GO FOR THE RIGHT.

BY W. M. MARTIN. Though beauty entice you with laughter and smiles, Oh, pass them by lightly, their power deride, And go for the right, whatever betide.

Tho' wealth may allure you with silver and gold, The strength of your manhood must never be sold Bid riches avaunt ye, with power and pride, And go for the right, whatever betide.

The power oppose you with strength and with might life." Oh, ne'er be disheartened, tho' hard be the fight. Oh, never be conquered, nor ne'er turn aside, But go for the right, whatever betide.

In archives of glory your name be enrolled, In song and in story your brave deeds be told, Along with the heroes who fought and who died, Who went for the right, whate'er might betide.

FALL FASHIONS.

A New York correspondent says: The principal feature of the fall styles is the extreme brilliance of coloring and the costliness of the materials used in this respect. A great difference is observed between the present and preceding seasons. Last fall anything would do provided it was cheap enough; now, on the contrary, our merchants find the greatest demand is for their choicest fabrics.

A perfect mania appears to exist for plaids, in very high colors; and plaid velvet is a principal accessory on nearly all fall bonnets. With the rage for plaids, another fashion has been introduced, bringing into conjunction two colors never before permitted side by side, but which is now considered the very height of ha mode. This is a brilliant shade of green and bright dark blue, alternating in square blocks. They form the "42" plaid-the pet plaid of the fashionable world-indicating the colors, of course, of the 42d regiment (Scotch), after whom it is named. This plaid is imported in very rich silks for dresses, cross-barred with black velvet, and in the form of velvet makes a supurb border for black velvet mantles.

For winter bonnets, velvet is the only material used in Lyons, terry, spotted and imperial, and the most elegant styles are in a single, or a contrast of two solid colors. The decorations are simple but exquisite and extremely distinguished; rare coiffures and barbes of lace being very much used, and the flowers or feathers only slightly added here and there, consisting of the rich tropical kinds, made with the rare delicacy of Parisian art, which almost transcends nature.

Small figured black silks, with the ground very thickly covered, are considered extremely elegant; they are also imported superbly brocaded in colors. A few robes in pale lavender have been received, with flounces decorated with bouquets of flowers, brochee upon a white ground, terminating in rich

A very beautiful novelty in evening dress silks is of plain blue, green, white or straw-colored silk, with a double skirt, the upper one of which is covered with a rich lace pattern in velvet or brocaded satin. This reaches nearly to the bottom, where it is enclosed in a splendid festooned border, which also extended at intervals up the skirt, separating it into stripes. A border to match accompanies the robe to trim the waist and sleeves.

Parasols and sun umbrellas are now replaced by the most charming little sun shades, in solid colors; geen lavender, brown, and drab, ornamented with a border of swansdown or marabout, dved the same shade as the silk. The handles are very short, and the tops round and flat, with centres of glass or SHAWLS AND CLOAKS-THE "BALMORAL" Shawl.—The "mantle" shawl, with the lower corner rounded, is the novelty of the season, and the Balmoral is the prettiest we have seen of this style. It is composed of a new material in black and white check called "basket" cloth, very soft, thick and warm. A deep double border of bright plaid velvet is attached, and terminates in a thick fringe of goats' hair.

The most stylish garment for fall, especially for young ladies, is the polonaise, called in this style, very graceful and elegant shape, which fits every form, and imparts a certain air of dainty coquetrie which is wonderfully attractive. The material is dark, glossy cloth, ornamented with a border of known on day of sale. dark, rich plaid velvet on the ample drooping sleeve and rather deep-pointed collar.

Whole Potatoes vs. Eyes for Seed,-An English paper the Ipswich Express, gives the result of an experiment lately made to ascertain what would be the difference in yield where whole potatoes were used or the eyes alone, and reports thus:-"A trial has been made in the vicarage garden Coggshall, of potato eyes against whole side by side-a certain number of whole potatoes were sown a yard apart, the eyes of the same number of potatoes, of the same sort, were sown at the usual distance-equal care taken, in all respects. that the trial might be fair. The result, as shown a few weeks back, was that the whole potatoes produced in weight more potatoes, but the excess of weight was just equal to the weight of potatoes from which the eyes had been taken, which potatoes had gone into the kitchen for dressing; so that, as far as this experiment goes nothing is gained in sowing whole potatoes.

AN ETHIOPIAN COMPLIMENT TO WOMAN .-"Dey may rail agin women as much as dey like, my life found dem to be fust in lub, fust in a quarrel, fust in de dance, fust in expense, fust in de ice cream saloon, and de fust best, and de last in de helpless as we please, and a woman's arm am open to receibe us. She it am who gubs us our fust dose of castor oil, and puts cloze 'pon our helplessly naked limbs, and cubbers up our foots and toeses in long flannel petticoats; and it am she, as we grow up, who fills our dinner-baskets wid doughnuts and apples as we start to school, and licks us when we tears our trousis."

At a social meeting of his fellow-church members, among other things each member was relating his causes for joy and sorrow, when, Mr .- said: "In my family of children I have much cause to joy, and also much to distress me. There is my son, ----, a good, reverent and dutiful boy; but there is my son Bill; he is an audacious seamp. He left his poor grey-headed father many a day ago, and it has been a long time since I have heard from him; and when I last heard from him he was way up the Galeners, a raftin' sawlogs, piayin' seven up and hoss-racing; but thank the Lord, he is making money by the trip. Ain't he sister?" "Yes he is, and no mistake.

MARRYING FOR MONEY .- A gentleman lately inquired for a young lady of his acquaintance. "She is dead," very gravely replied the person to whom he addressed his inquires. "Is it possible? "Vanity" returned the other; "she buried herself alive in the And strive to ensuare you with charms and with wiles arms of an old fellow of seventy, with a fortune, in order to have the satisfaction of a golden tomb."

I tried all the remedies I could hear of, both North and South: none of them effected anything like a permanent cure, and many failed to give even temporary relief. Hearing of your Rheumatic Annihilator, as a last resort I procured two or three bottles, used it according to directions, and I am happy to certify that in a remarkably short time it has entirely cured me, effecting such a thorough cure too, that I believe there is not a vestige of the disease now left in my system. I have no hesitation in stating that your Rheumatic Annihilator is the only sure cure for Rheumatism that has ever come within my knowledge, and I believe the only reliable one ever offered to the public.
