

THE NON-SLAVEHOLDERS OF THE SOUTH.

In his address entitled "The Doom of Slavery in the Union," Hon. John Townsend, of South Carolina, uses this language:

Accompanied as that measure is to be by reducing the two races to an equality—or in other words, in elevating the slave to an equality with the white man—it will be to the non-slaveholder, equally with the largest slaveholder, the obliteration of caste and the deprivation of important privileges. The color of the white man is now, in the South, a title of nobility in his relations as to the negro; and although Cuffy or Sambo may be immensely his superior in wealth, may have his thousands deposited in bank, as some of them have, and may be the owner of many slaves, as some of them are, yet the poorest non-slaveholder, being a white man, is his superior in the eye of the law; may serve and command in the militia; may sit upon juries, to decide upon the rights of the wealthiest in the land; may give his testimony in court, and may cast his vote equally with the largest slaveholder, in the choice of his rulers. In no country in the world does the poor white man, whether slaveholder or non-slaveholder, occupy so venerable a position as in the slaveholding States of the South. His color here admits him to social and civil privileges which the white man enjoys nowhere else. In countries where negro slavery does not exist (as in the Northern States and in Europe,) the most menial and degrading employments in society are filled by the white poor, who are hourly seen degrading in them. Prominent, then, in these countries, becomes the badge of inferiority and wealth of distinction. Hence the arrogant airs which wealth there puts on, in its intercourse with the poor man. But in the Southern slaveholding States, where these menial and degrading offices are turned over to be performed exclusively by the negro slave, the status and color of the black race become the badge of inferiority, and the poorest non-slaveholder may rejoice with the richest of his brethren of the white race, in the distinction of his color. The poorest non-slaveholder, too, except as I have before said, is he debased by his vices or his crimes, thinks and feels, and acts as if he was and always intended to be, superior to the negro. He may be poor, it is true; but there is no point upon which he is so justly proud and sensitive as his privilege of caste; and there is nothing he would resent with more fierce indignation than the attempt of the abolitionists to emancipate the slaves and elevate the negroes to an equality with himself and his family. The abolitionists have sent their emissaries among that class of our citizens, trying to debase their minds by persuading them that they have no interest in preventing the abolition of slavery. But they cannot deceive any, except the most ignorant and worthless. The intelligent among them are too well aware of the degrading consequences of abolition upon themselves and their families (such as I have described them,) to be entrapped by their arts. They know that at the North and in Europe, where no slavery exists, where poverty is the mark of inferiority, where the negroes have been put on an equality with the whites, and "money makes the man," although the man may be a negro—they know, I say, that there the white man is seen seating upon the negro;—there he is seen obeying the negro as his ostler, his coachman, his servant, and his boot-black. Knowing, then, these things, and that the abolition of slavery, and the reign of negro equality here, may degrade the white man in the same way as it has done in those countries, there is no non-slaveholder in the South, with the spirit of the white race in his bosom, who would not spurn with contempt the scheme of Yankee cunning and malice.

NOT THERE.—It is said that Wm. B. Astor, when called on to make good his liberal promise of millions to Lincoln's Government to carry on the war, ineffectually backed down.

A LASSO DUEL.—A couple of Arizonians, one a native-born Mexican, and the other a boatman from the Mississippi, who had lived in Arizona about a year, fought a duel on horseback some time ago, each armed with a lasso. The American, who it was thought, would stand no chance in such a novel encounter, except the chance of being strangled, lassoed his foe at the first throw of his noose, and dragged him over the plain at the full speed of his horse, until he was mangled and bruised almost to a jelly.

GEN. SAMUEL F. CARY.—This corrupt, lying hypocrite, who travelled through the South a few years since as a temperance lecturer, and was entertained everywhere with the most unbounded hospitality and kindness, and no where more so than by the people of Asheville, lately figured in a Black Republican coercion meeting in Cincinnati, where the vile old ingrate breathed out "threatenings and slaughter" against the people whose hospitality he had enjoyed, and whose money he had fobbed.—Asheville News.

Washington is a doomed city, no matter which party succeeds in the impending conflict. It will never again be a national capital. It will never again be the capital of either a Northern or a Southern Confederacy. For the first it would be too far south. For the second it would be too far north. It would be too much exposed in either case to be permanently occupied as a seat of legislation, or as a place of deposit for public records. Without trade, without even a good climate—not situated in a fertile country, it must cease to be the seat of the Federal Government, it must be abandoned. The capital which never has been finished, never will be. Its gilded and frescoed halls are already occupied by Goths and Vandals, if indeed it be not a libel upon those noble Scandinavian races to compare them with the hordes that rally at the call of Abraham Lincoln and Wm. H. Seward.

Gen. Twiggs, late of the U. S. Army, has addressed a letter to ex-President Buchanan, in which he says: "Your usurped right to dismiss me from the army might be acquiesced in; but you had no right to brand me as a traitor. This was personal, and I shall treat it as such, not through the papers, but in person. I shall, most assuredly, pay a visit to Lancaster for the sole purpose of a personal interview with you. So, sir, prepare yourself. I am well assured that public opinion will sanction any course I may take with you."

IMPRISONMENT OF SOUTHERN CITIZENS.—The Richmond Dispatch remarks very properly, that if Southern men of Baltimore are to be arrested by Federal troops, it is time that the South should begin to retaliate. Already Rodgers and Wright, the Navy Yard incendiaries, and Gen. Harney, the bloody tyrant of Missouri, have been in our hands, and have been treated with a humanity which they did not deserve. Hereafter prisoners like these must be held as hostages for the conduct of our heartless enemy.

Suicide.—Wm. A. Lenoir of Caldwell County, committed suicide by shooting himself in the head on the 15th inst. He was subject to fits of melancholy.

THE BLOCKADE ON WHISKY.

We see by the Cincinnati papers, that whisky is selling in that market at 10 cents per gallon, and the sales are very slow even at this ruinous figure. When it is recollected that Cincinnati whisky is the nearest to be found on any portion of God's footstool, and that a half-pint per day will destroy the life of any man, no matter how robust he is, in the brief space of three months, we have cause to congratulate the Southern Confederacy, that old Abe has enforced the blockade on the Western waters. The war in which we are now engaged may be protracted through three, four, five, six or seven years. Let us place it at the lowest figure, and the Southern Confederacy saves by this blockade to fight its battles, thousands of valuable lives, which would otherwise fall victims to the deadly article distilled in and around Cincinnati. On the other hand, the Porkopolitans will not allow the article to "spile." Added to a life-long fondness for whisky, will be the cheap rates and great abundance, facilities which must greatly hasten its consumption, and thus destroy the Buckeyes and the Hoosiers by the tens of thousands. The sword and gunpowder will not prove half so fatal as this fire-water; and thus we shall see our enemies disappear like frost before the sun. Taking this view of the case, have we not abundant cause to thank old Abe for his blockade; and can we not, out of seeming evil, educe much good?

DOMESTICITIES.—If the tender leaves of the whortleberry bush be gathered and dried, a tea of most delightful flavor can be made from them, equal in every respect to the beverage produced by the veritable Chinese green tea. Sassafras can be obtained at all times and in any quantity around our city, and the tea made from this is relished by many persons. Coffee made from rye is not over bad to take. If it has any fault, it is too stimulating.

Owing to the great demand for flags the price of hunting in New York has gone up from seventy-five cents to eight dollars, and book muslin usually worth not more than ten cents now brings a dollar per yard.
