THE WESTERN DEMOCRAT, CHARLOTTE, N. C. I

THE NEW YORK BABY TRADE.

The New York Dispatch gravely asserts that the sale of illegitimate babies in that city is a large and profitable business, and so publicly carried on as scarcely to be claudestine. It says that should the King of the Ashantees, or any other distinguished cannibal, come to that city, and desire a fine, fat baby for a luxurious meal, he could be accommodated. These so-called nurseries are numerous, and may be found in different parts of the city, their whereabouts being for the most part advertised in the daily papers; the announcement being made in a manner that disguises, but does not conceal their real import. These places, the largest of which is situated in Greenwich street, answers a double purpose, that of relieveing those of the responsibilities of maternity, who do not wish to be so burdened, and bestowing upon those who wish such blessings the well-spring of pleasure, "a babe in the house." The seeker after infantile loveliness can, upon application, be accommodated to any desired extent; babies from one day to one year old are constantly on hand, or provided to order, of any type of beauty or shade of complection, and at prices ranging from $25 to $200, warranted sound and in a good state of preservation at the time of delivery.

A reporter who visited one of these baby bazaars was offered a sickly little English male infant, 17 days old, with a red, flabby skin, covered with "rash," for the unreasonable price of $30. A robust female child, four months old, was exhibited, but the reporter did not inquire the price. A baby boy, one month old, who was good and gave no trouble, was held at $75 year and a half old French boy, with fair, round limbs, hazel eyes and curly black hair, was ticketed at $150. The matron in charge volunteered the information that babies, just then, were "rather dull "

SQUANDERED LIVES. The fisherman wades in the surges; The sailor sails over the seas; The soldier steps bravely to battle: The woodman lays axe to the trees.

They are each of the breed of the heroes. The manhood attempted in strife: Strong hands that go lightly to labor. True hearts that take comfort in life.

In each is the seed to replenish The world with the vigor it needs-The centre of honest affections," The impulse to generous deeds.

But the shark drinks the blood of the fisher: The sailor is dropped in the sea; The soldier lies cold by his cannon: The woodman is crushed by his tree.

Each prodigal life that is wasted. In many achievements unseen, But lengthens the days of the coward, And strengthens the crafty and mean.

The blood of the noblest is lavished, That the selfish a profit may find; God sees the lives that are squandered, And we to his wisdom are blind.
