the least notice from the public-at-large.

Patrick Henry was one of the first subscribers. It has enjoyed unusual prosperity and has paid the State of Virginia handsomer dividends than any public improvement in which the State is interested. Richmond Whig.

CANDIDATES FOR THE GALLOWS .- We learn that as the Express train was coming up on Tuesday last, the watchful Engineer discovered between Battles and Enfield Depots, two large logs laid across the tract just ahead of him. He made the discovery fortunately, in time to stop the train before reaching the logs, and they were thrown off and the train arrived here at the usual hour. The passengers, appreciating the watchful care of the Engineer, Mr. Tarleton, made up a purse, we learn, which they insisted upon his accepting .- Weldon

MORTON, THE COMPANION OF DR. KANE. -The name of Wm. Morton will no doubt be familiar to all who have read the account of the last Arctic expedition, under the command of the lamented Kane. This gentleman sailed to England with Dr. Kane and thence to Hayana, and now accompanies the remains to Philadelphia. Mr. Morton was born in Ireland, but left his native land at a very early age, and has now been in America about seventeen years. He first become acquainted with Dr. Kane in California, and after one voyage to the Polar Seas, joined the Arctic Expedition under House Destroyed by Fire .- We learn Dr. Kane, and sailed on the ill-fated "Adfrom a reliable source, that the house of vance." Mr. Morton was the one who volunteered with the Esquimaux boy to go North in search of the Open Sea, and after a circuitons and fatiguing route of three hundred miles, dragging their sledges over the icebergs, the great Polar Sea was discovered, and the noble Morton (in whom every one will become interested in reading Dr. Kane's account) is now the only living white man who has ever beheld the great Open Polar Sea, where cold waters roll and toss against the icebergs of the far distant North.

Mr. Morton is now but thirty-five years of age, and has the appearance of one who could well undergo the fatigues of an Arctic winter.

A "REVEREND" SCOUNDREL.

We have an extract from the office of the Enquirer, published in Paris, Lamar county, Ga., giving a description of one of the most consummate scoundrels, in the shape of a clergyman, we have ever read of, named Christopher Columbus Jones. He is said to have been residing in Paris for about a year past, where he succeeded in getting in debt to almost every man in the place, having purchased a carriage, horses and everything else that he wanted, on a credit. He not only professed to save the souls, but also the bodies of men, for he acted in the double capacity of preacher and physician. He is described, however, as having killed more than he cured, in his practice of the healing art, while his sermons were verbose, prolix and arogant .-But still he succeeded in imposing on the good people of Paris, by his profession of while the loss of time in calling a physician piety, until, on the morning of 14th of Feb-&c., is often the only cause of the loss of ruary, the citizens were astounded with the intelligence that he had eloped, during the previous night, with the wife of one of the most respectable citizens of the place! This act of villarry seems to have been the first to open the eyes of the community to the true character of Christopher Columbus Jones, who left a wife and two children behind him, while his paramour left her husband and three children! Persons immediately set off in pursuit, and, from the last accounts, were in a fair way of overtaking the fugitives.

A GRAND CRASH .- A Scotch clergyman, Dr. Cummings, has predicted the probable 'smash' of this world in June next, and as usual with such predictions, among the ignorant there is a great deal of excitement upon the subject in England and France.-The event is to be produced by a comet, an erratic member of the planetary world, so little known, that it is the height of presumption to base any prediction upon it, involving such consequences to mankind .-It is a favorite trick, however, of zealots, who try to arouse the fears rather than the reason of their hearers, to predict the destruction of the world. Yet, as it is a part of a great Creation, mutually dependent, and subjected to the same laws, and noth-"The compound saving-tincture (of green | ing yet created has ever been annihilated, coffee and camphor) is, in the respective as far as we know or can imagine, there is no reason for believing that this globe will ever be subject to a calamity which would, doubtless, be felt throughout the universe. NEVER REPRESS YOUR TEARS.

A lengthy dissertation has recently been published by a physician of France, on the beneficial influences of groaning and crying on the nervous system. He contends that groaning and crying are the two grand operations by which nature allays anguishthat he has uniformly observed that those patients who give way to their natural feelings, more speedily recover from accidents and operations, than those who suppose it is unworthy a man to betray such symptoms of cowardice, as either to groan or cry. the best and surest is to employ instantly a He is always pleased by the crying and simple pap of common soap-that is, pieces | violent roaring of a patient during the time of soap stamped with water to a kind of he is undergoing a violent surgical operation, because he is satisfied that he will thereby soothe his nervous system so as to prevent fever, and insure a favourable termination. He relates the case of a man who, by crying and bawling, reduced his pulse from one hundred and twenty-six to sixty, in the course of two hours. That some patients often have great satisfaction in groaning, and that hysterical patients experience great relief from crying, are facts which no pers n will deny. As to restless and hypochondriacal subjects, or those who are never happy but when they are under some course of medical on dietetic treatment, the French surgeon assures them that they cannot do better than groan all day and
